AUGUST 30

THE PRECIOUS JEWEL:—There is gold, and a multitude of rubies: but the lips of knowledge are a precious jewel.—Proverbs 20:15.

THE BEST PREVENTATIVE OF WAR

The unfortunate truth that all human tongues are rich in inconvertible idiom is recalled by a report from Lausanne that the Turco-American treaty is to be ratified in three texts: Turkish, English and French, are that "in case of differences the French text is to prevail."

"Unfortunate" is the word, because if the linguists of state departments are unable to translate a thought it is safe to say that people will experience even less success in interpreting the precise implications of one another's speech, and that is this irreducible difference in tongues, we may discern the germ of Misunderstanding, whose issue, Suspicion is accessory before the fact to all war.

The calm prevailing on our Canadian border has been variously attributed to some mysterious form of ready-made good will, to common blood, to economic self-reliance, and to a common tongue. There is excellent reason for entertaining the last reason first. When our neighbors and ourselves are faced with a joint problem, we speak with the assurance that what each of us has to say, will be exactly understood by everyone concerned.

BUILDING NEWSPAPERS

Newspapers, whether in the small town or in the city of many thousand people, are strictly business institutions and constructed on the same business principles as are other lines in the business world. The newspaper that it not soon meets with failure, both in influence and in a financial way. The men conducting newspapers have the same desire and are inspired with the same purpose that imbue men in other lines to progress financially and become independent financially.

Lane county takes the persimmon this season for reporting the first man killed for a deer. And newspapers report that the father of the dead boy absolves the man, who fired the fatal shot of all blame. Just so long as this condition exists fool hunters will continue taking men for deer.

Those who have the interests of their own town at heart will some day learn that the only way which they can aid it in the manner they crave is through unadulterated loyalty to all its institutions.

conducting papers for philanthropic purposes and that no newspaper can attain a class higher than its field justifies, then will the quality of American newspapers greatly improve, and not before.

ASSIST THE COUNTY FAIR

There are two essentials in making a County Fair a success. One is plenty of creditable exhibits, and the other is attendance. The real success of the Jackson County Fair rests in the various districts of the county, and if each will see to it that it is well represented both with products and people there will be no question about the success of the coming exhibition, and people will have the satisfaction of knowing that they are getting the most out of an event that means an annual expenditure of several thousand dollars.

It is believed that Ashland will send plenty of creditable exhibits. There is no reason why local people should not gather in a liberal supply of premiums. To do so will mean good advertising for the exhibitor, not only but for the district as well.

The Jackson County Fair is only a few days away. Let us plan now to be represented with a creditable display of local products, and let us arrange to attend one or more days during the week. Efforts should be made to get out a good attendance on Ashland and Southern Oregon Day.

"AMERICANISM"

Real Americans love their native land, or the land that has become theirs through adoption, there can be no question of that. Indeed, the presence and degree of their affection is the test of Americanism. If it is not existent, if they do not manifest it in some way, it is an idle courtesy to term them Americans, though their ancestors may have had a cabin on the Mayflower.

Hubert Beckwith Groves, a Portland author—and, needless to say, an American—had this in mind when he undertook the compilation of his primer in patriotism, now off the press, which bears the sufficient title of "Americanism." S. C. Kohls, in a prefatory note, declares the work to be an introductory manual to good citizenship, and adds that Mr. Groves "has succeeded in writing one of the essential primers to an enlightened consciousness on the part of our democracy."

As a text book for the youthful student, or for the foreign-born seeker after citizenship, or for the refreshment of memory and inspiration, "Americanism" is well-nigh complete. The history of the flag, the significance of the Monroe Doctrine, our constitutional amendments, the constitution itself, the presidents, the principles of our governmental unity, all are clearly and simply presented, together with correlated historical incident. It suffices to observe that the author has justified the title of his work and that his book should have a value peculiar to itself.—Morning Oregonian.

The town that takes the eye of the visitor, or the passer-by, is the town with newly painted houses, well kept lawns, beautiful flowers, clean streets and vacant lots, and hospitable people. Ashland has made a good start but it is important that the work be continued without delay. Main Street and the Boulevard receive thousands of people during several months of the year. Each succeeding year will witness an increase and no better improvement can be made that to beautify every home along that line of travel. Let us make the homes along the streets forming the Pacific highway especially attractive.

The male picnickers left in a hurry. The white-robed intruders then jerked off their garbs of sheets, sat down, enjoyed the supper and then saw the girls home safely.

The "Ku Kluxers" (?) were members of another fraternity at the university who had not been invited to the picnic.

Too much ice cream, pie salads, pickles and cold drinks during the hot weather causes indigestion. Coated or furred tongue, bad breath, and sour or feverish stomach are symptoms of this malady that can be corrected with Foley Cathartic Tablets.

Daily News Letter

CLEVELAND, Ohio, Aug. 30.—The jury system—eulogized by barristers as the "brightest star in the firmament of justice"—sometimes skids in its orbit or hits a meteor and puts the whole legal universe off schedule.

"This verdict," said Judge Phillips as he pronounced sentence, "leads me to believe that no jury will bring in a death verdict in the face of any conceivable set of circumstances. It is most discouraging to officials of the law. It emboldens criminals," the judge added, declaring that he "would have felt a degree of satisfaction" in pronouncing the death sentence upon Whitfield, whom he termed a "bold and heartless murderer."

"My Personal Experience with Jurors I Have Known," as the possible title of a book, if Balliff Bruce Boutwell were to write all he's seen and heard since he has been taking charge of juries, would contain a host of amusing incidents. His duties are many and varied, for he acts as general mediator of the jurymen's personal affairs during the period they are "locked up." In addition he censors all mail sent or received by his jurymen, carefully clips all prejudicial material from the daily papers and keeps a constant vigil to prevent any possible "tampering." Valet service is even included in the balliff's manifold duties.

