ROB MAN AND DRIVE STAKE THROUGH HIM

Aged Man of Sacramento Victim of Most Heinous Crime

SACRAMENTO, Nov. 28.—With a stick nearly nearly two inches meter and more than eight inches long driven into his body by two youths whom he said had robbed and tortured him in the "jungles" on the Yolo side of the river, John Richner, 64, a gardener, last night was taken to the city emergency hospital and later was transferred to the county hospital.

Reports from the county hospital to-day were to the effect that Richner's intestines had been punctured and his condition is critical and he may die.

Richner, whose story sounded like a tale torn from a page of medieval history, said he met two youths in Sacramento on Saturday night and accepted their invitation in join with them in a "booze party" in the brush near Washington, on the Yolo side of the river.

Angered at the small sum he had in his possession, Richner told the police, the two youths beat him up and then staked him to the ground, later completing their torture by driving the wooden stake into his body.

George Washington's Proclamation, January 1795

WHEN we review the calamities that afflict so many other nations, the present condition of the United States affords much matter of consolation and satisfaction. Our exemption hitherto from foreign war, an increasing prospect for the continuance of that exemption, the great degree of internal tranquility we have enjoyed, the recent confirmation of that tranquility by the suppression of an insurrection, which so wantonly threatened it, the unexampled prosperity of all classes of our citizens, are circumstances which bespeak our situation with indications of the Divine benediction toward us.

Deeply penetrated with the sentiment, I do recommend to all religious societies and denominations, and to all persons, whomsoever, within the United States, to set apart and observe Thursday, the 19th day of February next, as a day of public thanksgiving and prayer, and on that day to meet together and render sincere and hearty thanks to the great Ruler of nations for the manifold and signal mercies which distinguish our lot as a nation; particularly for the possession of constitutions of government which unite, and by their able control which has been given to a spirit of disorder in the suppression of the late insurrection, and generally for the prosperous condition of our affairs, public or private, and at the same time humbly and fervently beseech the kind Author of these blessings graciously to prolong them to us; to imprint on our hearts a deep and solemn sense of our obligations to Him for them; to teach us rightly to estimate their immense value; to preface us from the arrogance of prosperity and from pursuits; to dispose us to merit the continuance of them, and by a corresponding conduct as citizens and as men to render this country more and more a safe and propitious asylum for the unfortunate of other countries; to extend among us true and useful knowledge; to diffuse and establish habits of sobriety, morality and piety, and finally to impart all the blessings we possess or ask for ourselves to the whole family of mankind.

In testimony whereof I have caused the seal of the United States of America to be affixed to these presents, and signed the same with my hand. Done at the city of Philadelphia the first day of January 1795.

COOLIDGE COMPLETES MESSAGE

Document Is Awaited With More Than Usual Interest.

FAVORS WORLD COURT

Will Recommend Number of Changes, Eliminating Objectionable Features.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28.—President Coolidge's message to congress, awaited by the nation with perhaps more interest than any state paper in years, has been finally concluded and placed in the hands of a printer, a week in advance of its date of delivery.

From authoritative republican sources it is said the President will endorse American adherence to the World Court as proposed by the Late President Harding, but will accompany his endorsement with recommendations for the removal of some of the present "objectionable" features.

It is understood that the President will recommend adherence to the plan on the condition that the power to elect judges be transferred from the League to the Court, or reposed in a separate international commission appointed by the participating powers.

The President is also likely to recommend a heavy reduction in taxes, aid for agricultural interests, and restrictions on immigration.

The check was returned, marked "no account." Mr. Smith and Richardson failed to locate either of the parties.

CALENDAR FOR TERM IS COMPLETED

Twelve Cases Listed in Circuit Court; Six Criminal and Six Civil.

TWO LIQUOR CASES

One Involves George Tucker, Former Special Agent of Jackson County.

