

LOCAL AND PERSONAL NOTES

A Daily Chronicle of those who come and go, and events of local interest.

From Hornbrook— Mr. and Mrs. F. M. Barnum of Hornbrook are in the city visiting with Mrs. Mary Wilshire. Their daughter Minnie Barnum from Klamath Falls met them here for the Fourth, and returned to Klamath Falls this morning. Mr. and Mrs. Barnum plan to return home tomorrow.

Visitors From Turlock— Mr. and Mrs. George Diesbach and sons Charles and Richard, and Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Holden all of Turlock, California, are guests at the home of Mr. Diesbach's aunt, Mrs. J. E. Crowson here. They will leave in a few days for Crater Lake and Klamath Falls then return to Ashland before starting home by way of Marble Hills and the Coast route.

Miners Like Celebration— Two old miners, grizzled, bearded and long hair, who looked like typical "49ers" were in Ashland yesterday viewing the festivities. The two, whose names are: C. W. and J. S. Cantowine, said they had a large silver mine in Arizona, near the Mexican border, but due to lack of water could not get the metal out. They said that Ashland's celebration was the best they had ever seen.

Here From Weed— A party consisting of F. Herbert and wife, with M. G. Marsh and W. L. Sims, of Weed were in Ashland celebrating yesterday. Mr. Sims lived in Ashland for a short time before going to Weed, and met many friends while here. All the party thought the celebration fine.

Return from Trip— Mr. and Mrs. J. O. O'Neal returned last evening from an auto trip. They went via Grants Pass, Crescent City and Eureka and returned over the new Klamath river highway. Mr. and Mrs. O'Neal report a delightful trip and tell us that the new highway is a wonderfully scenic route.

Clean Up Park— As a result of the celebration yesterday, five men are at work today cleaning the park grounds of paper and rubbish which was thrown there by the revelers.

From Medford— T. J. Faxon, representative of the Mutual Life of New York, was in town today from Medford. He was formerly a resident of Ashland and was a visitor in the city during the celebration.

Stand Makes $100— The stand conducted in Lithia Park during the celebration by the ladies of the Parent-Teacher association was quite liberally patronized and the members are confident that the net profit will run close to $100. The ladies are to be congratulated on the success.

LOS ANGELES MAN BUYS ANOTHER ASHLAND HOME

Another real estate transfer was reported today, in the sale of the E. F. Hatch property on Granite street, to H. H. Van Valkenburg of Los Angeles.

Mr. Van Valkenburg recently purchased the O. H. Johnson residence on North Main street, and apparently means to fix some houses to rent here.

In the winter, there is always a large demand for furnished and unfurnished houses, as Ashland schools and Ashland climate attract many people from other places and with the addition of a few houses to those available, the demand will be partly met.

The transfer of the Hatch property was made through the S. L. Allen Realty company.

The announcement was made during a speech in the Tacoma stadium just before the president's ship sailed for Alaska. He also made public several copies of letters which has passed between himself and Judge Gary.

LIQUOR SMUGGLING CHARGE FACED BY WASHINGTON MEN

BELLINGHAM, Wash., July 5.— Nineteen residents of Seattle, Tacoma, Bellingham and other Washington cities must face trial here Saturday, following their arrest at Blaine, Washington, for smuggling liquor over the Canadian-United States border in automobiles. They had been returning from a Fourth of July celebration in Canada at the time of their arrest.

LIQUOR LEGISLATION UP AGAIN IN SOUTH

ATLANTA, Ga., July 5.— An echo of the New York repeal of state prohibition enforcement law was heard in the Georgia House of Representatives here today, when Representative Arnold introduced a bill recommending the repeal of the Georgia liquor restrictions. Recommendation that the bill go before a committee of the whole was defeated, and the bill was referred to the committee on temperance.

The liquor legislation in Georgia seems headed in the same direction as that of New York, which last month passed a bill, which was signed by Governor Small, repealing all state liquor enforcement laws in New York.

AW, WHAT'S THE USE

MUSICAL PROGRAM HEARTILY RECEIVED

By John Anderson The Six Hundred in the way of braver, in their famous charge had nothing on Madame Rose McGrew and Rex and Aurora Potter Underwood in their concert which closed the Lithians "Night before the Fourth" program in Chautauqua building. Firecrackers not just the little kind that snap and crack, but the sort that make a stone quarry a place of peace and quiet; jazz orchestra down at the dance pavilion and a typically restless third of July audience, tired and wanting to go on to the next attraction made up the chain of noisy difficulties under which the three artists were forced to labor. And yet they cheerfully labored in a way that from the point of view of the listeners was not labor at all.

It is refreshing to see performers as able and as experienced as these come on the stage and play and sing without the slightest trace of affectation. All three gave their numbers with the easy grace which can only come of being natural.

The concert opened with a "Suite for piano and violin" by York Bowen. It was with this difficult number that Mr. and Mrs. Underwood brought about the transition from the first to the second part of the program. It was a number in which both the violinist and his accompanist showed what they could do—a tuneful thing and yet entailing many difficulties of execution.

Madame McGrew followed with four "Bayou Songs" by Lily Strickland. They were filled with the quaint mixture of the Creole and the negro, rather plaintive and withal delightful. The prima-donna put herself into the songs and got them over to her audience.

Perhaps the number of Mrs. Underwood's which took best with the listeners was "The Banjo Pickers" by John Powell, a Virginian, who has caught the spirit of the music loving negro with his banjo.

First there was a bit of "Dixie" in true banjo style then it went on into the negro's improvisation of the beloved tune. The pianist's fingers fairly flew and many marveled at the power of her climaxes which she brought about with such grace and so little apparent effort.

Rex Underwood just walks out to the front of the stage and plays. There is no flourish. He has poise without pose. And out of his violin comes a glorious tone. Two dances, one a California Spanish folk song and the other a Bohemian dance, and a dainty little descriptive number, "May Night" by Palgren, made up his contribution.

For a fitting close, Madame McGrew sang two songs for which Mr. Underwood played violin obbligato.

Two auto accidents were reported to the police today, the first being to a Maxwell driven by J. D. Williams of Central Point and the other to a tourist named E. Chailson. Both wrecks occurred between here and Talent.

The first, to the Maxwell occurred just outside of Talent, when the car swung around a corner, missed a bridge, and did a nose dive into the creek. The machine was badly damaged, and left standing radiator down in the creek, but no one was injured.

The wreck of the Chailson car happened near the Billings ranch about a mile from Ashland. The machine, a Studebaker, started to pass another car, which, Chailson claims, refused to give way, and crowded him into the ditch.
