JULY 24

THE WAY OF ESCAPE.—It shall come to pass in the day that the Lord shall give thee rest from thy sorrow, and from thy fear, and from thy hard bondage wherein thou wast made to serve.—Isaiah 14:3.

UNFAIR TREATMENT

There is located in Ashland an institution manufacturing products equal in every respect to the products of like plants located in other towns that is not receiving a fair deal. We refer to the Crystal Carbonating Company, manufacturers of sodas and carbonic gas, and bottlers of Siskiyou natural mineral water.

The condition is unfair to the Crystal Carbonating company and is unfair to Ashland as a whole. It again brings to our attention the necessity of being loyal to Ashland institutions and also recalls the necessity of local business men being loyal to each other.

In addition to the fact that some retailers fail to handle the products of the Crystal Carbonating company many citizens call for other drinks to the exclusion of the local product and thereby are aiding in the upbuilding of other towns to the exclusion of their own.

If Ashland is to grow and prosper as many of its citizens desire it is up to every citizen to practice loyalty to Ashland institutions. The Chamber of Commerce and Lithians could perform no better service in behalf of the city and community than to take the lead in initiating a campaign of loyalty.

BE CAREFUL WHILE SWIMMING

The untimely death on Saturday afternoon of the two girl swimmers at the White Rocks is demonstrative of the fact that greater care must be exercised by swimmers in the Rogue. No matter where the swimmer may be, there is always a potential danger.

Inexperienced swimmers should never go out alone to swim. They should be sure that there are people near who can help them if help is needed. Bad holes such as the White Rocks should be avoided for there the water is swift and dangerous.

If a swimmer feels that he needs help he should not try to fight the water alone but should call for help as it is much safer for all concerned if the swimmer can help himself to some extent, instead of interfering with the rescuer as is usually the case with drowning people.

The tragedy of Saturday shows that a pulmotor is needed. It might not have helped on Saturday, but there will still be times when it might mean the saving of a life.

Swimming is not dangerous sport if the swimmers use judgment. It is a pleasant and beneficial pastime and more people should practice it.

WE NEED MORE RELIGION

Just recently a minister speaking to a large graduating class in one of our cities, said that "a new interpretation of our religion is needed," and then went on to explain that we are living in a rapidly changing world and that it was necessary religion to be reinterpreted to meet the needs of the day.

TWO WAYS WITH AN AUTOMOBILE

Some automobile drivers try to live up exactly to the laws and regulations, but they claim every one of their rights, and they demand that everyone else also strictly obey all rules.

In the long run it is better policy for the driver to watch other drivers and pedestrians, to try to forecast what they will do, and be in a position where if they do commit some little error, he can avoid smashing into them.

ON WINKING

Wink your eyes if you would save your eyesight, says a New Jersey scientist. But what profiteth it a man if he save his eyesight and lose his life or get a mauling within an inch of it?

STOPPED HIS PAINS

"I was suffering with a severe cold, headache, backache and pains in my abdomen," writes J. B. Dring, Newport, R. I. "After taking Foley's Honey and Tar in conjunction with Foley Cathartic Tablets I was entirely relieved of my cold and pains."

Daily News Letter

LONDON, July 24.—Neither the proponents of the South nor the proponents of the North will be enthusiastic over the dramatic picture of Robert E. Lee which has been drawn by John Drinkwater.

Drinkwater's "Abraham Lincoln" was rated as a great play but the attempt of this English playwright to give the Southern side of the picture in his latest effort, "Robert E. Lee," seems a dismal failure—at least from an American viewpoint.

Lee is pictured by Drinkwater as a sort of milk-and-water sentimentalist. The South will resent this characterization of their great leader. The North will resent Drinkwater's depicting Lee as a poor soldier—for through out the play Drinkwater has Lee consulting with and taking advice from lowly subordinates.

Perhaps the success of the play is assured by the introduction of the tune "Dixie." Drinkwater in this seems to have borrowed a leaf from the book of George M. Cohan. One scene in Drinkwater's play would be saved for the Southland, for in it a Southern soldier dies with the strains of "Dixie" on his lips.

SWIMMING PARTY

A jolly group of young girls arranged a swimming party for Friday night at Helman's. They report a wonderfully good time and have plans made for a series of them during the summer.
