SACRAMENTO FAIR HAS CHILDREN DAY

SACRAMENTO, Calif., Aug. 23.—Children's Day—September 8 at the State Fair, will no doubt be the one every family is most interested in and it will be the BIG day of the fair.

The Parent Teachers and Congress of Mothers are going to put their shoulder to the wheel for this day, it is Rotary too. So watch Mr. Rotarian and Mrs. Parent-Teacher crowding to the gates with their own children and the neighbors' children. For nobody will want to go to the State Fair on that day, without at least a half dozen youngsters. That's what the Women's Bureau of the Sacramento Chamber of Commerce is saying. They'll want to bring the children's pets along too, for the big event in the morning.

And now that the Sacramento Humane Society is taking charge of the pet exhibits, its success is assured. The children's Fashion Show in the afternoon is a new unique feature that Rotarians and Parent-Teachers would not want to miss. It will illustrate by living models just what were the styles in Colonial Days and in the days of '49, and best of all, just how we like our own kiddies to look today—costumes for the sandpile—for the afternoon and for the evening, for indoor and outdoor wear.

This State Fair feature bids fair to be a permanent part of all future fairs.

WHEN HARVEST HANDS ARE SCARCE

TRAINED farm labor—and that's what is needed when the work is crushed and little time for personal instruction—is getting scarcer, as most any farmer will testify. "A large percentage of the careful farmers are planting only such crops in such acreage as they figure they can handle by themselves or with their family. "Under these circumstances, labor-saving farm devices are rapidly coming into use, because with them

PAUL MARS AGAIN HARD LUCK VICTIM

Dame Misfortune is a foolish creature for once she has a victim in her talons she is unmerciful in her afflictions.

Paul Mars, who has been hounded by ill luck recently had more misfortune thrown before him today. In trying to throw a belt in position, his right hand and wrist were caught and carried over a moving pulley in such a way that he sustained bruises and torn ligaments in his hand and wrist.

The accident occurred shortly after noon today and Mr. Mars immediately left work and drove to a physicians office, where his hand was treated. His injury is not serious or permanent but he will probably be absent from the shop several days until the ligaments and muscles have grown into position.

WESTERN TARIFF CONGRESS CALLED

DENVER, Colo., Aug. 24.—A Western Tariff Congress, called for the purpose of taking the tariff out of partisan politics and securing the adoption of a permanent tariff policy, suited to the needs of the west, has been called to meet early in October, the exact date to be announced later.

The call is signed by practically all producing organizations, chambers of commerce, banking associations and other organizations representing all lines of agricultural, commercial and industrial activity in the west. Joining with the producers in issuing the call are the governors of western states including Governor Sweet of Colorado, and other state officials are expected to join in the call within the next few days.

The movement is declared to be strictly non-partisan and in addition to its primary purpose of taking the tariff out of partisan politics, will create a medium for the discussion of the tariff and other economic issues which affect the economic welfare of western producers and will undertake to maintain the present tariff duties upon western products.

Officials of the Congress are former Governor E. M. Ammons of Colorado, chairman; Frank J. Hagenbarth of Salt Lake City, chairman of the Organization Committee, and J. A. Arnold of Fort Worth, Texas, manager.

Temporary headquarters of the Congress are located in the Engineers Building here and plans for making the Congress one of the largest gatherings ever held in the west are under way.

ROSEBURG DRIVER HELD FOR MURDER

ROSEBURG, Aug. 24.—Fred Kellington, local representative of Swift and company was indicted on a charge of involuntary manslaughter, in connection with the death of George Humphrey, Glendale merchant, who was killed on the afternoon of Tuesday, August 14. Kellington was arraigned at 2 o'clock this afternoon and entered a plea of not guilty and furnished a bond of $2,000, the bond being signed by L. L. Crocker, Clyde Ward, Perry Foster and Earl Badgley.

