Vacation a Good One—Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Dennis returned to Ashland last night from a motor trip to the Willamette valley. Weather conditions were ideal during the greatest portion of their outing and the State Fair was wonderful, according to their opinion. Several Ashland people were seen in Salem as well as in other cities visited. After visiting the fair the party motored on to Portland where they spent a short time and returned to Ashland. Countless friends are in the Willamette valley whom the Dennis family visited with and scores of acquaintances were at their bidding to remain much longer. Mr. Dennis and family formerly lived near Junction City and are well known there.

Grapes Are Served—In an effort to interest travelers in the grapes of the Rogue River valley, the Oxford hotel has hit upon the idea of serving a small bunch of the fruit at breakfast every morning to the patrons of the dining room. They are handed to the diners with an explanatory remark concerning them. Much interest has been aroused in the possibility for grape culture by this method.—Grants Pass Courier.

Arrived this Morning—Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Young arrived in Ashland this morning to attend the funeral of the late Mrs. Howard Fox which was held this afternoon. Mrs. Young is a sister of Mrs. Trease Lowe and Arthur Abbott. Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Hoefs and family came to Ashland yesterday from their home in Butte Falls, in company with several members of the Abbott family who expect to return to their various homes tonight.

Expected to Return—Professor I. E. Vining, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Vining and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Vining are expected to return from the Lake of the Woods today. Professor Vining has spent the summer at the lake where he has a home and has entertained his relatives there. They will probably return via Hyatt prairie where the duck shooting is in full sway.

Building Home—C. D. Woods is building a neat house on the Pacific Highway east of Ashland and will live there soon. The house, which will be used as a garage when the home will be built next summer, is fitted with many conveniences and is to be shingled on the exterior before completed.

Return to Lake Soon—Mr. I. E. Vining, Robert Vining and Ralph Vining came in from Lake of the Woods to attend a funeral of the late D. L. Minkler. They report the weather at the lake as being ideal and expect to return there soon.

New Car in Sweden—Mrs. F. D. Swedberg has been driving a sedan this week. The machine is a beauty and one of the first of its kind to grace Ashland's thoroughfare.

Attending Conference—Rev. W. J. Oldfield left last evening for Portland where he will attend the state convention of the Congregational church that is convening there now. He will return the latter part of the week in time to care for regular Sunday services.

Planned to Depart—Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Galey planned to depart this morning for Eugene and Portland. They are delegates to the Congregational conference in Portland and will visit Eugene during their absence from here.

Important Notice—The Parent Teacher Council will meet at the Civic Club house Thursday at 2 p. m. This meeting is of the utmost importance as final convention plans will be made. Every member of the association is urged to be present.

Working in Fruit—Mr. and Mrs. Forrest Boyles are in Ashland have been employed in the packing houses. Mrs. Boyles, who will be remembered as Miss Violet Wood, has been here several weeks and was joined recently by her husband. Future plans are undecided.

To Visit—Mrs. P. C. Garrett arrived Sunday from her home in Oakland to visit with many Ashland friends. Mrs. Waldo Klum will probably be her hostess during the major part of her time here, the scores of friends will vie for her pleasure.

The Tidings office for all kinds of printing.

Glimpses Into The Season Fancies

(By Miss Lithia)

Stick Your Toes—Into a warm woolen comforter, wrap your toes in a bungly outing flannel nightgown and play tag with Jack frost. Endless bright and invigorating, soft and puzzling lavender and yellow combinations stores to suggest crumpled fall with fat pumpkins, yellow cornstalks and blushing apples.

The Most Fastidious Young Woman—Will be thrown into ecstasies when she is presented a box of Whitman Samplers. Everyone knows that a Whitman Sampler is, and it's a little cross-stitch messenger boy hastening to please the palate. Individually smacks you in the face with the Whitman containers—some are in nifty little boxes, to fit the small space in fit pocket. For the spicy tempered people, mints coated and rolled again in chocolate resist the most delicious of sweets. Every box of samplers is done securely in glazed paper to insure perfect strength and renewed flavor when sold. Even the sight of these tidy boxes is almost more than one can resist.

