GOD'S KINDNESS:—For the mountains shall depart, and the hills be removed; but my kindness shall not depart from thee, neither shall the covenant of my peace be removed, saith the Lord that hath mercy on thee.—Isaiah 54:10.

FOOTBALL SEASON ENDING

To be sure, all seasons are short but it seems especially to the student, that the football season is unduly abbreviated. Already the 1923 gridiron season has rolled around to the eve of the Thanksgiving final when will be decided the pigskin championships and the All-American line-ups. There is, however, one thing which has distinguished the current football season from its predecessors. That distinguished feature has been the total absence of the old hue and cry over the brutality and inhumanity of the sport. No longer are robust young men required to play football under assumed names lest parental objections be raised, but instead doting parents have become admirers of the sport and see to it that other appointments do not interfere with their attendance at the annual gridiron classics. If the weaker sex still find football a brutal sport they have not displayed their aversion for the game during the present and past few seasons by their absence from the grandstands. To the contrary it is conjectural whether the football game is not more a fashion display than an athletic demonstration. The 1923 football season has also given additional confirmation of the Great American Sport. Football attendance records are equalled by baseball only during the World Series games. If you are one of those who have not yet seen the point of the game, ask any high school lad or college undergraduate and learn what an important factor football plays in the modern pursuit of the elusive education. It might be discovered that without football there wouldn't be much use for schools and colleges, which prove just this: that many young men, especially of high school age, are sticking it out for the athletic advantages it affords them. They may not be going to school to get book learning, but they can't help absorbing some of it with the sports which keep them in school.

LADS AND DADS

A Youth of 16 on trial for his life in Southern Oregon. A boy but little older, on Puget Sound, slashed his brother with a knife, and it was no lack of intent that softened the subsequent charge from murder to felonious assault. A lad of 16 and his brother a little older were caught in the police dragnet over Sunday. They were sneaking about the streets late at night. They had burglarized a restaurant. This is "Father and Son Week" and the purpose is to encourage closer association between fathers and their sons. The idea goes farther. It is proposed that if a man hasn't a son he will seek out a boy who hasn't a father and try to establish the same association. One of the reasons why American youth has fallen upon evil ways is because American fathers are so busy chasing fads and finance that they do not allow themselves the greatest pleasure of growing up with their sons. Not to know where the boy was, used to imply that he would fall into neighborhood mischief which would be neither very serious nor very wholesome. But the boys of the present generation grow up more quickly than they used to. A father has his hands full trying to keep pace with them. They learn complicated mechanical things like electrical motors, automobiles and the radio. Misdirected energy gets them into mischief. There are always those who stand by the way hoping to exploit the boy and capitalize his impulses toward waywardness. That is the reason it has become a menacing thing for fathers not to be pals with their sons. On the other hand, no man can live a more satisfying life than to keep on the progressive thought plane of his boy.—Oregon Daily Journal.

MAIL ON TIME—SHOP EARLY

The "not later than" directions for mailing Christmas packages, just issued by the post office department, which range from three to fourteen days before December 25, are offered in the public interest. If the postal service is to deliver the mailed matter on time, those mailing must co-operate—that impending congestion may be avoided. In connection with these directions is to be read the advice of the merchants to shop early. This last also runs in the public interest. For early shopping means more satisfactory service. It also means diminution of the burden that holiday trade imposes on all who work behind the counters and in distributing and delivering departments—for it distributes that burden.

Most men on the road to riches ignore the scenery. Who can remember when Europe wasn't on Page One every day? Shoot, if you will, at this bobbed head, but it looks pretty good to me, she said. Odd item: The man who made the ukulele popular in this country died the other day of natural causes. Grandma says that the navy aviator who travelled 274.2 miles an hour must have missed a lot of good scenery. Sometimes it looks as if never again would the saxophone allow the slip-horn to have the center of the stage. The next diplomat to be picked from the West might very well be the Missouri editor who advised his readers the other day that their poetry was entirely too valuable to waste on his columns. It's a great tribute to American something-or-other that foreign politicians of all breeds and stripes can visit us and leave for home thoroughly convinced that we are with them heart and soul.

