JUDGE WATSON TELLS OF TRIP

Los Angeles a Daring, Rushing, Cosmopolitan City Dealing in Figures of Millions.

Fertile Fields Become Forests of Oil Derrick, Inviting Quakes—Discusses Shale Oil.

Judge C. B. Watson, pioneer Ashland resident who returned a few days ago from an extended visit to points in southern California, has favored the Tidings with an interview of extraordinary interest relative to his observations of activities and conditions in the southern district of our sister state. The Tidings knows the interview will be of decided interest to readers and presents it in full:

Los Angeles is a phenomenon; perhaps the greatest spectacle of city growth in the world. Forty three years ago I was there at which time they claimed a population of 12,000 people; to day they claim a million and I am not inclined to dispute them.

I saw a statement in the last Sunday's issue of the Oregonian that Los Angeles is placed third in the issue of building permits for September for all of the great cities of the United States. New York comes first with $34,000,000, Chicago second with $27,000,000, and Los Angeles third with $14,000,000. If we consider the relative populations, giving Los Angeles one million inhabitants it stands immensely in the lead of both of them.

It is a moving picture show in continuous performance. It is rapidly being connected up with all the towns of Southern California that are also building at the same rapid pace. It is becoming a manufacturing city also and is reaching out into the industrial world for supremacy. They have set their peg to rival Chicago, New York and London, and with their pep and that ambition, if they do not flunk they will make good.

Their great need is water, for their sandy deserts will produce anything with irrigation. They now draw their water from Mt. Whitney in the high Sierras, 250 miles away and only need to increase their conduits to accomplish their purpose. Expense has no terror for them. They talk and operate in millions and seem to possess the Alladin lamp which they rub constantly. No line of energy is neglected by them; they rob banks in broad day-light with the sang froid of Douglas Fairbanks performing a movie stunt on the screen; pockets are picked while you swing to a strap in the crowded street cars; divorces are granted in bunches like the wholesale of tooth-picks.

Is Cosmopolitan
It is wonderfully cosmopolitan and you rub elbows with the denizens of every country on earth. The conditions conduce to the accomplishment of every crime in the catalogue, perpetrated in the most spectacular way.

Their so-called rivers are without water and their mountains are without forests or forest floors, so that when they have their torrential downpour of rain the river channels prevent a Johnstown catastrophe by directing the floods to the ocean hard-by.

They plant their groves of oranges, lemons, olives, walnuts and other fruitful plants in the sand, give them borders of palms and other tropic growths, then water.

DRY SPELL LOOMS; LIQUOR CAPTURED

Reports from Crescent City forecast a rather dry spell for certain individuals in Grants Pass, says the Courier. Sheriff Jack Breen has notified the local sheriff's office of the capture of a consignment of some 50 gallons of "white mule" destined for consumption in the Rogue river valley. The liquor was taken in a Ford car presumably owned by a local man. With the liquor was found a still of 50 gallons capacity which was used to turn out the moonshine. The outfit was located between Monumental and Crescent City.

According to the information received, the liquor was contained in kegs of five to twenty gallons capacity. The men were taken back to Crescent City where they will be tried in the Del Norte county courts. The coast officers state that the evidence is so strong that they expect to send the men up for a long term and also to stick a heavy fine on them.

Convention Moves to Ashland
Ashland is being hostess this afternoon and department conferences, with talks from Mrs. F. J. Kane, Miss Margery Smith, Dr. Estelle Ford Warner and Miss Margaret Devereaux, were given to a large and appreciative audience of Ashland mothers, as well as the regular delegates. Keen interest on the part of local mothers was shown by the amount of visitors.

The handling of the sessions and programs today, together with arrangements that are being completed for the dinner and reception tonight at the Civic Club House, is taxing the abilities of the local entertaining committee, but members of the committee announce that plans are well in hand and all anticipate that the day and evening in Ashland will prove one of real pleasure to the many visiting delegates.

Tonight's Events
The dinner in honor of the visiting delegates and program of tonight will command unusual interest. Two hundred covers have been laid for the dinner, yet it is probable that the number attending will not quite reach that figure.

