Daughters of the Nile Meet—

The Daughters of the Nile met at Grants Pass on Saturday and a number of Ashland's membership went down to the sister city. There were perhaps somewhat over forty in attendance and the meeting was a very enthusiastic one. There are a number of candidates and by the first of the year the organization expects to have a ceremonial.

At the business meeting many things of importance were considered. The Grants Pass ladies served the most delicious refreshments during the social hour, which were much appreciated by the visiting membership.

There were four cars filled with members from Medford present, and Mrs. Bateman, Mrs. Kinz, Mrs. Loomis, Mrs. Wolters and Mrs. Louis Schwein drove down from Ashland. At the coming meeting there will be an election of officers.

Milinery Class a Success—

The milinery class held at Mrs. C. A. Brown's on Friday of last week was a decided success. There was a splendid attendance, probably twenty-five, which fact speaks well for the interest in the work. Eleven new hats testify to the industry of those there, to say nothing of the hats begun and hats remodeled.

A feature of the meeting was the demonstration of an electric fireless cooker by Mrs. Huxley which proved most interesting to all those there. As is usual, every one at these all day meetings, brings sandwiches and the hostess serves a hot dish. Mrs. Brown's fireless cooker came in good stead as it has on many another occasion.

The next regular meeting is Nov. 21st, at Mrs. Ed. Gowland's. There will be a fine program.

Entertain at Dinner—

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. McCoy were host and hostess at a five course dinner party Saturday evening at the Plaza Banquet Room, in compliment to the employees of the First National Bank, and their wives.

The dinner was a very delightful one, enlivened as it was by merry quip and jest, and the service and appointments were in keeping with the delicious viands served. A jolly theatre party was the very bonny ending of this so happy evening; the entire company witnessing the presentation of the "Man from Glengarry."

Those who enjoyed the hospitality of Mr. and Mrs. McCoy were Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Wenner, Mr. and Mrs. Milton Fraley, Mr. and Mrs. Hal Emery, Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Hedburg, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Gunter, Miss Alleen Walker and her mother, Mrs. Butler Walker.

A Correction—

It was stated that the time for voting upon the school budget was November 22 in the account published in Saturday's issue but the editor is informed the date given was not correct; that it should have read November 27th instead.

Wednesday Club Have Bonison Day

Wednesday of this week there will occur at the Presbyterian church one of the most interesting meetings imaginable, under the auspices of the Wednesday club which is guarantee that those present will find it quite worth while. Mrs. Ellis has kindly offered to lend her skill and artistry to its success and again those who come will find most surprising and delightful things to do. Bring scissors and a determination to learn and you will go home with your hands full of pretty things and your head full of lovelier ideas for future efforts.

Every one is invited to come early. The hostesses are the Mesdames B. R. Greer, J. H. Fuller, J. H. McGee, F. H. Johnson and Miss Hicks.

P. T. A. at Junior High—

The P. T. A. Circle of Junior High will meet this afternoon at the Junior High building at 3:00 p. m. Miss Blanche Hicks, our librarian, will give an address on "Better Books and Better Films for Children."

There will be a piano duet by Rosina and Frances Gallatin and Mrs. E. O. Smith will sing, as a closing number.

There will be much of importance to be discussed and it is hoped that there will be full attendance.

Every one is urged to be present to enjoy the program and take part in the discussion.

Birthday Dinner—

Mr. and Mrs. M. E. Randles were host and hostess at a delightful dinner party given in honor of Mrs. E. J. Roberts, Mr. Randles' grandmother.

The dinner occurred Sunday noon and was a most elaborate one. The guests did full justice to the delicacies provided for their enjoyment and the one in whose honor it was given received the congratulations of the many relatives gathered to enjoy the day with her. The guests were Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Gall, Mr. and Mrs. E. G. Roberts, Medford; Mr. and Mrs. Randles and son Bobby and Mrs. Van Wegen.

A Birthday Celebration—

Mrs. Phoebe Wells, whose home is at 19 Gresham Street, had a birthday anniversary November 8th, and she was the recipient of many thoughtful remembrances, among which were many beautiful flowers. Since she loves flowers so well her delight at receiving so many was very great.

