JUNIORS AND SOPHS WIN SEMI-FINALS IN DEBATE

The interclass debates were held recently. The question debated was, "Resolved: That the recent compulsory school bill passed by the Oregon voters is American and democratic in its provisions."

The Juniors debated against the Seniors, and won the decision, 2 to 1. They had the affirmative side of the question, and their representatives were John Galey, Marion Costley and Rosie Hake. The Seniors chose the negative, and Dan Bowerman and Kathryn Pratt composed this team.

The judges for the Junior-Senior debate were: Rev. Oldfield, Mayor Lamkin, and Mr. Fuller.

The Sophomores debated the Freshmen on the same question, choosing the negative side. Their debaters were Bernard Joy, George Gillette and Riley Pittenger, while the Freshman team was composed of Homer Culbertson, Kenneth Madden and Charles Tilton. The decision was 2 to 1 in favor of the negative.

The judges were Mr. Forsythe, Mr. Hughes and Miss Blumenfeld. So far, much benefit has been derived from interclass debating, and it has proved a valuable plan for arousing interest in forensics.

WHO'S WHO IN A. H. S.

The following students have attained a very enviable record in scholarship. They have set a standard that all of us should strive to equal. We can do this only by hard, earnest study and regular attendance, no matter what the inducement otherwise may be.

The honor students are as follows: Orla Wilson, Clara Will, Marion Costley, Eugene Detrick, Kathryn Pratt, Frances Pratt, Dimple Slack, Ruth Fifield, Velma Clapp, Isabelle Silver, Arto Swingle, Edith Dodge, Rachel Jalo.

OPERETTA POSTPONED

Because of several unavoidable delays, it is impossible for the operetta "Captain of Plymouth" to be presented on the date of December 21, so it has been postponed until January 26. The cast and directors are diligently working in order that the program will be successfully carried out on the date of its appearance. To balance the chorus the following sopranos have been added: Velma Clapp, Bernice Kincaid, Ariene Johnson, Dorise Montgomery, Lola Kelly, Esther Counter, Clara Will, Alta Pickett, Lola Barnhouse and Dorothy Lamson.

APE EXPERT MONEY TESTER

Said to Be Impossible to Fool Animals of Siam With Any Counterfeit Money.

The people of Siam are very fond of keeping monkeys of various kinds as pets. Owing to their close association with human beings, these creatures become very intelligent.

One of the most remarkable things that these monkeys can do is to test money. In Siam there is a large amount of counterfeit money, perhaps more than in any other country in the world. As a consequence, the lot of the merchant is a difficult one. They have, however, surmounted the trouble to a large extent by making use of apes to test the coins. Sitting by the side of each merchant is to be seen a solemn-faced ape. Every piece of money handed to his master is at once given to the ape. The animal tests the coin with his teeth. If it is good, he throws it into the money box; if it be bad he flings it to the ground.

The strange part about the business is that no white person has yet been able to discover how the ape tells the good money from the bad. The merchants politely refuse to explain how the creatures are trained to carry out this useful office. The only sure thing about the affair is that the apes never make a mistake.

STATUES THAT HOLD SPIRITS

Buddhists Firmly Believe That Souls of Long Departed Sages Are Present in Images.

Marco Polo, the celebrated Venetian traveler, with his two uncles, was the first European to travel in China. In the gilded statue erected to his memory in Soo-Chow, China, the Chinese believe his spirit still resides. According to Chinese superstition, a fly or spider is the means by which the spirits of the dead are coaxed back to earth to occupy their statues. Five hundred similar statues, life size, line the walls of a dimly lighted room in the Buddhist temple of that ancient city. They contain the spirits of the sages they represent, devout Buddhists believe.

A spirit is unable to enter a statue unless another and freshly liberated spirit is there to receive it, say the priests. Through a door in the back of a new statue, therefore, a spider or fly is introduced. The door is then sealed and the insect is left to smother. Its spirit, fluttering about inside the statue of the long-departed sage, Marco Polo was brought back in this way, the priests say. Worshipers burn incense before the statue and seek communion with the spirit of the alien who dwelt so long in China, and even ruled as governor of one of the provinces.

Story of the High Heel.

The high-heeled shoe was introduced in the Middle ages, when both men and women took to it.

Man, however, soon found that he could not live a man's life and do a man's work while wearing high heels, and so resumed his low-heeled shoes, leaving high heels to the ladies, with whom they have always been popular.

The modern high heel is, in its way, a triumph of art, being of wood, which is lighter than leather and keeps its shape. The heel contains a spring, which adds to the grace of its wearer's walk. As the instep is raised the figure is thrown slightly forward, and a pronounced elegance is the result. But it must be admitted the high heels, though improving the appearance, do not always improve the physique of their wearers, and are frequently the cause of ill-health.

Famous Explorer.

Louis Hennepin, a French Recollet friar, missionary and traveler in North America, was born at Ath, in Flanders, about 1649. He embarked for Canada and arrived in Quebec in 1675. Between that period and 1682 he explored the regions afterwards called Louisiana, and, returning to Europe, published an account of his researches. The geographical portions of his works are feeble, but they present much interest as descriptions of the manners of the aboriginal races which the author visited. He died in Utrecht about 1706.

