STUDENTS THANK CITY FOR PICNIC

Representative Students Make Public Statement Thanking Organizations

That the recent entertainment by the Ashland civic organization in honor of the Summer Normal students was appreciated is evidenced by the following, handed to the Tidings this morning:

We, the students of the Ashland, Oregon, Normal School, wish to express our appreciation to the organized clubs of Ashland for the pleasurable hospitality you have shown us. Especially we wish to express our appreciation for the trip to the summit of the Siskiyou mountains, showing to many of us for the first time, a view of the supposed "Promised Land". But to us the promised land lay in the little valley at the foot of the mountains on the Oregon side of the heart of which nestles the beautiful City of Ashland.

This ride developed an appetite, and to our delight, when we reached the park, a sumptuous lunch was spread under the grand old trees. The atmosphere about us, the hospitality of the ladies who served, caused us to linger long and enjoy more than one helping from the seemingly miraculous store.

The whole evening was like a Christmas box from home—the surprises and good things seemed never to cease. The program that followed the lunch in the park served to prove what the students already thought they felt—that they were welcome in Ashland—and, with the speakers, we wished that instead of spending six weeks in Ashland we were spending thirty-six weeks.

The culmination of the whole program could not have been better planned than that the last hours might be spent dancing to the enchanting music as it floated out on the night air, wakening the swans from their peaceful slumbers on the lake, driving dull care from every heart and bringing to an enjoyable end a perfect evening's entertainment.

FROG'S DIET BACKS MARK TWAIN TALE

LODI, Cal., July 18—Folks who have been scoffing for more than half a century at the possibility that Mark Twain's famous jumping frog of Calaveras ever existed were definitely silenced here by Clarice, who, loaded to the gunwales with the latest model ball bearings, is making vain efforts to jump for distance.

Clarice is noted hereabouts as a weather prophet of note, and from her tank at the city pumping station is wont to swell her stomach when a rainy spell is in the offing, reversing the proceedings during dry weather.

Her latest avocation began when Engineer W. J. Webb was dismantling an ancient flivver. Clarice sampled a ball bearing, liked its flavor and went back for more, aided by Webb, who garbished them with oil.

Now Clarice can't jump any more, and the one-time problem of keeping her out of mischief has apparently been solved.

Articles of timely interest are welcomed under this head. Communications must bear the signature of the author.

To the Editor:

A certain Dr. M. A. Mathews, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church of Seattle, and well known to Ashland Chautauquians, lays crime to laziness and pride. We reproduce his "drastic remarks" in a summarized fashion, as delivered by him before a congregation of nearly 2,000 persons who attentively followed him throughout his discourse with well sustained interest.

His chief contention was that parents are blamable for the sad state of affairs, and that the neglect of the child means the ruination of the nation. The members of our Ashland Parent-Teacher Association, who have done so much for the cause they represent, know full well that parents do everything but their duty in the rearing of their families. The writer could compile a list of young men and maidens—with half a dozen octogenarians thrown in for good weight—who are living examples of what man and woman should be in life, but in every instance the fact is made plain that the parent stepped in at the proper time and performed the duties incumbent upon them as heads of families.

Summarized—Dr. Mathews' talk to his congregation (for it seemed of that character) was substantially as follows, dealing with the more attractive features of his discourse:

"An alarming situation prevails in the female world because of the complications and confusions of modern society and because of the erroneous views that the modern girl has of life.

In all great cities of the land, even including our own city of Seattle, there are scores and hundreds of girls that literally drop out of existence every year, never to be found.

It is not just the girls who drop out of existence—the girl who has been murdered, the girl who has been sold, the girl who has been kidnaped, the girl who has been destroyed, the girl who is in the caverns of a lost society—they are not the ones I have included, but the thousands of girls whose lives have been burned by the hot iron of cruel society.

The scars and mars upon their precious bodies and brains, and souls only God can see. A large part of the condition that I have described is due to the irreligious, unreligious, non-religious, and antagonistic attitude of fathers and mothers toward God, the bible and the church.

There are women in this city, respected in the fashionable, frivolous society in which they move, the society of a Godless world, who now, as I am speaking, are gambling in their homes. Not all the home-brew brewers are males.

I have given you an epitome of the situation as it exists today. Now I shall tell you the cause. First, so far as the woman and girl are concerned, one cause is a love of east, the passion for luxury, the unsatisfied and unquenchable thirst for the flask and the feathers, the adornment of a frivolous, pleasure and social-seeking world.