Peated Revels—Are a revelation of small pleats and broken into with a broader spacing, that come in sand, gray, tan brown and beige were recently laid on display. Any manner of person may be fit and pleased with the trick and snug well dressed feeling that one of these new garments will give you. Athletic girls will have open sway and free access of every muscle, unhampered by hems and narrow widths. Short girls will be made taller and slender and who denies the charm of the growing youth. Ask your dealer to see these well made garments and relieve the pain and sorrow of a dressmaker, the long spasms of fitting and heart ache when the finished product doesn't have "that tailored look" that you so adore.

Save a Model Toilet Set—In ivory or amber or imitation shell for the last minute friend. Sets containing every piece of the known toilet outfit may be purchased at prices ranging from $75 to $15. Wonderful outlays of feminine approval await your inspection just before Christmas when these sets will make their appearance.

Jacob's Coat of Many Colors—Hasn't been exactly duplicated but so many of the luxurious colors have been taken out, added and blended that when you see the prettiest fall and winter sweaters and sweater coats, you'll delight that you've found the foot of the rainbow. Any summer's earnings will compel one of these fascinating and intricate beauties to your wardrobe. Some have buttons far down on the hips, some have tight necks with Peter Pan collars, others are plain slips with color scheme worked in arrows and ducky figures.

With Your Early Fall Hat—You will undoubtedly need gloves, Chic kid gloves with fancy cutwork and gay cuffs will portray your good taste. One new pair is in black, stitched heavily in white and display a white kid cuff with narrow black bandings. Darker shades of suede are used to enhance the more practical models.

The Day Has Passed—When cut glass was used for table service only. Bud vases that are highly decorated and hand carved will elaborate a necessary space on the mahogany dresser table. Fancy extra pieces of cut glass will give you a testing suggestion for the home maker.

Handbags and Purse—That wear forever, made in hand made calf skin with interior lovely enough to be turned and carried on the right side fitted with suede linings, small purse and mirror may accompany any gown or frock on any occasion where a coin purse is needed. The leather straps are sewed in contrasting dark calf skin in crafty finishings.

Stick Your Nose—A White and Pink Checked—Sweater will be just the thing for the first football game of the season, when you wish to be decked in the autumn's rosiest persuasion.

Former Resident Returns—S. B. Stoner from Los Angeles returned to Ashland during the week-end. Mr. Stoner is a property owner here and came primarily to arrange for business matters. Owing to failing health, Mr. Stoner moved to California, and it is reported that his health is much better as evidenced by his looks.

En Route to Seattle—Mrs. A. B. Johnson visited a short time Monday with her sisters Mrs. Jennie Churchman and Mrs. W. C. Mitchell. Mrs. Johnson was en route to her home in Seattle after a trip to California, having passed through Ashland recently, promising to remain longer here on her return. Other plans prevented her doing so.

Daily News Letter

DUBLIN, Oct. 3—Many Irishmen who did not mind a bit the drastic measures taken by the Free State to curb the activities of the Republicans are very much perturbed because the Cosgrave government has decided to enforce the collection of income taxes. There is considerable feeling that the Government is "going too far."

The matter was brought sharply to public attention when an income tax dodger was cast into Mountjoy the defaulter persistently had refused to "come across" with his income tax, so the collector invoked the more drastic provisions of the law and had him incarcerated.

Now a lot of Irish citizens are beginning to see visions of themselves in durane vile for a similar offense and there is much agitation about it.

The habit of paying income tax could hardly be said to have taken a deep root in Ireland. In the days when Great Britain controlled the government non-payment of income tax was viewed in the light of a "patriotic duty." To pay the tax was regarded as giving aid to the "enemy." There came to prevail throughout the country a rather scrupulous disregard for the income tax.

When the Free State came into power, however, the government not only undertook to collect the current tax but also made efforts to impound certain arrears of taxes dating back to the days of the Black and Tans. This was a jolt that the Irish taxpayers had not been looking for, and their displeasure was greatly in evidence.

There is little doubt that the stand taken by the government with regard to the income tax was a factor in the recent elections. Many voters undoubtedly carried their resentment to the polls, and the Government lost votes in consequence. Even supporters of the Free State government have not looked with any degree of favor upon its efforts to collect the income tax, many held the view that the country was still in an unsettled state, with the Republicans still a factor to be dealt with, and that therefore the matter of income tax collection was one that the government could well afford to overlook for the time being.