"I had to show three members of a murder jury—how to turn on the bath water in the hotel where we were quartered," he related.

"The expression on their faces tell plainly what the verdict will be," says Miss Helen Walk, woman bailiff for Judge Phillips' court. Miss Walk's constant association with jurymen has enabled her to "read them like a book," and this knowledge leads her to correctly predict the verdict, almost invariably.

But the price of justice is high, and if you don't believe it, just examine the bills in the office of the clerk of courts. Feeding jurors for the last month cost Cuyahoga County $1,000.

"When a case goes to the jury late in the afternoon a verdict is rarely ever brought in until 7 or 8 o'clock in the evening," says Deputy Clerk John Wainwright, who has seen it work "nine times out of ten." "Why? Because they want one more meal on the county before they begin to deliberate," he laughs.

"KU KLUX" APPROPRIATES GIRLS AND PICNIC EATS

ATHENS, Ohio, Aug. 30.—No sooner had a group of Ohio University students finished cooking their picnic supper and spread the tables than six white-robed figures appeared on the park hillside. The leader of the sepulchral half-dozen ordered the swains to start home. The vigilantes announced they would take care of the young women and see them safely home.

The Rev. Mr. George Hunter, Missionary for the Russian Bible Union, was in Ashland the latter part of last week to arrange for a meeting to present his work in Ashland.

It is very gratifying to know that the work is so gladly received in Russia. Contrary to the

SOCIETY

MRS. GRACE E. ANDREWS, Editor Phone items to her at 345-R, between 10 A. M. and 2 P. M. and evenings.

Home from Trip—Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Swenning and family returned from a trip to Diamond Lake recently. They visited the Lake first, then returned to Crater Creek, where they camped a number of days. Crater Creek is above Prospect.

No results of Mr. Swenning's prowess as a hunter materializing the family came home, but Mr. Swenning went again and just returned to Ashland last night—sans a deer.

He will doubtless go again, and with better luck, it is hoped. The Swenning's left Ashland June the thirteenth, and spent the summer traveling and visiting relatives and friends.

They toured over fifteen states, going as far east as Chicago and south to New Mexico.

After a few days' rest here at home, they made the Diamond Lake trip. Miss Millicent Pfeiffer, a niece who accompanied them on this summer's trip, left Monday of this week to attend Institute at Yreka, California.

After its close, she will go to her school at McCloud, which opens Monday, next.

Miss Pfeiffer taught at McCloud last year and enjoyed it there very much, returning to the same grade again this year.

Guests at Dinner—Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Roberts and daughter Rowena, entertained at a most delightful six o'clock dinner, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Porter of Pomona, California, who have been visiting in Ashland for some time, and Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Moss and little daughter, mutual friends.

The guests spent the evening most happily, with host and hostess. The hours sped swiftly in friendly visit and delightful music till late goodnights were spoken. Mr. and Mrs. Porter have been the motif for many a pleasant affair and their friends have enjoyed this opportunity to meet and to visit with them.

They left early in the week for their California home.

Guests Leave for Colorado—Mr. and Mrs. W. S. Howard have had as guests this summer, Mr. and Mrs. D. A. Highberger and children from Pueblo, Colorado, at their pleasant country home on the Boulevard in Bellview.

Mrs. Highberger is a daughter of the Howard's and it is a matter of very great moment to Mr. and Mrs. Howard that the Highbergers are so delighted with Southern Oregon, that they are definitely planning to return to the Coast.

While they may not locate in Ashland, they expect to settle somewhere near—perhaps in one of the Coast cities.

Mr. Highberger is an attorney in Pueblo, Colorado, and during his visit here he investigated a number of towns relative to opportunities presented.

Mr. and Mrs. Highberger left recently for their Colorado home.

Left for Spokane—Miss C. Orchard left yesterday for her home in Spokane, Washington, to be in readiness for her school work, which begins very shortly.

She has spent a very delightful fortnight visiting with her father and her other relatives—the Sanford families.

Miss Orchard expressed most heartily her admiration for the wonderful beauty of Ashland and its scenic setting.

Guest at the Simpson's—Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Simpson, 142 North Main, are entertaining as their house guest, Miss Ida Bottomley from Los Angeles, California. Miss Bottomley is a cousin of Mr. Simpson.

She has but just arrived in Ashland and will make a visit of some length with her relatives here.

Guests from Tacoma—Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Martin of Tacoma, Washington have come to Ashland to visit Mr. and Mrs. Martin of Van Ness Avenue, and Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Williams at the Martin and William's ranch in Bellview.

They are very delighted with Ashland, and its environs; they like it so well that they seriously contemplate making this their home—at least they plan to spend the winter here, with their relatives. It goes without saying that if they remain a few months that their residence will become a permanency.

A Message from Russia—The Rev. Mr. George Hunter, Missionary for the Russian Bible Union, was in Ashland the latter part of last week to arrange for a meeting to present his work in Ashland.

ley who is here visiting, the hostess—Mrs. Hilty, and little Elwood. Mrs. Hilty's hospitality is well known, and a most delightful evening is assured the favored guests.

Guests at the Kilgore's—Mr. and Mrs. Ed Kilgore of B street, are entertaining as house guest, Mrs. A. C. Duncan from Klamath Falls, who has been here some time.

Other guests, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Kilgore, and Mr. and Mrs. Merel Kilgore, relatives and who also live in Klamath Falls, are at the Kilgore home for a short visit.

Celebrate Anniversary—A very delightful way to spend a wedding anniversary was planned by the Beaver and Herndon families, who, with their