The calendar of cases to be heard by the present term of circuit court in Jackson county has been completed and each case will be tried in regular order, at least so far as it is possible to do so. There are twelve cases on the docket, six of them being criminal actions and six of them civil suits. The first criminal suit to be heard is that of the State vs. C. L. Carter. Carter is charged with a statutory crime and the trial was called yesterday.

Other cases are as follows: State vs. Jacks Winkle. The defendant is accused of forgery.

State vs. Mrs. Florence Milligan. The defendant is charged with the possession of liquor, contrary to the provisions of the prohibition law. She was formerly proprietor of a rooming house in Medford.

State vs. George Tucker. Two indictments have been returned against Tucker, one for the illegal possession of intoxicating liquor, another for the illegal sale of liquor. Tucker was formerly a special agent of Jackson county. The sale of liquor is alleged to have been made to a number of high school students. Tucker was injured a few weeks ago in the automobile races at Salem.

Another criminal action is that of the State vs. C. E. Lloyd. Lloyd is charged with forgery.

The civil cases to be heard are: Citizens Bank of Ashland vs. Jewett.

FORD IS PRESENTED TO SALVATION ARMY CORPS

Name of Donor Is Not Announced, Following Out His Expressed Desires.

Captain Porter, commander of the local post of the Salvation Army, was wearing a grin that stretched from ear to ear this morning, and well he might, for he was driving a Ford, a gift of an Ashland man to the Army.

The identity of the donor is not known, and he has requested that his identity not be revealed, indicating that the spirit that prompted the gift was genuine, and not that of one desiring to gain notoriety. The man who made the gift had been rebuilding a Ford, making it suitable for camping trips, and the new bed is just what the Army needs for collection and distributing various articles. The engine has just been overhauled and the car is in excellent shape, but is short of fenders and a top. Two front tires will also be required soon and Capt. Porter says no ill feelings will result if other kind hearted men will supply the few requirements needed to fully equip the car.

Capt. Porter and members of the local corps are more than elated with the gift, and give assurance that it meets an actual requirement.

WALLA WALLA PRUNE GROWERS BREAK EVEN

WALLA WALLA, Wash., Nov. 27.—Indications are that growers who shipped through the Walla Walla Valley Prune Growers Co-operative association will break even this year. George A. Price, bookkeeper of the association, today told 400 growers and was the first intimation that they would not have to go into their pockets to pay freight bills. Receipts were around $301,327. Independent shippers in the Walla Walla valley who cut prices on prunes broke the market and caused the loss. A. W. Simmons, president, reported, saying:

"Neither our sales manager or sales committee were able to control this price cutting."

AN OPPORTUNITY TO DISPLAY SPORTSMANSHIP

At 2:00 o'clock tomorrow Ashland and Medford meet in one of the most crucial football games of the season. The whirl of excitement accompanying a football game or any athletic event often robs men and women of their better judgment and leaves them void of real sportsmanship. Medford is to be our guest tomorrow and it offers an excellent opportunity to the people of both cities to exhibit the true spirit of sportsmanship.

The local high school eleven deserves our support and backing. Let's accord it to them to a 100 per cent degree. To the boys of Ashland we would say: Smear them; hit them hard and often. But whether as spectators or players, be fair and exhibit true sportsmanship.

LOVE FOR BABE LEADS TO MOTHER'S ARREST

Katherine Malm, 19, Arrested When She Goes to Visit 2-year Old Babe.

CHICAGO, Nov. 28.—Mrs. Catherine Malm, 19, sought as an accomplice in the murder of Edward Lehman, will be booked for murder, police stated today. Mother love for her two-year-old daughter proved more powerful than the fear of hanging and drove her to surrender, after having eluded police, who have been seeking her husband's confession.

The "wolf girl" is calm. She had come from Indianapolis with the hope of seeing her baby, who had been closely watched since the search for the girl was instituted. Otto Malm, husband, lifted the weight of murder charges from Walter Bockelman and "Blonde Kitty" Beck when he admitted he and his wife shot watchman Lehman when they were surprised while robbing a store a few weeks ago.

