IMPERIAL POTENTATE IS VISITOR

Head of Mystic Shrine Pays an Official Visit to Hillah Temple.

FORMER HEAD HERE

Hospitals for Crippled Children Claim Attention of Shrineclom.

An event, important in the history of Masonry in southern Oregon and epochal in the annals of local Shrineclom, was recorded in Ashland last night when Hillah Temple was host to Conrad V. Dykeman, imperial potentate of the Ancient Arabic Order of Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, and his official party. Among the latter was Chas. E. Owenshire, former imperial potentate, who was a visitor in Ashland six years ago.

The official party arrived from Grants Pass by auto at 3:30 and was met by a delegation of officers and members of Hillah Temple.

Soon after the arrival of the imperial potentate and his associates a session was called at Masonic Hall with 100 members of Hillah Temple being present and Potentate Simpson presiding. Much of the session was devoted to addresses by Imperial Potentate Dykeman and Past Imperial Potentate Owenshire, the principal address being made by the latter.

Discusses Hospital Work

Owenshire devoted the greater part of his address to the progress being made on the hospital program adopted by the order at the memorable meeting in Portland in 1920. At that time W. Freedland Kendrick, then imperial potentate of the Shrine, challenged the great order to embark on constructive work for humanity. The address was brilliant. The challenge was accepted and a program adopted for the construction and maintenance of hospitals for crippled children. The day before the arrival in Ashland of the distinguished party the fourth hospital was dedicated in Portland. Construction work on others is proceeding in other cities of the country.

Owenshire reviewed the announcement of the plan, the progress made to date, and of plans for the future, plans that will provide medical and surgical attention for the crippled children of poor parents. The speaker is head of the hospital in Minneapolis.

Potentate's Address

The address of Imperial Potentate Dykeman touched in a general way the hospital program of the order, but was also devoted to matters of particular significance to his office and the Shrine. Mayor Baker Speaker

Mayor Geo. L. Baker, of Portland, accompanied the official party on the trip to Ashland and was one of the speakers. Mayor Baker is head of the Shrine hospital organization in Portland, to which he referred. He also recalled that on a former visit to Ashland for a similar occasion he was made the proud possessor of a cane made from Manzanita wood by Chas. Weisenberger, tyler of the various Masonic organizations of Ashland.

Souvenirs Presented

Walter Newcomb, of Grants Pass, on behalf of Hillah Temple presented Imperial Potentate Dykeman with a number of souvenirs made from Myrtle. Included in the presents were candle sticks and other bric-a-brac. The address of Newcomb was interesting, giving the information that Myrtle is grown in only two sections of the world, Palestine and Curry county, Oregon, the latter being in the jurisdiction of Hillah Temple of the Mystic Shrine.

Banquet Served

A banquet, not elaborate, but excellent for its menu and service was served at 6:00 o'clock in the dining room of the temple and proved a pleasant feature of the event.

To Visit California

Dykeman and his official party departed at 8:30 on the Shasta Limited for Sacramento, where they will attend the formal organization and present a charter for the formation of a Shrine lodge in that city.

Cummins Is Blocked

WASHINGTON, Dec. 11.—A little group of militant insurgents holding the "balance of power" in the Senate continued to block the election of Senator Albert Cummins, of Iowa, to the chairmanship of the Interstate Commerce committee, which controls railroad legislation. Insurgents, numbering seven, developed a dead-lock with the hope of unseating Cummins and electing La Follette. The fight closely parallels the tieup wrought by their progressive colleagues in the House. Indications point to a continuation of the contest throughout the day. The revolt tossed a "monkey wrench" into the Senate's legislative machinery. Insurgents announced they were unalterably opposed to the Cummins holding the committee chairmanship with the presidency of the senate.

CONFESSED TO SINKING BODY IN LAKE

Brutal Murder of Mexican is Bared by Confession of Slayers.

MONEY WAS OBJECT

Two of Three Countrymen of Victim Say $360 Prompted Fiendish Attack.

KLAMATH FALLS, Dec. 11.—The story of the appallingly brutal murder of Jose R. Feliz, Mexican box factory worker, whose body was found my trawlers in the edge of Klamath Lake near Alfonso Roygoza who, according to the sheriff, broke down and confessed under a grueling examination.

Two other Mexicans, Pablo Montez and Damascio Cadeno, are also held.

Robbery was the motive for the crime. Cadeno, when acting as interpreter for Feliz when the latter was brought to a local hospital having learned Feliz had $360 which he was saving for his old ago.

