Daily News Letter

NEW YORK, Oct. 15.—In addition to its Little Italy, Ghetto and Chinatown, New York has a real, colorful Bohemia which in every respect outshines, or "out Bohemians," the sham section, miles removed from it in actual distance and mode of living, and which is better classified by prefixing "Ho" to the bohemia.

Beginning at Sheridan Square, in the lower part of Manhattan, and extending for a number of blocks east, south, and west, is the Bohemia with which most visitors to the metropolis are fairly familiar. This section is all make-believe, a commercial Bohemia to attract the presence, patronage and pennies of the curious and wayward. Its habits are no more Bohemian than its residents and promoters. It is "Hobo-hemia."

But in the upper East Side, starting at Fifty-ninth street and thinning out in the Eighties, with Third avenue and the East River as its other boundaries, there is a true Bohemia, with its picturesque inhabitants, real Bohemians, natives of Czech-Slovakia—the original Bohemia.

An excursion into it is a revelation. There is no mistaking the motley-shawled women, beautifully complexioned girls and oftentimes gypsy-garbed children. The shops and place of entertainment reek of the "old-country". Names are unpronounceable tongue-twisters, and the languages spoken are for the most part Czech and Magyar. The younger generation, of course, is sufficiently Americanized to speak English—or perhaps it would be more appropriate to say—speak New York.

The bona-fide Bohemia is a delightful slum, clean and intent upon its own business. It doesn't smell of pickles, like the Ghetto; of garlic like the Italian quarter; or of garbage, like both. You can walk around in it without being overcome by flagrant odors or lack of conventions.

The atmosphere of this colony is distinctly Bohemian of the romantic type and is attracting ambitious young artists. Here, where it is possible to live on ten dollars a week, they manage to get along without commercializing their souls.

Little Czech-Slovakia is a model segment of the fantastic Old World.

To defeat the fraudulent motives of unscrupulous members of their own sect who are taking improper advantage of the religious precepts which the orthodox are bound to observe, Jews of the Bronx have organized a corporation which now operates a chain of ten kosher shops.

Explaining the purpose of the corporation, its president, Rabbi J. Neulander, of the Cheva Bachunin Temple, said: "It is commonly known that half of the Jewish butchers in the city are selling ordinary meat as kosher meat and demanding kosher prices. The faithful are being cheated, and to eliminate this the corporation was formed. We do not want to see the orthodox Jews imposed upon because of their adherence to religious teachings."

Electric-sign advertising in the "White Light" section of Broadway is valued high. Nightly a fortune is consumed by the myriad lights, but the message has been flashed to thousand, and the advertisers eventually reap the benefit.

The value of electric-sign space in this gay section of the metropolis is saliently exemplified by the fact that the entire second floor of the Broadway-Claridge Hotel, in the Times Square district, has been leased to a sign company, which is now erecting a huge sign on the Broadway side of the floor. The rental price has not been revealed, but it will undoubtedly pay the entire rent of the floor, plus what can be obtained for the floor space, which can be utilized for storage purposes.

This is true of several buildings in the Times Square section. It has been found more profitable to block off the light and air of the floors above the street level and rent them as electric sign space than rent the floor space for commercial use.

SALEM, Oct. 15.—Raleigh Matthews, held in jail at Medford for the unlawful possession of intoxicating liquor, was detained there without legal authority, according to an opinion written by Chief Justice McBride and handed down by the Oregon supreme court here today. The opinion ordered the immediate release of Matthews. A dissenting opinion was written by Justice Brown.

NARCOTIC DEALERS SLOW IN FILING THEIR REPORTS

PORTLAND, Oct. 15.—According to a survey made today by Collector of Internal Revenue Huntley, covering registrants who hold permits under the federal government to manufacture, dispense and use narcotics in the Oregon collection district, it was found that there are practically 2,000 of such registrants of all classes in this district.

It was disclosed by this report that there are in this district approximately 130 delinquent registrants who have failed to file the necessary return and receive authorization for the manufacture and administration of narcotics under the Harrison Narcotic Act.

Collector Huntley warned such delinquents that the mere fact that they held no narcotics in their possession did not relieve them from the necessity of properly registering.