Married—

On Saturday evening at seven o'clock occurred the marriage of Frank M. H. Barnhouse and Miss Nina L. Martin of Medford, at the Congregational Parsonage, the Rev. W. Judson Oldfield officiating clergyman. Mr. and Mrs. Paul Mars were the attendants. The ring ceremony was used.

The young couple have gone for a wedding trip north that includes Eugene and perhaps other points.

What the future plans of the happy couple are have not been learned but congratulations and the best of wishes are theirs for a happy and prosperous future.

The Koehlers Entertained—

The last week of Mr. and Mrs. Koehler's stay in Ashland was a very busy one in a social way, to say nothing of visits paid and calls made and received.

Beginning with the delightful Brotherhood Supper, the Guild Banquet on Thursday evening, then came the delightful dinner given by the Ladies Aid for the Koehler family and membership on Friday at the church at which every good thing imaginable was present for the satisfaction of the diners and to which surely ample justice was done.

These dinners are a feature of the Ladies Aid and lucky is the one invited to partake of the culinary triumphs prepared.

On that same evening, the family were guests at a delightful dinner at which Mr. and Mrs. Lyman of Granite street were host and hostess and where the evening was spent in a very happy visit. The Lymans' are old friends and former members of the church at Brownsville where Mr. Koehler held a pastorate.

A luncheon at Mrs. H. W. Andrews' home and a drive up the valley was sandwiched in on Thursday. On Sunday Mr. and Mrs. F. C. Koeler and family were dinner guests at the hospitable Krugel home and from that beautiful home on Scenic Drive had a last wonderful view of Ashland and its valley.

On Sunday the morning sermon was especially to the membership and in the evening there was the union meeting, at the close of which farewells were spoken and good wishes uttered for happiness for this well loved family in the new home to which they started Monday morning.

Married—Pettit-Harrell—

The marriage of Miss Helen Harrell and Mr. Leonard C. Pettit occurred at ten o'clock Tuesday morning at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Harrell on Iowa street, Rev. W. Judson Oldfield officiating clergyman.

Only the members of the immediate family were present. Mr. and Mrs. Pettit will make their home in Klamath Falls where Mr. Pettit holds a position with the Lorenz Plumbing Co. Both the young people are graduates of Ashland High and have been identified with the school activities and doings of the younger set since graduation.

Mr. Pettit's well known musical ability has gained for him ready recognition in musical circles and his talent will be greatly missed in Ashland. Congratulations and good wishes are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Pettit for a happy and prosperous future.

Other Out-of-town Guests—

Ella H. Knight of Spokane is a guest at the Hotel Columbia. Wm. Brock and A. Brick of Porterville, Cal. are business visitors. Mrs. Chas. Graham and family of Portland are visitors from Multnomah county. G. B. Skeen and wife of Montague were in Ashland yesterday.

Daily News Letter

LONDON, Nov. 13—Impassive, unemotional, with a dominating face that has haunted resemblance to that of a Chinese id—that is Harold Sidney Rothermere, first Viscount Rothermere, the new czar of England's newspaper world.

Lord Rothermere, unlike his brother, Lord Northcliffe, is not a great newspaperman, but he is a great manufacturer who has drifted into the newspaper world and has acquired property after property until today he controls a great newspaper combine that speaks to at least 10,000,000 English readers every day in the year.

The Daily Mail Trust is Viscount Rothermere, and the Daily Mail Trust and its sister organizations control the Daily Mail, Daily Mirror, Evening News, Weekly Dispatch, Sunday Pictorial, Sunday Illustrated, Daily Sketch, Sunday Chronicle, Sunday Herald, Daily Dispatch, Evening Chronicle, Empire News and nearly eighty weekly and monthly periodicals.

Sitting quietly at his desk, always cool and collected, Lord Rothermere operates this great publicity machine as Charles M. Schwab and Judge Gary operate the great steel industries of the United States. Ten million people daily get their news from Lord Rothermere's machine and another 40,000,000 get entertainment and enlightenment from the periodicals which this great machine grinds out.

