HUMILITY OF CHRIST:—Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus. Let nothing be done through strife or vainglory; but in lowliness of mind let each esteem others better than themselves.—Phil. 2:5, 3.

"NEW ENGLAND IN THE SADDLE"

This possible cry by the Democrats in 1924, while it may be politically correct, also, is explanatory of age, development, growth, mentally, socially, industrially, economically, and psychologically of America's oldest inhabited and historical section. That New England is in the saddle in Washington, the White House, Senate and House of Representatives and strongly entrenched in the Supreme Court, is not accident or happenstance, or luck. The President is there, made possible by a preponderance of delegate votes which thoughtfully established him in the position accessible first to the presidency should fate intervene.

Senator Lodge and others are chairman of various committees of Congress by seniority of service. This seniority of service is emblematic of an established and long grounded state of mind. A state of mind which has been 250 years in the making. A state of mind which has followed definite lines of thinking, has followed precept on precept—in fact it has become tradition.

New England is in the saddle in Washington because of this thinking which has sent these saddle-occupants repeatedly back to Congress. That has established the length of service which is a tradition—tradition is a fetish in New England and Washington—and the rewards of it are shown by the number of seat holders. The seniority rule in Congress fundamentally is the same principle as priority in water rights in irrigation districts of the northwest; first come first served.

In the west, the Pacific coast states especially, Hiram Johnson has the longest service record. Compared to Lodge and some others he is an infant in service in Congress. The west cannot hope to have many seated in the saddle for one-half or three-quarters of a century, at the least, whether Republican or Democrats. The west still is in a state of evolution, industrially, socially and economically. With the swift changes in social, economical and industrial enterprises, develop accompanying political changes, which having human factors, necessarily change as successive exponents of these champion the northwest's necessities for development.

SHOULD THEY ESCAPE

From certain quarters in this community almost daily comes propaganda against the state income tax. In whose behalf is this propaganda? Not the realty owner Not the farmer. They are already paying nearly 80 per cent of the taxes.

This propaganda is not in the behalf of the wage-earner or average salaried man. Most of these do not receive enough income to come under the income tax. A married man with three children on an income of $3200 a year would pay no income tax.

In whose behalf, then, is this propaganda? Chiefly, of course for the benefit of persons enjoying large incomes, some of whom have incomes on investments that are non-taxable.

There are men in Portland who made very large fortunes out of the war. They got rich quick during the war while Oregon lads fought and died at $30 a month in the trenches.

Their over-night fortunes are in securities that are out of sight and cannot be reached by the tax collector, and they are spending some of their easy war money to beat the income tax bill which the legislature passed by a large vote.

Should they escape taxation?—Oregon Journal

HOMESPUN PHILOSOPHY

Sympathy is the "Balm of Gilead" that soothes our grief, the cement that binds together the fragments of a broken heart and heals the wound. It is the ray of sunlight that penetrates the dark caverns of sorrow and drives away their gloom.

Sympathy is the spirit of Jesus manifested within us, going out to others and binding us to one another with the ties of friendship, understanding and affection. It is the gossamer cord of love drawing us closer together. Through its gentle wooings we approach one another in unity of thought and a more kindly spirit of fellowship which will ultimately pulsate in the bosom of all humanity everywhere. By its gentle cords the entire world is made to feel and understand relationships to one another, and without soothing and pacifying influences this earth would be a spiritually dark and lonely place for us to occupy and make habitable.

West Indies' News Service Is American

Lord Burnham (portrait herewith) recently in the house of lords, broached the subject of the Americanization of the West Indies. According to present means, all the news published in West Indian newspapers is supplied by American news agencies. Discussion in the house of lords was held on the subject and the government was asked whether the West Indian colonies would be represented at the forthcoming imperial conference and whether the question of maritime and telegraphic communication with that part of the British empire would be considered.

England gets quite excited every now and then over the idea that the United States may get possession of the British West Indies. American statesmen have talked a good deal on the subject, their idea being that America should have them in order to protect the Panama canal.

The imperial conference is to be held in London in October. There are three main subjects to come before the gathering—imperial defense, imperial preference, and better means of perfecting communication between Great Britain and the dominions. The dominions seem to regard the third subject of great importance.

STRANGE NEW COLORS GLOW IN AUTUMN'S MILLINERY

In all the colors of the autumn woods and in many shades not familiar to us on land or sea, the fall styles in millinery have made their appearance and now await the final decision of popular choice. Shapes are apparently in a period of transition from the omnipresent poke of late summer to the slightly drooping and off-the-face types such as are pictured in the models shown here.

Shirred velvet, in a beautiful golden brown, forms the facing of the model shown at the top of the group. The crown is covered with black satin and trimmed with a jet ornament and an ostrich fancy which falls over the shoulder. The model at the extreme right shows an attractive tricorn shape made of shirred and corded satin and trimmed with a mouture of burnt goose. The little hat shown in the center borrows from both summer and fall styles. The duvetine brim is faced with satin and bound with narrow velvet ribbon and combined with a cap crown of duvetine. The trimming is a collar of narrow ribbon and a huge bow of double-faced satin and duvetine ribbon. The hat in the oval picture a smart little shape in satin solid with a draped crown and braided brim. Its only trimming is an arrow of brilliants.