Among the features of tonight's program will be an address by Miss Kate Jamieson on "Social Standards", and addresses by J. C. Henderson and Miss Louise Shields on "Community Service".

In addition to the principal addresses there will be a number of short discussions on timely subjects.

JORDAN ELECTRIC COMPANY ENJOYS MODERN QUARTERS

Paint, still fresh enough to smell, linoleum new enough to shine and a building wired to pass all manner of inspections, are a few of the attractions at the Jordan Electric Company, which is at home in its own building on East Main street. The whole interior of the brick building has been renovated and added to. A new concrete battery room, allowing the greatest degree of maximum comfort and safety is one of the newest additions.

Warm grey and brown are the color schemes employed. One is struck in looking over the building by the amount of space that is given for every department. Display cases are not cluttered and illy placed, and the fixture room is distinctive and has 24 sockets for fixtures.

Ranges, washing machines and sweepers are to be exhibited in the front room of the store. Bracket or wall lamps are yet to be placed, adding a touch of dignity and finish on the walls, over which the latest in electrical conveniences will be placed. In improving the building, all wiring has been done in conduit, that is, every wire is enclosed in steel pipe, thereby passing any inspection that may be made upon it. Complimentary to the new store, Mohridge & Co., of Portland, have supplied a commercial lighting fixture for the front room. A beautiful white bowl, suspended from dark bronze chain gives a glow that is unsurpassed by many fixtures of like size and power.

BANKERS MEET; HEAR PROGRAM

Representatives of Practically Every Bank in Two Counties Are Present.

Following Business Session Excellent Program Is Rendered by Boys and Girls' Club.

One of the most interesting meetings of the bankers of Jackson and Josephine Counties since reorganization under the new county group plan was held in the Civic Club House at Ashland, Tuesday evening, Oct. 23d.

A representative group of officers and directors from practically every bank in the two counties attended this meeting.

The dinner, served by the ladies of the Presbyterian church, was unusually good and the cleaned up plates gave ample proof of the appreciation of the attending bankers.

Following the dinner the usual routine business was transacted, including short discussions of topics brought up by members.

H. C. Seymour, state leader in boys and girls club work, was present and gave a very interesting talk on the growth and development of the club work in the United States. Mr. Seymour is an interesting talker and he has a hold on the young people of the state that is wonderful.

Program Rendered

The regular program of the evening was furnished by the boys and girls club members. About thirty-five members and their leaders participated in the talks and demonstrations.

The clubs were introduced by J. W. McCoy and each responded through one of its members. The Valley View Home-making Club was represented by Miss Rose Galtin, Ashland Canning Club by Miss Alice Pratt; Ashland Home-making Club, by Miss Dorothy Stevens; Talent Pig Club, by Richard Petre; Ashland Poultry Club, by Elliott McCracken; Ashland Calf Club, by John Billings; State Champion Stock Judging Team, by Richard Joy.

Each one of these young people gave an interesting talk on the work and the ambitions of the respective clubs. Never, in any meeting, has more attentive interest been shown in a program by the bankers of the group. The talks were interspersed with songs and yells.

Following the club talks a stock judging demonstration was given by Bernard Joy and chicken judging demonstration by Elliott McCracken in front of the civic club building.

This was followed by a talk by Albert C. Joy on "Why Rogue River Valley Needs Club Work." No one cared to dispute Mr. Joy's contentions as to the value and desirability of this work and it must be admitted that the enthusiasm brought into the clubs by Mr. Joy is in a large degree responsible for the success of the work in this district.

Reports on the O. A. C. Summer School course were made by Miss Mina Milner and Miss Frances Gallatin, showing not only the substantial instruction given in this short course, but the care in looking after the young people while under the control of the college and

SAYS TUBERCULOSIS DEATH RATE IS ON DECLINE IN NATION

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 25—The death rate from tuberculosis in the United States has decreased more than one-half during the past twenty years according to Dr. Phillip P. Jacobs, head of the publicity department of the National Tuberculosis association, who is here in the interest of the annual sale of Christmas seals.