Chinese Have Fondness for Birds.

In addition to using birds and their nests as food, the Chinese keep birds as pets. Their fondness for birds is one of the most pleasant features of their national character. Birds furnish them with much amusement.

Several kinds of bird pets are taught to catch seeds thrown into the air after jumping from perches held in the hand. Except in winter, one can always see people going into the open country early in the morning with their pets, to catch grasshoppers to feed them, and to teach their pets new songs.

Balked at Wearing Old Costumes.

At Princess Mary's costume ball no one could be found to represent the fashion between 1880 and 1900, in the fashion parade. They were so ugly that no one would wear them! Crinolines were there, and other eccentricities of fashion before and after that period, but that time of bustles, full and heavy trimmings, big sleeves and ridiculous hats were voted out altogether; they were not even considered funny or quaint enough to be given a place in the procession.—London Times.

HAVOC IN HOUSE OF DEAD

Egyptian Mourners for Departed Break All Mirrors and the Choicest of the Chinaware.

When a member of an Egyptian household passes away, every mirror in the house is taken out and smashed, together with the choicest of chinaware to be found in the home. It is always the women who do the breaking, while the men sit quietly in a room on the lower floor of the house and smoke.

Professional wailing women go to the home which has suffered a loss as soon as the news reaches them. They are not invited, but go of their own accord, taking with them drums, upon which they beat a loud tattoo. When the family, the professional mourners and the friends are all assembled at the house of mourning, the preparing of the house in honor of the dead begins. All of the pictures are turned face to the wall, the furniture is carried into the yard, the mirrors are taken out and smashed against a stone, and the choice china suffers the same fate.

While the women wail and break the mirrors and china they beat their faces until they are black and blue, and tear their hair until they are completely exhausted. During all of this time the men have been silent, not even shedding a tear.

FAMOUS AS ANIMAL'S FRIEND

Irishman Father of Law Which Aimed to Put a Stop to Their Ill Treatment.

Richard Martin introduced into the British parliament in 1822 an act providing punishment for the "ill treatment of cattle," and by the force of his personality forced its passage as a law.

"Humanity" Martin, so named by King George IV because of his introduction and support of the law, was an Irish nobleman with immense estates in Galway.

Less than a year after Martin's death at Boulogne, France, in 1834, his original act was amended, and bull and bear baiting and cock fighting were prohibited throughout the British isles.

Two years after the passage of the act Martin organized the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Queen Victoria later giving her approval to the addition of the word "Royal" to the title. From this society originated the American Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

Hook and Eye Becomes Popular.

In the sixteenth century the manufacture of silk, which had formerly been imported from the East, was taken up in Italy, and the vogue of this lighter material created a demand for smaller and lighter dress fasteners. The hook and eye became more popular. Their manufacture was also made easier now by the application of water power to wire drawing, and from that time until the present day they have been continually in use.

The first modern improvement on all these fasteners of old were the attempts at spring fasteners made for the close-fitting gloves when they succeeded the gauntlet. About 1890 a sewed-on fastener with a spring was successfully tried out on all sorts of clothes, and the making of these little snaps has now become a world industry.

They have their place in the museum at Prague, but what a long road leads back through time from the snap fastener to the bone pin of the caverns in the Pyrenees!

Elk Teeth as Ornaments.

Indian braves decorated themselves with necklaces made of claws taken from the most ferocious animal in America, the grizzly bear. Only the squaws wore elk teeth as decorations, and they used only those from the animals killed for food and clothing. Now the white men are following the fashion of the squaws, but are paying a price that tempts the lowest characters to slaughter and waste the elk for these really worthless trinkets. A fuller understanding of the history and significance of the custom of wearing elk teeth should have an influence in depreciating the market for them and thus removing the incentive for this wanton destruction of our noblest and most valuable game animal.—Exchange.

Somewhat Odd Phrases.

"We use many phrases very glibly," said a college professor, "which have an entirely different meaning from the one we intended. We all speak, for instance, of a man being a scholar and a gentleman. It's supposed to be highly complimentary. Now I have spent the most of my life trying to be a scholar and I hope I am a gentleman, but why should we make the distinction? Another phrase insults a much larger class. It is the use of the word 'but' in the phrase, 'poor but honest.' This is a confession, of course, that it is a remarkable thing for a poor man to be honest."

Help Always Near.

One thing that never disturbs the day's serenity at Jefferson City is the refusal of locks on safes and baggage to open. Nothing is simpler than just to send up to the penitentiary and borrow a safe blower for a few minutes, when all is soon well again.—Jefferson City Democrat-Tribune.

Insurance to Make Sure

No one will deny the importance of up-to-date fire fighting apparatus. The efficiency of our fire department must always be maintained.

But after all is done in the way of preparation for fire fighting, there is a very large element of "luck" in the results, when it comes to a real test. In the Astoria conflagration, the fire loss was greatly increased by high winds and bursting water mains; when the Washington High School building burned a few weeks ago, a sweeping fire would probably have destroyed a large section of Portland, if it had not been for a little rain that came just in time to protect this property.

It is never safe to depend upon "luck" for the protection of your property, when you can get INSURANCE THAT WILL MAKE YOU SURE. Call us today.
