Pacific International Live Stock Exposition

A huge building! It covers ten acres of ground. It takes a lot of time to walk all over ten acres, but the Pacific International is so full of interesting and fascinating exhibits that nobody gets tired. Or if they do, it's a "happy tiredness." Not only is it the largest building of its kind in the world, but its arrangement is ideal. The great arena where the judging is done in the daytime and the horse show held at night, is in the center. In front is the beautiful Industrial Exhibits divisions, 728 feet long and 120 feet wide—filled with a bewildering number of exquisite displays. On the other sides of the arena are ranged the beef cattle barn, the dairy cattle department, sheep and goat department, poultry, horses, and two big auction sales rings in the corners.

The Pacific International Live Stock Exposition is recognized by livestock men everywhere as one of the most important institutions of its kind in the world. It is held in Portland, Or., November 3-10 inclusive. People come across the continent to see its attractions—the finest livestock in the world. This is an opportunity to visit and learn and enjoy, close at home. You could travel all over the United States and see no better exposition.

The pride we take in the Pacific International is justified. It is ours, and it indicates what kind of people we are—the best.

SEASONABLE GOOD THINGS

Now is the time to put away goodies for the winter, while the markets are flooded with all kinds of fruits.

India Chutney.—Take 15 large, sour apples, two green peppers, one cupful of seeded raisins, two good-sized onions, one quart of vinegar, two tablespoonsful of mustard seed, the same of ground ginger and salt, and two cupfuls of brown sugar. Pare, core and chop the apples together with the peppers, from which the seeds and membrane have been removed, and the onions. Add the raisins and vinegar and put into a kettle and simmer for two hours. Add the sugar and seasoning and cook slowly another hour. Seal in glass jars while hot. This recipe makes about five pints.

Peach Chutney.—Take two and one-half pounds of fresh peaches, one and one-quarter pounds of evaporated peaches, one-half pound of seeded raisins, two tablespoonsful of red chili powder, one small onion, one-half cupful of mustard seed, one-half pound of green ginger, one and one-quarter pounds of brown sugar, one quart of vinegar and one-third of a cupful of salt. Soak the evaporated peaches several hours in water to cover, then cut into small pieces. Peel and cut the fresh pieces. Put the onion and ginger root through the food chopper. Boil the peaches in a pint of vinegar for one-half hour. Make a sirup of the sugar and a pint of vinegar for an hour, stirring frequently until thick. Seal while hot in preserve jars. This makes eleven cupfuls.

Pickled, Spiced Onions.—Peel small onions and cover with hot water and salt, making a strong brine. Let them stand twenty-four hours, drain, cover with another hot brine. Next day drain, make a fresh brine, heat to the boiling point; add the onions and boil three minutes. Drain and put the onions into jars with bits of mace, bay leaf, cloves and slices of red pepper.

Tanlac Stood Test When Others Failed

"Tanlac relieved me of stomach trouble after everything else had failed, and I can't say too much for it," declared Finis F. Amick, 605 Sixth street, Portland, Oregon. "For years I had indigestion, and finally got to where I didn't feel like working or doing anything. I didn't have any appetite at all, suffered from constipation all the time, and always felt so tired an droggy it seemed that I had no energy at all. I tried everything that was recommended to me, but nothing did me any good. "Finally I started on Tanlac, and on my first bottle I noticed a big change. I kept taking Tanlac and kept improving, until now I am in better health than for years, and feel full of life and energy all the time. My appetite is fine, and work doesn't tire me any more." Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 37 million bottles sold.

Summer conditions among office workers are much more healthful, with open windows and fresh air circulating, than in winter when ventilating agencies are closed and the air becomes hot and stagnant, says a medical observer.
