What Constitutes Advertising
In order to allay a misunderstanding among some as to what constitutes news and what advertising, we print this very simple rule, which is used by newspapers to differentiate between them: "ALL future events, where an admission charge is made or a collection is taken IS ADVERTISING."

This applies to organizations and societies of every kind as well as to individuals.
All reports of such activities after they have occurred in news.

All coming social or organization meetings of societies where no money contribution is solicited, initiation charged, or collection taken IS NEWS.

THE POWER OF LANGUAGE
The Urdahl lecture at the Civic club building Sunday at 3 p. m. was well attended. His subject was "The Key of Knowledge," which he asserted to be the "Power of Language."

It was a very able discourse, full of sound reason and logically approached the conclusion that the power of language is the key of knowledge, taking the thoughts of his audience to this conclusion step by step, until the theme was unfolded and their minds were open and ready for the announcement that the power of language really is the key of knowledge.

He has a fine intellectual, scientific philosophy, with the soul as the connecting link between the material universe and God, and the power of language as the force through which this soul manifests, even to the point of "saying it shall be, and it is done."

The lecture which followed Monday was "Healing." His philosophy appeals more to the intellect than the heart. Those with a Christian experience that amounts to an actual and real connection of the soul of man with the omnipotent power of God through faith in Christ, will recognize that, while his philosophy is elevating intellectually, it lacks the vitalization that comes through complete acceptance of the Bible doctrine of regeneration. His point that the power of language is the key of intellectual knowledge is well taken—language has a power far beyond present teaching of the great educational institutions of the world. Too little attention is paid to it in the education of mankind. Men and women should be taught the destructive force of negative language and the building power of positive constructive language, both as applied to character and healing of the mind and body. But sight should not be lost in this teaching of the regenerating, cleansing, uplifting force of a splendid, and if so, perfect connection of the soul of man with truth as exemplified in the leading of the Holy spirit, which perfect connection is possible only through the regenerating power of the Christ. That force transcends intellect. It is an experience.

MUSE INSPIRED BY RHEUMATISM ATTACK
Had not Denman Thompson, in 1875 then a variety artist, been attacked by rheumatism, "The Old Homestead" might never have been written. This classic, which will be seen on the screen as a Paramount picture at the Vining theatre today, tomorrow and Thursday, was originally a short sketch called "Joshua Whitecomb." Mr. Thompson, confined to his room by the malady, was unable to do his song and dance number, and he wrote the sketch, "Uncle Josh," for future use.

Mr. Julien Josephson, who wrote the continuity for this picture, is a former Roseburg man. He has a gift of providing typical situations for folks in rural communities.

Man and the Flowers.
The fragrance of plants is not for man's pleasure; it is a means of attracting insects to fertilize them. The object of many present-day florists is to improve a flower in its coloring, size and substance—in short to "paint the lily." They cannot improve the fragrance, which is perhaps the reason they seem to care so little for its disappearance under their tending.—Exchange.

FILM STARS' RECIPES

AGNES AYRES' CARAMEL CUSTARD

COOKING is a hobby with Agnes Ayres and her friends often accept her invitations to tea or dinner with alacrity because they know she will share in the preparation of the meal. Here is a recipe she uses for French caramel custard.

This consists of caramel syrup and custard, to be made in separate pans. For the custard, take five eggs, one pint of milk, two thirds of a cup of sugar, and one teaspoonful of vanilla. Heat milk and sugar. Beat eggs slightly. Pour in hot milk, add vanilla, and strain into the pan containing syrup.

The syrup is made as follows: Take four heaping tablespoons of sugar, place in a pan and add a little water. Mix well and heat until syrup is brown. Take pan out of the blaze and tilt it so that the syrup covers bottom and sides.

Set the pan containing custard and syrup into another pan containing hot water and put into hot oven. The oven must be very hot when the pudding is first put in, but lower the gas immediately to a dull blue flame. Cook very slowly until custard is set. Take it out when done, and allow the custard to boil. Custard and syrup will remain separate.

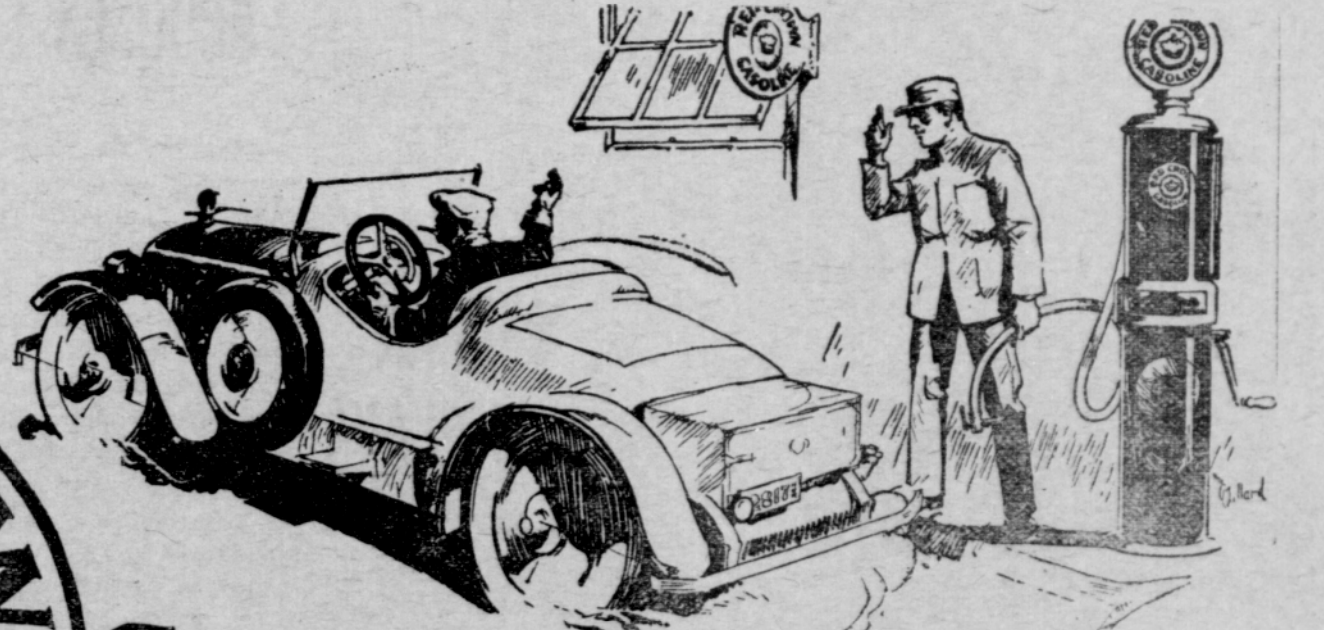

For Steaming Eyeglasses.
When going into a crowded room in cold or damp weather, eyeglasses steam so that it is almost impossible to see. If rubbed with vaseline and cleaned well, the glasses will not gather this moisture.—From the Designer.

Lake Champlain.
Lake Champlain was discovered by 1609 by Samuel de Champlain, a French explorer and colonizer, who gave it his own name. The lake is drained on the north by the Richelieu river, which empties into the St. Lawrence.