Humphrey was riding in Kellington's car on the afternoon of the 14th, and according to the indictment, Kellington attempted to drive his car around a curve south of Canyonville in a "reckless, imprudent and careless" manner, colliding with a south-bound automobile. Humphrey was thrown out of Kellington's machine and injuries inflicted causing his death. Kellington, the indictment alleges, was on the wrong side of the road, and because of his reckless driving, was the cause of the death of the Glendale merchant.

A bench warrant was issued shortly before noon for Kellington's arrest, and he was brought into court at 2 o'clock for arraignment. Attorney Guy Cordon, asked to have the arraignment postponed until the return of Attorney Wimberly, who has been retained by Mr. Kellington, but Judge Hamilton denied the request and proceeded with the arraignment, Attorney Cordon appearing for the defendant.

COMMISSION OFFERS CO-OPERATION TO TEHAMA

RED BLUFF, Cal., Aug. 23.—The California highway commission has agreed to expend $2,500 for maintenance of the unit of the Susanville-Red Bluff lateral just east of this city, if Tehama County will appropriate a similar amount for the same purpose.

This is the word T. H. Ramsey, Red Bluff banker, has received from Harvey M. Toy, chairman of the commission.

The offer is the result of a recent trip over the Susanville-Red Bluff road by members of the commission. Supervisor Alex McCullagh has agreed to put $2,500 of his district road money for this work.

ICE MANUFACTURE INCREASING

$300,000,000 of American capital engaged in replenishing the ice box. Value of our artificial ice production 10 times as much as 20 years ago.

It is refreshing in these not days to reflect that $300,000,000 of American capital is working overtime to replenish the ice boxes of the United States and to know that the activities of capital in contributing to this requirement of the people are steadily increasing. The latest census reports of 1921 indicate, says the Trade Record of the National City Bank of New York, that the value of the output of the ice factories of the United States in that latest census year, 1921, was $159,000,000 or 16% greater than in 1919. This increase of 16% in the value of the ice output in 1921 is the more striking by reason of the fact that the grand total of all manufacturers turned out in that year, 1921, fell about 30% below that of 1919. The value of the ice manufactured in 1921 showed an increase of 16% over 1919, while the value of all other manufactures was decreasing 30% in the same period.

estimate for the present moment, adds the Trade Record, since the 1921 census does not present figures as to capital in that year, although the census reports of earlier years state capital invested in each industry. If, however, we assume that the percentage of increase in capital in the ice factories was as great as the increase in value of their output, the 1921 capital would stand at $313,000,000 against the official record of $271,000,000 in 1919.

The success of the manufacturing industry in competing with nature in the manufacture of ice for domestic use is illustrated by the fact that the census reports of 1921 put the total value of ice manufactured in the United States in 1921 at $158,889,000 against $13,781,000 reported by the census of 1909. These figures of $158,889,000 worth of artificial ice produced in 1921 suggest that the people of the United States are now, says the Trade Record, paying considerably more than $1,000,000 per day for their ice. Experts estimate that the ice obtained from natural sources is now about one-fourth of the ice manufactured in 1921. The value of the 1921 ice crop at about $200,000,000 at the place of production, and as these same experts estimate that the "final consumer" pays fully double the cost at the place of production it is apparent that the people are now paying about $400,000,000 a year for ice, or considerably more than $1,000,000 per day the year round, while for the summer months the daily average would be much in excess of $1,000,000.

The production of ice by artificial methods began in New Orleans in the closing year of the Civil War, and steadily and rapidly advanced especially in the years following 1900. While no figures are available as to the quantity of ice still being harvested on the lakes and rivers of the country, authorities indicate that the quantity has steadily decreased since artificial production. A decade ago practically no ice frozen by the natural process was used in the southern half of the United States, since it was cheaper to manufacture it where required than to pay the cost of transporting it from the northern climate, while even the northern states where natural ice is still available are now abandoning the natural product for the artificial as is evidenced by the fact that the biggest producers of artificial ice are in the north, New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois, while the census of 1920 shows ice factories in every state of the Union except New Hampshire and Vermont. About two-thirds of the 30,000,000 tons of ice turned out by the factories of the country is produced from distilled water.
