MAY ERECT DEHYDRATING PLANT HERE

Pompador Co. Working to Secure Plant—Plans Are Incomplete.

CARBONIC GAS ASSET

Use of Carbonic Gas May Revolutionize Dehydration of Products.

News that will be of significant interest to the people of Ashland and Rogue River valley is the report that plans for the securing of a dehydrating plant are being considered by the Pompador Mineral Springs Co., of this city.

A clearer understanding of the value of carbonic gas in the manufacturing and preservation of foods, and of the proposed plans of the company can be obtained from the following interview from Harry Silver, manager of the Pompador Mineral Springs Co.:

"From any food product packed in an atmosphere of carbonic gas all bacteria is excluded, therefore a wide field is open in the industrial world for the use of carbonic gas as necessary to the preservation of food products, and will therefore make pure carbonic gas a vitally necessary product.

"Associated with the industrial life of Rogue River Valley, the production of pure natural carbonic gas assumes a first importance. The fine flavored fruits of all kinds combined with the pure natural carbonic gas that can be supplied in Rogue River Valley will make it possible to put on the market, dehydrated products of all kinds at the smallest initial cost. This is what governs large production and sales.

"Pure carbonic gas, used in this way, will become an employer of labor on every parcel of land, under our new irrigation system. One of the vital difficulties of marketing farm land products will be solved by the reduction of shipping costs by at least two thirds; large production and large sales will solve the others.

"It is the purpose of the Pompador Mineral Springs Co. to secure by its cooperation, a dehydrating plant, that can eventually grow into great importance in marketing our land products; whose future home will lose nothing by comparison with the fine present quarters of the Shredded Wheat Biscuit Co. Grandma's Cookies, Kellogg products, and some others.

"Carbonic gas is now being shipped from Pompador Springs for use in butter making, ice-cream making, and dehydrating.

"The gas is an agency by which industry can be increased and industry makes the future of every community."

CAT OUT OF THE BAG; MYSTERY IS SOLVED

The mystery is solved. It is neither the Einstein theory or the fourth dimension, nor has it anything to do with the author, Mr. Day, who took his foot in his hand some seven or eight thousand miles back to walk around the rim of the good old U. S. A. and throw himself on the mercy of the public for food and bed, for which, if he succeeds, he receives a few cold thousand simoleons. Well, not being too brief about it, it is all about "December 3," which is the opening date of the great splendiferous black-face show of the Lithians, in other words, minstrel show. The show will be held two evenings, December 3 and 4. Watch for further announcements.

FIGHT THREATENED IN KU KLUX KLAN PARADE

Hatred Displayed Against Parade at Roseville—Cross Fired at.

ROSEVILLE, Cal., Nov. 20.—Only a change in the scheduled hour of a Ku Klux Klan parade here Saturday night is held to have averted a clash between two factions which might have resulted in a free-for-all street fight. Even the lateness of the hour of the parade did not prevent a struggle over the possession of an anti-Ku Klux Klan banner, the throwing of bricks, followed later by the firing of several shots at an electrically illuminated cross which was erected above the Presbyterian Church earlier in the evening.

Events connected with the attempt of the Roseville Klan to show its strength was participated in by the three Sacramento ministers. They were Rev. E. E. Wahl of the First Methodist Church South of Sacramento, Rev. Ralph Rader of the American Center Church of Sacramento, and Rev. W. E. Harrison of the Westminster Presbyterian Church of Sacramento. All three were speakers at the meeting in the Roseville Presbyterian Church which preceded the parade.

Gather On Streets

Announcement of the meeting was made in the Roseville paper and the parade, while not announced officially, was heralded by word-of-mouth all day Saturday. Early in the evening, a large crowd gathered on the Roseville streets and bitterness toward the Klan was expressed freely. Men gathered in small groups on street corners and awaited the marchers.

When 9 o'clock, the hour at which the parade was scheduled to take place arrived, many of those gathered to see the procession, believing that it had been abandoned, returned to their homes.

Met by Jeers.

Shortly after 10:30, the church was emptied and the parade, led by Rev. C. R. Fairfield, pastor of the Roseville Presbyterian Church and former klan member of the Roseville Ku Klux Klan, who marched bareheaded, was formed. As the marchers proceeded down the main street of the town, they were