Now that the government has shown its hand by the arrest and jailing of a delinquent taxpayer those who have regarded the efforts to collect income taxes with an air of detached tolerance have been given a painful shock. It remains to be seen what success the government will have, particularly in the matter of collecting arrears of taxes that are a heritage of the days when tax collectors of the British Government were objects of amusement to large sections of the Irish population.

CREME FRANGEINE Creme Frangeine is one of the most unusual of French cakes, it makes an appetizing dessert.

Put into a casserole the yolks of three eggs and one whole one, about one-fifth of a pound of sugar and the same amount of flour. Add gradually, stirring in one-half pint of boiling milk flavored with vanilla. Add a good spoonful of butter and cook until it thickens.

Pour the cream into a pastry mold as for cream pie and brown in the oven for a few moments. If desired, before serving, spread with a thin layer of jelly.

NEW MILK METHOD Milk pasteurization by electricity has been found superior to the old steam method. The chief objection to the steam process has been that it altered the taste of the milk and its vitamin contents. To kill bacteria by the old method the milk had to be heated and kept hot for a half hour or more. The electrical process does away with all this. The milk is only slightly warmed, passed in thin streams between two electrodes and electrically heated. This new method of pasteurization prevents the cooked flavor and does not interfere with the vitamin value of the milk.

PARIS STYLE HINTS

Neck-lines Neck-lines—If there is still some doubt as to the proper position of the waist-line, Paris designers seem to have at least made it clear about the neck-line of the season.

The old batteau-shaped neck opening that has been enjoying so much popularity has about disappeared. Only one and then does not spy it in the new collections, and then usually in linen or organdie.

The "V" neck seems to be the chosen one. Some of the houses give it definite outlines, others drape it. Round openings are also very much used, together with small square ones with a rounded back.

Lenief is one who favors the round neck cut just at the collar-bone, a style which is becoming to many women and especially to the ill-favored ones with too little flesh covering at this particular point. On his velvet frocks he puts a narrow border of embroidery or fur and continues it down the side in Russian blouse manner.

The Persian neck is a specialty of one of the smaller houses and is one of the prettiest to be seen. It is round, cut off to a slant on the side, giving a most becoming and youthful finish. Yvonne Davidson uses it on a charming silver-gray silk tunic gown. The neck is bordered with the same fine gold thread embroidery which trims the gown and is finished off with a narrow triple-colored tie in green, gray and silver.

Many of Chanel's little crepe de chine frocks have narrow bands attached to the bodice and standing up across the back of the neck and then brought around and tied loosely in front where the bodice is low. Often the order is reversed and the band ties in the back.

Evening gowns are cut low in the back and high in the front. Many, in fact, have no backs at all, with the material coming straight up to the neck in front.

TOO VERSATILE Joe Rank of the Atchinson Kans. Globe says a reporter who recently accused of having a "lazy man's job," is in about the same position as the woman who follows the following: "I can cook an A 1 dinner, milk cows, and drive horses, tap trees and make maple sugar, prune grape vines, and graft apples, plum and cherry trees, have planted and gathered an acre of corn, have shingled the roof of a house run the mowing machine. I can do all kinds of house work, paint and paper a room, build a cupboard and hang a door, set glass, can knit anything, cut and make clothes for men and women, braid rugs and also weave carpets, do bead weaving. I have crocheted five bed spreads. Can care for the sick. I can travel on snow shoes or skis, catch fish and row a boat, shoot at deer or rabbit. But—I cannot keep my mouth shut, being a woman. Con. sus says, "No occupation."

BOYS INGNITY HELPS In a little Church in Vermont an old reed organ with pedal operated bellows was drawing its last breath. Nothing, it was said, could save it but an up-to-date electric blower. The church was small and the congregation poor—the electric blower was expensive and so necessity again proved the mother of invention. An enterprising youth interested in electricity was given a chance to experiment. He borrowed his mother's brand new vacuum cleaner hose, making an air-tight connection, and the organ has been doing well ever since.

ZEV AND MY OWN TO MEET IN MATCH RACE New York, Oct. 2—Zev and My Own, favored 3-year-old horses to represent America in the international race for $100,000 with Papyrus, English champion, will race at Jamaica, Long Island track, Saturday, to decide which horse shall meet the English colt. It was announced late today by Sam Hildreth trainer of Zev. The American and British champions will meet at Belmont Park track October 20.