Colors for fall include all the wood tones of brown, as well as a number of new reds and greens. Chenille embroidery on tan and mushroom shapes is a very late addition to the mode and is particularly attractive on a background of black or subdued color. Ribbons and feathers are dividing honors as the favored trimming on dress hats of black satin. Where embroidery is used as the main decoration of the hat, it may follow the inspirations of China, Persia or Egypt with equal propriety, since all of these sources have been called on in designing new fall styles.

Portland Resident Gives Amazing Facts

"Fifty years of almost constant suffering from stomach and liver trouble was ended for me by the Tanlac treatment about a year ago, and now I feel like a different woman," declares Mrs. M. Huber, 1021 Tillamook St., Portland, Ore. "Ever since I was a girl I had suffered from terrific headaches, nausea, torpid liver, sharp pains in my right side and general weakness, and my condition went from bad to physical wreck. The almost unbearable pain and long periods when I could hardly sleep a bit, made me think I would never get well. "Six bottles of Tanlac rid me of every sign of stomach trouble, stimulated my liver; headaches, nausea and pains in my sides suddenly ceased, and I sleep like a baby. In fact my whole system is like new. Tanlac made me well and keeps me well."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold. Take Tanlac Vegetable Pills.

HOW TO HOLD A HUSBAND

Lean on him, coos the clingy one. Dress won him, says the stylish spouse.

Feed him well, hints the home-body. Flirt with him, chirps the coquette. Love him says the tender help-mate.

Boss him, orders the hefty woman. Flatter him, whispers the deceiver. Understand him, says the soulful one.

But the wise, wise woman knows you have to do about all of these things to hold a husband, and even then it's a gamble.

SHE SUES FOR A MILLION

Stokes, the New York hotel owner. Young Stokes, called "Weddie" by his father, named as one of several correspondents in Stokes' New York suit to divorce Mrs. Stokes, has lived for some time in Chicago.

SMALL CAKES AND COOKIES

A Scandinavian cake which once tried will be a cherished recipe is prepared as follows:

Fattigman Bakes. — Beat two eggs until light, add one tablespoonful of sugar and three tablespoonfuls of cream, mix well, then stir in one and three-fourths cupfuls of pastry flour; when well mixed roll very thin. Cut into diamond-shaped pieces with two slashes in the center of each. Fry in deep fat, drain on paper and dust with powdered sugar before serving.

Maple Doublets.—Take one cupful of maple syrup, three egg yolks well-beaten and a tablespoonful of melted fat. Add three cupfuls of pastry flour, one-half teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder all sifted well together. Now fold in the stiffly beaten whites. Drop on baking sheets far enough apart, as they spread in baking. Drop by teaspoonfuls. Bake twelve minutes and put together in pairs with maple fondant or fudge between.

Filled Cookies.—Take one-half cupful each of shortening, brown sugar and molasses, one egg, one-fourth of a cupful of sour milk or buttermilk, one teaspoonful each of soda and baking powder, one-half teaspoonful of salt, one teaspoonful of cinnamon, one fourth teaspoonful each of cloves and nutmeg, three cupfuls of pastry flour sifted well with the dry ingredients. Mix well, roll out very thin and cut into strips two inches by four. Spread lightly with filling and fold over to form a square. Filling: One-half cupful each of honey and broken butter-nut meats, a teaspoonful of flour and a few grains of salt. Bake in a moderate oven twenty minutes.

The ideal washcloth for baby's bath is the one made of three or four thicknesses of gauze, bound around the edge with a soft ribbon or worked around with a soft-finished crochet cotton.

Old-Age Relief in Alaska. Alaska has an old-age pension system which includes a home for the aged, indigent Alaskans. It disburses monthly pensions of $12.50 to men and $25 to women without cost of administration, and maintains its home with only two salaried officials, a superintendent, who draws $3,000 annually, and a secretary, on a nominal salary of $50 per month. The supervision over pensions and the home is carried out by a non-salaried board of trustees, of which the governor is chairman.

Sure Thing. The faculty of Hollywood High is still looking for a certain young man whom they firmly believe may some day be president.

It happened in the auditorium, where one of the teachers was lecturing on California reptiles, regarding one of which he remarked, "this snake is said to strike with mathematical precision."

SALT BRINE EMPLOYED TO TEST WATER SPEED

NEW YORK, Oct. 8.—An ingenious method of determining velocity of water under circumstances, so essential in calculating hydro-electric developments, has been devised by Professor C. M. Allen, of Worcester, Mass., according to an announcement by the Engineering Foundation of New York.

Salt brine, which has a higher electrical conductivity than pure water, is injected into the stream at a given point. Electrodes placed at known distances register the passage of the brine, while stop watches indicate the length of time elapsing. The net result is the rate of flow.

S. J. Schuerman of Portland is among late arrivals.