Agree to Murder

Cadeno told his companions of his discovery and proposed the murder and robbery of Feliz upon his discharge from the hospital. The others agreed.

When Feliz left the hospital Tuesday he met the three and told them he was about to start for Algoma afoot. The plotters also started for Algoma, taking with them an iron bar and a change of clothes. They passed Feliz on the road and awaited him.

When one engaged the unsuspecting man in conversation, Montez struck him repeatedly, and then the three carried the body to the lake shore, where they started to rifle the pockets.

When the body gave a convulsive shudder, Montez again resorted to the iron bar.

Returning to Klamath Falls, the trio borrowed a pencil from a hotel clerk to figure the division of the money, which was split three ways.

Traisman Finds Body

The body was discovered by a trawlerman the night of the murder, when in attempting to dip water from the lake to pour on a hot box the pall caught on Feliz's clothes and brought one leg to the surface. The body had been weighted down with iron bars.

Following Roygoza's alleged confession, Montez was apprehended and also confessed, according to the sheriff, his story tallying with that of Roygoza, except that he did not strike the first blow.

The murder is one of the most cold-blooded ever perpetrated in Klamath County, according to the sheriff. The three Mexicans are held without fail to await a formal hearing.

Miss Smith is an accomplished performer on the piano-accordion in connection with character songs and costume recitals by Miss Larcher. Miss Smith provides the accompaniment at the piano for Miss Larcher's solo work on clarinet, saxophone, drums and bells. BOYS SAVED FROM POISONED MOONSHINE

RENO, Dec. 11.—Two Reno youths were saved from a horrible death by poisoning when the police captured several bottles of liquor stolen by the young men before they could use it.

They had broken into the state food and drug laboratory on the corner of Fifth and Sierra Sts., and stolen several bottles of bootleg whiskey, to which chemists had added bichloride of mercury to prevent further fermentation.

The youths cached the liquor near Peavine Mountain and were seen by boy scouts, who reported the matter to the Reno police. The case has been turned over to the federal officers for action.

MILKING CONTEST IS WON BY HUGHES

Fuller, Swedenburg and Perozzi Furnish Closest Kind of Competition.

An event of great interest of the Winter Fair that lacked only a hair's breadth escaping the attention of the sporting editor of the Tidings was the milking contest staged Saturday afternoon.

As a result of the contest a "new milk maid", has been crowned and three of the best milkers this side of Talent are mere has-beens. Walter R. Hughes, teacher of civics and history in the Ashland High School, was crowned champion. Competition was keen. Dr. F. G. Swedenburg was only one gill behind, and Fuller and Perozzi were runner-ups. Hughes won only by skirting the left end and making a flying tackle of the rear left teat of the fourth cow. Up to that time the honors were even. Four cows were provided and each contestant required to milk one minute on each. At the end of the third minute Dr. Swedenburg and Hughes were even. Interest was intense. Several hundred people stood in stent silence as the slinky fingers of the four milking machines grabbed, squeezed and pulled downward, the milk pouring into the buckets like the water of Multnomah falls hitting the pool below. As the change was made to the fourth and last cow, Dr. Swedenburg made a dive for the right hind teat and fumbled. Hughes, cool as a cucumber on a December morning, executed the foregoing described offensive and won.

Much credit is due Ralph Billings, who permitted four of his best Jerseys being hauled into town in a truck and unloaded at the Chautauque Building for the strenuous ordeal to which they were subjected, and for his loyalty to the Winter Fair. Ralph has the warm thanks of the Chamber of Commerce.

It is likely that France will refuse to recognize any government that overthrows Obregon by force of arms.

WINTER FAIR WINNERS ARE ANNOUNCED

Secretary Has Completed List of Premium Winners in Various Departments.

COMPETITION CLOSE

The list of prize winners in the various departments of the Winter Fair and Poultry Show has been completed by the secretary, J. H. Fuller, and his corps of assistants. A glance through the list indicates that the premiums enjoyed a rather wide range of distribution.

After completing the awards, judges in many departments announced that their work was completed with the greatest difficulty, owing to the sharp competition that existed. However, the feeling exists that general satisfaction prevails and exhibitors are accepting the verdicts of the judges as correct. Owing to the extreme length of the list of premium winners it will be necessary for the Tidings to present it in two or three installments, with the assurance that as much space as possible will be devoted to it daily.
