PEACE I LEAVE WITH YOU, my peace I give unto you: not as the world giveth, give I unto you. Let not your heart be troubled, neither let it be afraid.—John 14:27.

THE WORKS OF MEN

The comparative unimportance of certain works of men, held by him at the time as of the highest interest, and the amazing life inherent in what, in its beginning, is often looked upon as of no importance, is strikingly illustrated in two news dispatches of the day.

One tells of the Armistice Memorial, formed from the railway carriage in which the armistice was signed, falling into ruins, although it was conveyed to the grounds of the Invalides, in Paris, for preservation. The other records the unearthing, in what was once ancient Phoenicia, of what is described as the earliest known alphabet, dating back to at least 1200 B. C.

The Moabite stone, discovered in 1859, dating back to 850 B. C. is the earliest record of an alphabet the world possesses, except for this new discovery.

To us of today the Armistice was the most important event in our lives. It meant the end of war, privation, death, suffering. It meant—so we thought—a new world order, charity, peace, brotherhood of nations, rehabilitation, reconstruction, happiness.

To those who carved them, the stones on which they "wrote" their alphabet were probably of no greater importance than the primer in which we print ours. Yet the alphabet, earliest of literary inventions, revolutionized the world and may justly be considered to be the foundation stone of civilization as well as education. Without the alphabet there would be only picture writing such as the Chinese have; clumsy, inefficient and keeping such wisdom as there is, only for the few.

The humble invention which made the world, lives; even its earliest record persists for thirty-one centuries. And our boasted monument of our great peace beginning, is falling to ruins after six years!

YOUR CHAMBER OF COMMERCE

Consistent efforts are being exerted in recruiting the membership of the Ashland Chamber of Commerce. While the list of names represented on the official roll is representative of the city and surrounding districts there are a number of excellent citizens who are eligible to membership who are not counted among the members of the organization.

The Chamber of Commerce has for its purpose the "building of a bigger and better Ashland," and to this end many members of the organization are devoting both time and money. Their efforts are not prompted by a selfish spirit but by a desire to keep their city and district to the fore and to develop them to a degree that will at least keep us in the van-guard of community activities in the state.

The Chamber of Commerce is an organization that represents the business and commercial life of the town, and one that is devoted to advancement along these lines. It is doing good work, but is not making the headway that present conditions demand, for no other reason than it is not receiving suggestions, advice, and support from many who are not counted among its members. The organization can function only as its membership and support will permit. Remember, it is your Chamber of Commerce, whether you belong to it or not.

BE FAIR TO THE BOYS

The usual spring argument about taking the boys out of school and putting them to work in the fields will soon begin in the farm home. The father is very busy. Plowing and planting must be done on time. It is hard to hire men who can be trusted with the machinery or the horses. Hired men mean more work in the kitchen for the mother and the daughters. The school may not be interesting. The boys are dependable, like to be out of doors, and are proud to take a man's place and help with the work. That is the easy, lazy way of looking at it and the boy gives up his spring school term and becomes a rural child laborer. If that occurs two or three years in succession he has lost his chance for an education.

The stronger, better way is to sacrifice something of present comfort and expediency for the child's future welfare. By his work this spring or next spring the boy may save to the family two or three dollars for a few weeks but he does it at a very great loss to himself and probably to his people. He is giving up the time that should be used to deepen, broaden, and refine his life. Besides that, if he does not get proper schooling and enough of it now, he will not be able to earn as much as he ought when he becomes a man. Then he, too, will feel that his children must give up their chances for an education and spend their childhood days at some kind of labor. So the circle goes on from father to son. Keep the boy in school. That may be the way to bring the entire family to a finer plane of life.—(Selected.)

COMPLETE LIST GIVEN

Members Urged to Make List of Those Not on Present Roll.

A consistent campaign is being carried on for increasing the membership of the Ashland Chamber of Commerce, and with good results. Applications for membership are being received and read at the regular forum-luncheon each week, and the growth at present is satisfactory. There are many, however, eligible to membership, whose names do not appear on the official rolls of the chamber and to this end a list of the membership is being published with the hope of stimulating interests in non-members, and to give members a chance to make a list of those who do not belong with a view to interviewing them and asking them to become members.

COUNTY HEALTH ASSN. IN ANNUAL MEETING

Cost of Welfare Work Compared With Other Expenditures Made by County.

The Jackson County Health Association, held its annual meeting in Medford, Wednesday, Feb. 20.

The morning was devoted to a round table discussion on health problems in each community. Mrs. Blakely, of the Nurses bureau presided.

The county commissioners, and county medical association were guests of honor at the noon luncheon. Mrs. Sadie Orr Dunbar, Dr. Stella Ford Warner, and Judge Gardner made the after luncheon speeches. D. Holt presided. Judge Gardner gave some interesting figures bearing on the importance of the work of the county nurse.