This new czar of the English publishing world has an almost insatiable ambition and great power, yet he remains an obscure personality. Few people know Lord Rothermere, and fewer get close to him, but those few know him for a kindly and generous man, a man who is always busy and has little time for the social amenities of life, and a man who demands success and achievement in terms of money, and who gets little or no satisfaction out of journalistic achievement alone.

The Rothermere organization, is a business organization, an organization which doesn't demand brilliant or flashy work. Rothermere surrounds himself with men of the average, or a little above, and with these men in his organization he handles papers that are average papers, or a little above. There is none of the spectacular brilliancy about the Rothermere papers that marked the Northcliffe papers. England's greatest journalists probably will never be found in the Rothermere organization. In their stead will be found a collection of highly competent average men who fit into the machine.

Lord Rothermere lost two sons in the war, as well as two very dear friends. The blows dealt by the Germans to Rothermere's affections have never been forgotten, nor will they. The Rothermere press breathes hate for all Germans and all things German.

The great flair that Rothermere has for organization led him into public office during the war. He was made director-general of the army clothing department and he cleaved up in a most efficient manner the wreckage of a great army clothing scandal. Later Lloyd George promoted Rothermere to make him Air Minister. Here again Rothermere attempted reorganization along drastic business lines, but he found the red-tape entanglements too great and he was forced to retire.

Lloyd George and Rothermere were once close co-operators. Of late they have drifted apart. Rothermere could not condone Lloyd George's fiscal policy; he recoiled at what seemed to him to be governmental extravagance. Then Lloyd George veered to a policy that seemed not to be bitterly anti-German, and the anti-German, pro-French Rothermere broke with the little Welshman.

There are some people who profess to believe that Rothermere and Lloyd George will again work together. Perhaps they will, but it will be indirect co-operation. That may be the reason that Lord Rothermere has effected a working arrangement with Lord Beaverbrook, who is known to look upon Lloyd George as not altogether a bad statesman.

As a business man Lord Rothermere needs no counsel or advisers. As a journalist he needs advisers badly, and for the present he seems to have found his adviser in Lovat Fraser, a journalist who writes always in italics. Many of the Rothermere excursions abroad in journalism can be traced to Fraser, who is credited with having created the Rothermere campaign of "Hats off to France"—a slogan which has brought no end of hostile criticism upon the shoulders of Lord Rothermere.

To Klamath Falls—

Mr. and Mrs. Leonard C. Pettit, whose wedding occurred this morning, departed immediately after the ceremony for Klamath Falls to make their future home.

Origin of Salutes by Guns.

Saluting by guns is said to have had its origin in the British navy. Saluting between ships, however, did not originally indicate a compliment, neither was it a demonstration of loyalty. In the old days foreign ships of war when met at sea, or a distant harbor, had to be friendly. Guns were normally kept loaded, and could only be unloaded if being fired, says the Detroit News. This was done on the approach of a foreign ship against which no hostile action was intended, as an indication that no such action would be taken. The approaching ship replied by similar action.

Greeting the Sun God.

Owing to the prevailing solar influence Egyptian temples, certainly in early times and often later, were orientated east and west so that the rising sun at the equinoxes might light up their dark interiors. Indeed, according to the current Egyptian conception it was the sun god before all others who dwelt in every temple, which was regarded as a small replica of heaven itself, says the Detroit News. Thus a favorite description of a temple is that it is "like heaven in its interior, white Re (the sun god) rises within it."

Delicate Instruments.

An instrument has been invented so sensitive that it responds to the heat of a man's body at a distance of 200 yards. It is now possible to measure the ten-thousandth part of an inch; indeed, the ball bearings in a bicycle call for this. A machine exists which can rule nearly 30,000 lines in the space of an inch. Five hundred lines would occupy the space of a single full-stop! Makers of astronomical instruments have invented a highly polished mirror, made of metal, which splits a single beam of light into seven separate beams, each of a different color.