RECALL PETITION IS SENT TO GOVERNOR

Shell Shocked Soldiers Circulated Document to Obtain Money.

SALEM, Nov. 27.—L. V. Jenkins, chief of police of Portland, today sent to the executive department one of the recall petitions circulated against Governor Pierce. Mr. Jenkins said in his letter that the petition had been found in a patrol wagon, and had been turned over to him by a subordinate officer.

The petition contained a total of 29 names, and apparently had been circulated by Harvey Adams, an ex-service man.

Attached to the petition was a statement alleged to have been written by Adams to the effect that he had been shell-shocked in battle and was circulating the petition in hope of obtaining sufficient money to take him to a government hospital.

A physician's certificate attached to Mr. Adams' petition attested the truth of the circulator's statement with relation to his physical condition.

YE TRIP WAS ROUGH, SAITH YE GOVERNOR

William Bradford's Account of First Thanksgiving Stressed the Storm.

GRATEFUL FOR LAND

Fell on Knees in Thanks as They "Set Their Feet on Ye Firm, Stable Earth."

NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—William Bradford, Governor of Plymouth colony, was thankful for everything except the trip on the Mayflower, if one may judge from his own account of the first American Thanksgiving Day.

"Being thus arrived in a good harbor and brought safe to land," he wrote, "they fell upon their knees & blessed ye God of Heaven, Who had brought them over ye vast & furious ocean and delivered them from all ye perils & miseries thereof, again to set their feet on ye firm and stable earth, their proper element. And no marvel if they were thus joyful, seeing wise Seneca was so affected with sailing a few miles on ye coast of his own Italy; as he affirmed that he had rather remaine twenty years on his way by land than pass by sea to any place in a short time; so tedious & dearful was ye same unto him.

"But hear I cannot but stay and make a pause, and stand half amazed at this poore peoples present condition; and so I think will the reader too, when he well considers ye same. Being thus passed ye vast ocean, and a sea of troubles before in their preparation (as may be remembered by which wente before), they had now no friends to welcome them, nor inns to entertaine or refresh their weather-beaten bodies, no houses or much less townes to repair too, too seek for succoure. It is recorded in scripture as a mercede to ye apostle & his shipwrecked company, yet the barbarians shewed them no small kindness in refreshing them, but these savage barbarians, when the mette with them were readier to fill their sides full of arrows then otherwise. And for ye season it was Winter, and they that know ye Winters of ye country know them to be sharp & violent, & subjecte to cruell & feire storms, dangerous to travell to know places, much more to search an unknown coast. Besides, what could they see but a hideous & desolate wilderness, full of wild beasts & wild men? and what multitude they might be of them they knew not. Neither could they, as it were, goe up to ye toppe of Pisgah, to view from this wilderness a more goodly cuntry to feed their hopes; for which way soever they moved their eyes (say upward to ye heavens) they could have little solace or content in respecte of any outward objects. For summer being done, all things stand upon them with a weather-beaten face, and ye whole cuntry full of woods & thicketts, represented a wild & savage howl. If they looked behind them, there was ye mighty ocean which they had passed, and was now as a maine barr & goulfe to separate them from all ye civil parts of ye world—

"What could now sustaine them but ye spirit of God & his grace? May not & ought not the children of these fathers rightly say: Our fathers were Englishmen which came over this great ocean, and were ready to perish in the wilderness; but they cried unto ye Lord, and he heard their voice and looked on their adversitie, Let them therefore praise ye Lord, because he is good, and his mercies endure forever. Yea, let them which have been redeemed of ye Lord, show how he hath delivered them from ye hand of ye oppressour. When they wandered in ye desertie wilderness out of ye way, and found no citie to dwell in, both hungry & thirstie, their soule was overwhelmed in them. Let them confess before ye Lord his loving kindness, and his wonderful works before ye sons of men."