NEWS LETTER

KANSAS CITY, Nov. 21—Kiss if you must but don't do it publicly, is the ultimatum just issued by Kansas City club women, ministers and the Juvenile Court. War has been declared on "mugging," "necking" and "lolly-gagging" in automobiles, public parks and in movie theatres. While it's well known that in the balmy days of Spring young men's fancies turn to cuddling and the like of it, it is apparent that as the Autumn frosts are painting the hills with a gleaming gold, and when 'twould be seeming that one's thoughts turned to the serious matters of Winter underwear and new shoes for the baby, the little lovebees are buzzing, and the flappers and cake eaters are running amuck. Here's what a few of the erudite say: "Public spooning is not only sickening, but it leads to worse things. It is demoralizing and foolish. There should be a general clean-up."—Judge E. E. Porterfield, of the Juvenile Court. "The laxity of morals in young people is alarming. Spooning in theatres is one of the greatest violations of convention. That moral standards are away below par can be visualized by all who attend theatres."—Mrs. Geo. W. Davis, president of the Women's Round Table of Club Presidents. "If conditions are as described by many club women I am sure all ministers of Kansas City would back a movement toward a general investigation and clean-up."—Ralph C. McAfee, executive secretary of the Council of Churches. "Something must be done immediately. Spooning in theatres embarrass everyone sitting near them. Kissing and loving in public is disgusting."—Mrs. Geo. W. Welsh, chairman of the motion picture committee of the Woman's Round Table. Then came a flapper: "Just a little love, a little kiss—I would give you all my life for this." she hummed rather lightly, as she scanned the opinions of those considerably her senior on the omnipotent subject of love. "The catty old maids," she commented under her breath. "Snoopers, that's all they are!" A group of admitted flappers—both the long and short-haired variety—the coy, the chic, the serious, the timid and the bold—were painfully miffed. "What's the use of being a flapper if you can't flap?" asked one. Even the serious ones are decidedly against any curtailment of spooning privileges. They said they could get lots more pleasure out of movies, especially should the plot be romantic, if they could hold a masculine hand—sort of feel like you're in the picture, you know. It is said there isn't so much danger of swallowing one's chewing gum if you're holding somebody's hand at the crux of a movie crisis. Then it was pointed out by the young ladies that many of them live under conditions—such as boarding houses—where there's no place to play around and love. One just has to love, it was stated; and hence, with nowhere else to go, and being dressed up, the subdued light of the movies offers an irresistible temptation. A committee of prominent club women was appointed to visit the theatres and see for themselves just what about it. What about it proved a lot of holding hands, a little of what they called "necking" and some sporadic kissing. "Sporadic kissing" is simply a lesser degree of the terrible and unseemly crime of soul kissing. They were shocked and horrified and rose in protest. Pretty girls of Kansas City, of every strata from the society suburbs and the debs of several seasons past the sub class, say they will not organize a counter-revolution, but will simply keep on loving when it seems right and proper for them to love. Just what will be done about kissing at the Union Railroad Station hasn't been disclosed. Much kissing, it seems, is indulged in there, quite publicly, occasionally by men and their own wives. It is assumed this situation will be overlooked and no effort made to cause the passage of laws to restrain this crime. John Day to have $300,000 ft. capacity sawmill. What the World Is Doing

Air Chamber Saves Divers Stricken at Work. As a first-aid appliance to save the lives of divers stricken at their work, a large steel tank, in which they are placed, is filled with compressed air to break up and drive out bubbles of gas that cause them to become paralyzed or unconscious. The pressure is started at 30 pounds and increased or decreased as the patient needs it. Even though a constant supply of air is pumped below to a diver at work, the great weight of the water and too long periods under-seas frequently overcome him, making quick action necessary to prevent his death.

Pacific's Bottom Is Charted by Timing Sound Waves. Charting the bottom of the Pacific ocean between United States and Australia is the task of a navy cruiser using a delicate apparatus to measure the time required for sound to pass from the surface of the water to the ocean's bed and return. Records are taken every five miles while the boat is moving. Knowing the speed of sound through water and the time elapsing between sending and returning of a signal serves to compute the depth.

Safety Seat Prevents Falls While Washing Windows. For preventing falls while washing windows in the home, a safety seat has been made which swings on two chains attached to hooks in the window frames. A strap stretched between the chains supports the worker's back.

Basket on Pole Hives Bees Safely. A Wisconsin beekeeper, whose general farm work allows very little time for capturing the swarms that escape his apiary, has found the method illustrated both easy and quick. The device is simple to make. It consists of a circular rim and a supporting fork made of 1/4-in. iron rod, and a cone-shaped screen-wire basket attached to the rim as shown. A stout cane fishpole is used for a handle, making the device light and easy to handle. When the bees swarm, they usually alight in one of the trees of the orchard, and often at such a height that it is almost impossible to capture them. As soon as the swarm is located and fairly settled, the basket is raised under the swarm and shaken so that most of the bees will drop into it. Of course, many bees escape but they will return to the swarm and cluster on the outside of the basket. When all is quiet again, the basket is lowered in front of an empty hive and the bees are induced to enter their new home without much trouble.

Animal So Small It Lives in a Drop of Water. So tiny that it can be seen only by aid of a magnifying glass, an animal, heretofore unknown, has been discovered by an eastern scientist. By means of whiplash strokes of hairlike projections covering its body it can move rapidly about in a drop of water. The little creature feeds chiefly on germs and other animals living in the water. It measures about one two-hundredths of an inch long and is less than one-fourth as wide.

Big Blimp to Circle World. The large dirigible airship "ZR-1," now under construction for the U. S. Navy, will be sent on a trip around the world when completed this Fall and may later go to the north and south in comfort, at the same time acting as a guard against loss of balance, leaving the body free for movements required in the cleaning.