"Twenty years ago 200 of every 100,000 deaths were due to tuberculosis," Dr. Jacobs said. "Today the record is but 97. By 1930 I believe the figure will be down to 50 and within another generation tuberculosis should be as nearly eliminated as typhoid fever."

Dr. Jacobs pointed out that the sale of Christmas seals is the biggest single element in the program against the White Plague. Last year the association raised $3,000,000 and according to Dr. Jacobs the sum of $25,000,000 has been invested during the past 15 years in the campaign against the disease. He said that the total valuation of hospitals, sanitariums and open air schools is $150,000,000.

Wemme died in Portland in 1914, leaving property in trust for the endowment of a hospital, with directions that at the end of three years the trust be transferred to the Christian Science churches of Portland. The churches believing the transfer of trust empowered them to dispose of the property did so at a later date and used the funds derived for other purposes. The supreme court upholds the contention of the Wemme heirs that the sale of the hospital constituted a breach of trust.

PORTLAND, Ore., Oct. 25—Increased winter travel from Canada and the Middle West to the Pacific Coast is predicted by John M. Scott, assistant passenger manager of the Southern Pacific system. SLEUTHS TRAIL FOUR SUSPECTS

Men Answering Description of Siskiyou Bandits Seen by Forest Ranger.

Several Posses Are Pressing Search in California County Bordering on Oregon Line.

Sheriffs, of Del Norte and Humboldt counties, California, and special agents of the Southern Pacific, American Railway Express, and Northwest Pacific, accompanied by several men, probably one hundred in number, are pursuing four men in the forests bordering Indian creek, about 6 miles from the mouth of Klamath River. The scene of the hunt is located in Del Norte county, bordering on the California and Oregon line and has been in progress since yesterday afternoon.

Suspicious Quartet Seen

Four men, said to resemble the perpetrators of the Siskiyou holdup and murder, were seen yesterday afternoon by Forest Ranger Johnson. The ranger, upon sighting the men started following them and continued until dark last night. The discovery was reported during the afternoon and resulted in orders being issued for a concentration of the man-hunting forces in that region.

Posses headed by Sheriff Breen, of Del Norte county, and Sheriff Ross, of Humboldt county, are combing the forests of Indian creek, and another force of 30 men, headed by Inspector Emmons, of the Northwest Pacific, is following the trail of the quartet.

Chief O'Connell stated this afternoon that since instructing Emmons to take up the trail of the four men yesterday evening he has had no word from him, which indicates that Emmons and his party are in the mountains and away from telephone communication. Mr. O'Connell also stated that information concerning the four men is somewhat meager, other than that the forest ranger, who saw them at some distance, stated that there is a resemblance between them and the descriptions sent out covering the three D'Astremont brothers. Some word is expected from the some of any time.

Airplanes Are Searching

Two airplanes were recently from Sacramento and other District Attorney Moore that they be engaged in ferreting out the desperadoes, but the attorney reports that owing to insufficient funds he was compelled to decline their aid. However, the two airmen are undoubtedly working on their own initiative, as two planes have been flying since late this morning along the mountain ranges east and south of Ashland and their behavior is such that it is evident that they are searching for the smoke of a campfire, or some other evidence of the bandits.

SCIENCE CHURCH MUST MAKE ACCOUNTING OF HENRY WEMME FUNDS

SALEM, Oct. 24—Holding that the Henry Wemme $350,000 endowment fund left in trust for the specific purpose of maintaining and supporting a maternity home and lying-in hospital the state supreme court today reversed the decision of the lower court and directed that the Christian Science churches of Portland make an immediate accounting of all money and properties of the fund to a board of trustees which the lower court is required to appoint.

Wemme died in Portland in 1914, leaving property in trust for the endowment of a hospital, with directions that at the end of three years the trust be transferred to the Christian Science churches of Portland. The churches believing the transfer of trust empowered them to dispose of the property did so at a later date and used the funds derived for other purposes.
