Some animals have the faculty of storing up adipose tissue during times of food plenty, and using this as a source of energy when sustenance is scarce. The camel, for instance, has deposited in his hump enough nourishment to last for many days, and as this animal often has to travel long distances without opportunity of securing food, its private "delicatessen" serves an extremely useful purpose.

Why and how does one human become stout? Some are stout by reason of heredity and others because of their own efforts. In times gone by alcoholic liquor was responsible for many a superlative form. In most cases, however, eating more food than the daily needs of the body, or lack of exercise, or both, is responsible.

Many athletes when their days of active training and competition are over settle down to lives of ease and feasting and very rapidly put on flesh. Their previous healthy life and restricted training diet increases their digestive and assimilative power and as soon as they begin eating heavily they gain very rapidly. It is these that are ready victims to Bright's disease, apoplexy, asthma, Bright's disease, gout, and heart disease. Not because they have practiced athletics, but because they fail to combine their health habits.

REALITIES--AND THE ALLIED DEBT PROBLEM

By WALTER W. HEAD, President, American Bankers Association.

As a business proposition there is just one reason for considering a recasting of the balances due the United States from foreign governments. That is the possibility that such action would aid in re-establishing a foreign market which will absorb our surplus products.

Walter W. Head

Our foreign trade depends upon the purchasing power of foreign countries. Europe's inability to buy has impaired our ability to sell. We have an interest in Europe's prosperity. To protect that interest we must be concerned in the restoration of our debtors' capacity to trade with us and to meet their obligations.

Get the Facts. The United States should have a representative official standing in the Reparations Commission. We should not necessarily be bound by any agreement which

U. S. DEBS OF 22 BILLIONS TO BE REDUCED IN 80 YEARS

1920 $1,185,000,000; 1921 $322,000,000; 1922 $1,014,000,000; 1923 $614,000,000—the figures referring to the Government's fiscal year.

One of the biggest problems now confronting the Treasury is the wiping off of the $22,000,000,000 debt. Congress lent a hand at the end of the war by passing the Victory Loan act, which established a cumulative sinking fund calculated to retire the debt—less money received from our foreign debtors—in about twenty-five years. It was figured the sinking fund would retire half of the debt—$10,000,000,000—and that the foreign Government which borrowed from the United States during the war would make up the other half.

It was necessary to make a change in the Government's bond plans, however, when it became apparent that it was going to be hard to get some of the debtors to pay, for a while at least.

Thus far the settlement of the $11,000,000,000 foreign indebtedness has progressed only to the point of a debt funding agreement with Great Britain. Cuba has paid her debt, and Finland's agreement is ready for Congressional approval; but the latter obligations were so small that they make no appreciable difference in the larger totals.

The British debt, aggregating $4,600,000,000, will be paid during the next 62 years in United States securities at par.

"So long, therefore," explains Secretary Winston, "as any obligations of the United States can be acquired in the market below par we may expect to receive our own securities and not cash. This is an advantage in expediting payment of the public debt, because under the law securities received are canceled."

In reducing the public debt the Treasury also uses any surplus revenues which it happens to have at the end of a fiscal year.

Plan Explained. Explaining the plans for wiping out the debt, Secretary Winston says:

BERNARR MACFADDEN

It is undoubtedly true that the majority of people walk with nervous tension so that the steps they take are jerky and impulsive, and are devoid of rhythm. The same steps, if taken at greater length, will make it possible for the walker to cover more ground with greater ease and less expenditure of nervous energy and will result in a more natural tired feeling than that that follows the short step action.

It might be well to mention to those who wish to follow my example in walking without shoes, that it will be found difficult to do so until the soles of the feet are hardened. The first few attempts must be confined to a very short walk, but before long a callous surface will form on the bottom of the feet and you will then be able to walk almost any distance barefooted.

THE FRIEND IN NEED (From the Nation's Business) Some there are who still think the banker wears horns. Who is the hardboiled citizen, the man behind the thumb-screw? The banker, they will tell you. In the light of this illusion, consider a brief excerpt from the resolutions adopted at the recent Atlantic City Convention of the American Bankers Association:

"The conclusion is inevitably forced on the impartial observer that the primary need of the world is moral and spiritual regeneration as the essential basis for economic recovery. Until the nations of the world are willing to liquidate their hates they can make little progress toward liquidating their debts."

Hardboiled? Not that! It harks back to Socrates. "The true politics," he said, "is first of all a politics of the soul."

TRADE RECORD WORLD SILVER PRODUCTION

Share of the United States and other principal countries in world output. Increased use of the white metal in industrial arts.