The county spends $8000 annually on its horticultural program; $25,000 on indigents, $25,000 on criminal cases, while the welfare work for our boys and girls costs $3000. During the Judge's first term, 300 Juvenile delinquencies came before the court, the number has been reduced to 75 at the present time. No boy or girl in the juvenile court is in good physical health and by improving the health of

POLITICAL ANNOUNCEMENTS

TREASURER
I am candidate for the republican nomination for a second term as Treasurer of Jackson County, subject to the May primary. If nominated and elected I will conduct the office as in the past, in accordance with the laws of the state.

Adv. if A. C. WALKER.

For County Clerk
I hereby announce myself as a candidate on the republican ticket for nomination for the office of County Clerk at the May primaries.

I have for the past 5 years been a Deputy County Clerk and am familiar with every branch of the office, and if elected, I will give close attention to the duties of the office and feel confident that I will prove worthy of your support.

DELILIA STEVENS.

COUNTY SCHOOL SUPERINTENDENT

I am a candidate for republican nomination at the May primaries for the office of County School Superintendent of Jackson County. I have served the county for three and a half years as county superintendent, and will, if again elected, work as earnestly for the cause of education as heretofore.

SUSANNE HOMES CARTER.

COUNTY CORONER

I am a republican candidate for reelection for Coroner of Jackson County, subject to primaries May 16.

Platform: Experience, personal attention, economic management. Being a substantial taxpayer I am interested in the economical management of all county offices.

JOHN A. PERL.

CORONER

I hereby announce myself as a candidate on the republican ticket, for nomination at the coming primary for the office of coroner of Jackson County.

By virtue of my profession as an undertaker, I feel that I have every qualification and the necessary equipment to properly handle any duties which may arise.

Adv. if

H. W. CONGER.

SHERIFF
As a candidate in the Republican primaries for the office of Sheriff, I desire to clearly define my position on the future conduct of that office, if elected.

My experience as a deputy sheriff of Jackson County, and as a State Traffic Officer, has taught me that no peace officer can give satisfactory and efficient service to the public when his authority and responsibility are shared by another. The present unsatisfactory law enforcing conditions is largely attributable to divided authority between antagonistic peace officers, elements that are certain to produce conflict, inefficiency and useless expense.

If elected I shall insist upon and expect to maintain the right to perform all the duties of Sheriff in this County, and it follows that I will be uncompromisingly opposed to special officers except Federal Agents, with whom I pledge full and complete cooperation. I am in thorough accord with both the letter and spirit of the prohibition laws and pledge my active and untiring efforts in their enforcement.

adv. if J. J. McMAHON.

COCHRAN IS CANDIDATE IN SECOND DISTRICT

LA GRANDE, Feb. 21.—George T. Cochran tonight announced his candidacy, subject to the May primaries, for representative in congress from the second Oregon congressional district on the republican ticket.

Mr. Cochran made the announcement to a large crowd of supporters gathered from all over the district, at the finish of a torch light parade through the business section to his residence.

The afternoon session was taken up with interesting reports of the county nurses and Ashland-Medford school nurse, also other business of the organization. The Medford High school furnished two musical numbers.

The report of the Christmas Seal sale was given by Mrs. Holloway. Jackson county sold $1353.20 worth of seals, Ashland sold $273.60, of this amount, as a result of this splendid sale, Jackson county retains $670 of it for health work in the county.

Mrs. C. F. Tilton and Mrs. J. H. Fuller were elected county president and secretary respectively.

Fifteen ladies and three physicians from Ashland attended the meeting.

SINGLE STANDARD IS URGED FOR DRY LAW

PORTLAND, Feb. 21.—There should be no double standard in the enforcement of the law, J. W. Herwig, president of the Oregon Anti-Saloon league, told the 300 or more women gathered at yesterday's session of the W. C. T. U. jubilee and conference in the First Methodist Episcopal church. The 18th amendment should have equal rights with other laws when it comes to enforcement, he insisted.

"The great need in Oregon today," Herwig said, "is more cooperation between temperance forces and prohibition officials. Temperance forces must unite if the job of prohibition is to be completed."

Herwig stressed the importance to the prohibition cause of electing dry officers.

TRADE RECORD COFFEE

United States consumes one-half the world's output. Our coffee bill averages a million dollars a day. South America the chief home of the coffee tree; it now produces about 9/10 of the coffee of the world. Brazil our largest source of supply.