Another thing that is producing the crime wave among the youth of the land is the love of

In autointoxication constipation, allows the intestinal contents to remain in the passage much longer than normally, which further aids in the development of unnatural products, and in the absorption of these products. A very prominent symptom is headaches, also dizziness. There may be sleeplessness or a drowsy, sleepy feeling, and a general lack of energy. Nervousness, irritability, and fretfulness are prominent in some cases.

Not infrequently the skin is more or less covered with eruptions and there may be fever. Vague aches and pains throughout the body are described by many.

In overcoming this condition, which might easily lead to disease of almost any or all organs of the body, it is advisable to make a change in the diet. Usually it is best to fast, so that the intestinal tract can be thoroughly cleansed. At the beginning of this fast it may be well to give a saline laxative to sweep the toxins as quickly as possible, or the enema may be used in conjunction with drinking large quantities of water. This will remove the substances in the intestinal tract and at the same time allow the body to throw into this tract especially from the liver, considerable quantities of already absorbed poisons.

The drinking of large quantities of water markedly increases the activity of the kidneys and they carry off large quantities of toxins. Sweating, baths, and air and friction baths increase the skin activity so that many poisons are thrown off in this way. Deep breathing when there is an abundance of pure air allows the escape of a considerable amount of poisons through the lungs.

After the fast may be taken the fruit and vegetable diet, or the milk diet may be used to great advantage. A Miss Johnson had a most pronounced case of constipation and autointoxemia, as her bowels did not move at any time without a laxative or enema, and she had several times passed eight or ten days without bowel action. Her skin was extremely sallow and the rings under her eyes were deep and black. Her entire body gave off a foul odor. The treatment suggested above was applied and within ten weeks the bowels were acting normally.

adornment, the love of dress.

There is more concern put upon the outward adornment of the girls today than is put upon the spiritual and intellectual development of the world.

The average street is a moving staircase of fashion, of mystery and suggestion. There is not only the love of ease and the love of dress, but there is also the love of pleasure!

It is true that three billion dollars are invested into the autos of America—the purchase price paid by the private owners, and a million and a half of those dollars represent the mortgage of homes and in some instances, of character itself to satisfy the desire that comes from the wheels of life.

ing, Larry Mann as the Friar was one of the bright and enjoyable parts, with a freedom of action and speech that drew commendation. Mrs. Isaacs as Dame Durden was fitted to the part and carried her lines well with her acting. George Maddox as Robin Hood, leading man and tenor, carried off his share of the honors. Miss Leata Childers was petite, blonde and of a manner to be a practical sweetheart of a bold adventurous woodsman of Olde Merry England. Ed Andrews, as the sheriff, without reservations or equivocation was the spot light of the comedy, always singing well. Fletcher Fish, as aid to the sheriff and as Sir Guy Gisborne, was a complete scream in every particular, and carrying along the business with Ed Andrews in a snappy fashion.

One of the beautiful and exceedingly fine parts of the show was the May Pole dances and ballets by the little folks under the tutelage of Miss Helen Rodolph. The variety of dances and costumes, combined with the enthusiasm of the young folks made that part of the production one of the outstanding features.

PRODUCTION PRAISED BY ASHLAND CITIZEN

That the production was received with the highest degree of satisfaction is indicated by a conversation with T. H. Simpson, who was among the many Ashland people in attendance at the opening night. Mr. Simpson said: "The operatic pageant, 'Robin Hood,' presented last night was the best performance I have ever witnessed in Rogue River valley. The solos, chorus work and dancing was perfect and too much praise cannot be given to the directors, without a flaw.

"The stage setting was a work of art and the entire management

"Ashland citizens should see 'Robin Hood.' The songs of just one or two of the leaders are worth the price of admission alone. The County Fair management and Andrews brothers are deserving of great praise and deserve to be backed in their efforts to place high class entertainments before the people of our county.

"The admission price of $1.10 for adults and 50 cents for children is so reasonable that no one can afford to remain away. There is not a place in the big grand stand but what every note can be heard or where the action of the opera can not be seen. As a former member of the Fair board, I know that it is not a money-making proposition, and as the expense this year will approximate $3,000 they are entitled to the patronage of every citizen of the county. I am glad the performance is to be repeated tonight and tomorrow night, which will afford all an opportunity to witness it."