Announcement that a study of possible new uses for silver in the industries and commerce is to be undertaken by the United States Department of the Interior leads to interest to some calculations made by the Trade Record of The National City Bank of New York as to the share which we are producing of the world's silver output and the proportion used in the industrial arts. These figures show that the United States produced in 1922 about 26% of the silver turned out by the mines of the world as against 26% in 1910, 33% in 1900, 29% in 1870, 24% in 1865, and 5% in 1861, the initial year of our recognition as an important factor in world silver production.

the total output, according to accepted authorities, of that 431 year period having been 13,175,000,000 Troy ounces, and our own output since we entered the field 90 years ago 2,735,000,000 ounces, with a 000 line do not necessarily mean commercial value of $2,255,000,000.

While other parts of the world world are decreasing their production during the war our own output was larger during that period than at any other time, advancing from 66,800,000 ounces in 1913 to 72,500,000 in 1914, 75,000,000 in 1915, 74,500,000 in 1916, and 71,700,000 in 1917, dropping a little below 70,000,000 in 1918, and 52,240,000 in 1922.

The big additions to the world's supply of silver which were running at the rate of over 200,000,000 ounces a year prior to the war are since we entered the field in 1922 again crossed the 200,000,000 commercial value of $2,255,000,000. Prior to the advent of the United States as a silver producer the world's average output of silver was about 175,000,000 ounces a year, but with the cooperation of the United States as a silver producer the total world output grew to 43,000,000 in 1870, 75,000,000 in 1880, 126,000,000 in 1890, 174,000,000 in 1900, 226,000,000 in 1911, dropping during the war period to an average of about 175,000,000 ounces per annum, and in 1922 again crossed the 200 million line for the first time since the beginning of the war, the 1922 output being 213,542,000 ounces.

The chief silver producing countries in their order of magnitude of production in 1922, Mexico, the United States, Canada, Peru, Australia, Bolivia, Germany, India, Japan, Bolivia, and Chile. In our own country the chief silver producing states are, in the order of the Mint which states the world's output in 1922, Utah, Montana, New Mexico, Colorado, Idaho, Arizona, and California.

"Eliminating the plans for wiping out the debt payment and not relying on surplus revenues, which are uncertain, but based solely on the sinking fund as at present constituted and the British refunding scheme as executed it is believed that the public debt should be substantially retired by 1952, which year happens to be the maturity date of the last maturing funded obligations of the United States, the Treasury 4 1/2's. There are many contingencies which affect this estimate, but it is safe to assume that a plan of refunding that part of the maturing debt, which cannot be presently met, to maturity dates within the next thirty years is a sound policy to be pursued."

New York.—Straws blown by Fashion's wind.—Moire vanity cases have white linings and veivet handles in bracelet effect, with onyx and white, embroidered with contrasting colors. Velvet printed in turquoise and silver is one of the new fabrics for evening wear.

"Yes we have no bananas." Who says New York has not a tropical climate with a dozen banana trees full of nearly ripe fruit in Central Park greenhouses at Fifth Avenue and One Hundred and Sixth Street.

To paraphrase an old title "New Wives for Old" is now not only possible but a fact daily realized. One might also say that "society is changing its face." The fact is that with the great recent developments in plastic and cosmetic surgery, New York society women who are not content with the quantity or type of beauty allotted to them are resorting to the surgeon to give them Grecian noses, rosebud mouths, ears that cling closer to the head, beautifully shaped eyebrows and every other detail of facial beauty.

The latest device for a cigarette holder is a solid silver lotus flower enamelled in Chinese red, gold and green. Other charming trifles from Paris are black moire bands, with initial and clasp of marcasite. The bands accentuate the whiteness of the neck today as in 1830 and match the moire bracelet.

In the center of Union Square in the heart of old New York nestles a little green spot, an honest to goodness flower and vegetable garden, which brings to every passer by memories of the old homestead. The trellised entrance is flanked by tall clumps of blue larkspur and golden geraniums, Burbanked zinnias, coreopsis, calendulas and bee balm border every bed. Corn, beans, peas, tomatoes, celery, peppers, parsley, onions and potatoes rub elbows in orderly and amiable fashion, keeping a strange hold on every enquiring eye. All vegetables are ripe and the beets are anything but dead. This carefully tended demonstration garden is the pride of the Park Commissioners and its intensive cultivation is a living lesson in Americanization. Hobo and highbrow alike pause and take a look and no bench is ever empty around this little spot.