Coffee imports into the United States in the calendar year 1923 were the largest in the history of our import trade. They aggregated, says the Trade Record of The National City Bank of New York, 1,425,000,000 pounds against a former high record of 1,341,000,000 in 1921, 1,297,000,000 in 1920, and 832,000,000 in the year preceding the war; all of these figures relate to calendar years. The value of the coffee imports of 1923 was in round terms $193,000,000 against $105,000,000 in 1913.

Whether the war had anything to do with this growth of our coffee habit is not easy to determine but at least it is a fact that the quantity imported has rapidly increased since 1913, the total quantity imported in 1923 being 66% greater than in the year preceding the war, while the consuming population has meantime increased but 14%.

Whether prohibition has had anything to do with the increased consumption is also not easy to determine but it is a fact that the imports of 1923 were but slightly greater than in 1919, the year preceding that in which the prohibition amendment came into effect.

There were only two occasions prior to the war in which imports reached as much as a billion pounds and four occasions prior to prohibition in which the total exceeded 1,200,000,000 pounds; in 1923 the total was 1,425,000,000. The average age per capita consumption in 1913, as stated by the Statistical Abstract of the United States, was slightly below 9 pounds per capita; in 1918 10 1/2 pounds; 1921 slightly above 12, and in 1923 approximately 13 pounds per capita.

And the coffee "habit" seems a somewhat expensive one, says the Trade Record, when we note that the stated value of the coffee imported since 1913 is over 1 1/2 billion dollars in the countries from which brought and by the time it is shipped to our ports, warehoused, roasted and transferred to the consumer has fully doubled in price, suggesting that the people of the country have paid more than $3,000,000,000 for their coffee since the beginning of the war, and that they are now paying for their coffee considerably over a million dollars a day.

But the people will have it irrespective of price, for the very year in which the import price made its highest record, 1920, showed larger quantities imported than in any year preceding that date. The average import price of coffee entering the country in the fiscal year 1920 was, according to the Department of commerce, practically 22 cents per pound (21.98 cents), and the quantity imported in that year 1,417,000,000 pounds, or more than in any earlier year in the history of the country, and in fact is only exceeded by the record of the calendar year 1923 when the total is approximately 1,425,000,000 pounds.

Ordinarily the import price of raw coffee averages from 10 to 12 cents per pound. In the calendar year 1923 the average import price was about 13 cents per pound, the valuation of the coffee imported being, under the laws of the United States, the actual market value or wholesale price in the time of exportation to the United States in the principal world.

markets of the country from whence exported." Prices vary, however, the coffee coming from Brazil in the 11 months of 1923 for which detailed figures are now available having averaged 12.47 cents per pound, that from Central America as a whole 13.33 cents, from Colombia 16.81 cents, and from Java slightly more than 18 cents.

While about two-thirds of the coffee entering the United States originates in Brazil, the number of countries from which our total imports are drawn is, according to government records, over 50, the chief countries from which the 1922 imports were drawn having been in the order of rank as measured in pounds, Brazil, Colombia, Venezuela, Guatemala, Mexico, Java, Salvador, and Costa Rica. The total quantity imported from the principal countries in the 11 months of 1923 for which details are now available was from Brazil 834,000,000 pounds, Colombia 202,000,000, Central America as a whole 117,000,000, Venezuela 48,000,000, Mexico 33,000,000, and Java 8 1/2 million pounds. About 2 per cent of this coffee imported is re-exported.

The United States is the world's biggest consumer of coffee. We take in fact about one-half of the coffee of the world and our per capita consumption is now probably greater than that of any other country. Brazil is the world's largest producer and now supplies about 70% of the world's coffee. The amount of money which we have sent to Brazil alone for coffee since the beginning of 1913 is over one billion dollars. The coffee tree has wandered far from its original home, Abyssinia, following the tropical belt the world around but proving especially successful in tropical America which now produces about 90% of the coffee of the world.

MOVING TO THE FAR WEST IN '49 AND NOW

In pioneer days furniture and family crossed the continent in a Prairie Schooner; now the family travels by sea or rail, and the furniture by sea in a van which is loaded at your home and is not unloaded until it reaches your new home. Picture at top shows van being hoisted aboard a Panama-Pacific liner, shown in lower left.

These new days of sending letters by airplane, elimination of space seems commonplace. Yet there are practical developments in transportation that are quite as much worth while to the ordinary citizen.

For example, there has been a recent decided improvement in the method of moving household goods long distances. In the good old days of the pioneers, of which everybody reads with sentimental interest, the settler bound for California was lucky if he could find space on his prairie schooner for his wife's favorite bureau and rocking chair, and luckier still after six months if they arrived intact at the end of a rail, canal-boat and river steamboat journey, followed by the 1500-mile trek of his ox team across plains, mountains and deserts.

Now it is possible to ship household goods from your home in the east to your new home on the west to New York.
