Both Young Killers in High Spirits; Welcome Reporters to Cells

JUDGE IN SECLUSION Caverly to Jail Anyone Who Disturbs Him While He Studies Testimony

CHICAGO, Aug. 29.—Nathan Leopold and Richard Loeb today declared that they are "glad that the trial is over so that we can settle down to real jail life."

The boys seemed not a bit worried, and chatted with the newspaper men. They said they wanted the addresses of the reporters who "covered" the trial so that they could write to them.

Threatens Jail

An immediate sentence awaits anyone who disturbs Judge Caverly, he said today, as he is busy going through 1,900 pages of transcripts of the testimony.

Both young killers were in good humor as they left the courtroom where they have sat for nearly six weeks and heard themselves excoriated as "murders, perverts, cold-blooded fiends," and almost every other epithet in the lexicon of vituperation.

During the time that Mr. Tuttle was connected with the Tidings, it has grown from a seven to an eight column paper, and has assumed a more aggressive policy of getting and presenting news.

SAYS TAX DRIVES OUT BIG CAPITAL

McMINNVILLE, Aug. 29.—Forty-one and a half million dollars have been driven out of Oregon by the state income tax, according to George L. Rauch, Portland attorney, who addressed a meeting of the Kiwanis club here today. He declared this money was needed for the development of the state's natural resources.

Mr. Rauch insisted likewise that the publicity given the operation of the blue sky law and alleged violations of that law prevented capital coming here. He also pleaded for religious tolerance.

WATERMELON THIEVES GET JAIL SENTENCES

ROSEBURG, Aug. 29.—Three Coquille boys, Walter Paulson, Edgar Emery and Arthur McAdams, 17 and 18-year old youths, were given thirty days in jail apiece for watermelon thefts at Dillard.

They entered a plea of guilty when arraigned this morning. Depravations in the Dillard vicinity had grown so serious that the county recently placed a guard over the fields and statements by Judge Jones are to the effect that thieves captured will be charged with larceny and given sentences in jail.

M'CLOUD DISTRICT IS GLACIER BOUND

Railroad Blocked, Highway Under Four Feet of Mud; City Repairs Water Mains

M'CLOUD, Cal., Aug. 29.—McCloud and the surrounding vicinity still remains glacial bound. A little falling off of the mud flow down Mount Shasta's melting glacier was noted this afternoon. The McCloud river railroad is still blocked. The water supply was restored today after the town had been without water for 36 hours, due to the flow breaking the water mains. Huge rocks the size of cabins, as well as trees and debris are carried by the slow-moving mud stream. Traffic over the McCloud river railroad and the McCloud-Bartle highway were both blocked at a late hour. Although the flow yesterday was as heavy as that of the previous day, the river of mud had somewhat subsided this afternoon.

Highway Under Mud The McCloud-Bartle highway is under mud four feet deep, and is impassable. The road is an important artery of travel to and from numerous mountain settlements. Yesterday, the temperature reached 100 degrees.

Lawrence Turnbull and Herbert Hamilton, employees of the local lumber company were lost for fifteen hours on Mt. Shasta when they climbed to the peak in an effort to find the origin of the mud flow. From Misery Point, the highest point they reached, they had a splendid view of the glacier, and say that the snow blanket which protects the glacier from heat is gone.

When they drew razors, O'Brien fought back, using a razor of his own. The police took the three to St. Mary's Hospital for treatment, and then arrested them. None is seriously injured.

PRESIDENT SAYS FAITH IS NEEDED

Mr. Coolidge Talks to Delegates From Porch of White House

TALKS OF WELFARE No Political References Made in Address; Deals With Promotion of Brotherhood

WASHINGTON, Aug. 29.—Fresh from his vacation of two weeks in the Vermont hills, President Coolidge, in his address today, sounded an appeal for the practice in America of the home virtues of faith, loyalty and common sense.

Mr. Coolidge went back to the Sermon on the Mount as the most expressive and definite standard of action for the promotion of human fellowship. "We of America today are too prone to let fancies of the moment dictate our courses of action," said the President. "Faith is almost a forgotten virtue of the world way, and following have been trying times, enough to test the most firm faith. Most of us have been tried and found wanting."

Need Loyalty "Loyalty is a virtue that is sadly needed. In times of a national crisis, our loyalty is unlimited. Once a danger point is passed, however, sedition becomes rampant, and many men plot against the life of the nation."

"Our national life should be one of common sense. There is too much of a tendency to be ruled by momentary passions and thoughts of passing fancy."

No Politics Coolidge's speech, delivered to several hundred delegates of the National Fraternal Society of America who gathered about the White House, contained no references to politics. It dealt solely with the promotion of the welfare of humanity through a spirit of brotherhood and fraternity. High ideals as an active promoter of national welfare and international peace were stressed by the President.

ACCUSED'S TALK OPENS JAIL DOORS

Colored Boozer Makes Eloquent Speech of Twenty Minutes; Is Dismissed

PORTLAND, Aug. 29.—Florian Slappey, or even Lawyer Chew would have marveled at a sermon that was given in municipal court today.

It could not be called less than a sermon. And it got York Stanley, colored, out of jail on a liquor charge. Its conclusion, marked by grandiose gestures and a bow, won a round of applause and laughter from a crowded courtroom. The bailiff found it necessary to knock two square necessary to knock two square on which his gavel fell.

"Is I evah goin' to quit drinkin'?" York demanded in loud tones which reached the lower floor. Nobody had asked him the question. Nobody answered it for him.

"I is!" he shouted. York quoted at length from the Bible; offered a number of admonitions to those in the courtroom who, unlike himself, were not behind the railing. He waived his arms. His voice rose and fell in a series of crescendos and diminuendos. He talked 20 minutes. At the end of the time, after he had promised that Judge Ekwall would love him if he could "get loose his time"—Ekwall whirled in his chair.

"York," he said, "With another pint, you could have preached a better sermon. However, you've talked yourself out of jail."

REMUS SAYS PARDON BAIT OF PROBERS

Prisoner Says He Was Promised Freedom for Lying About Daugherty

STATEMENTS UNTRUE

Affidavit Claims Sterns Held Out Liberty as Bait to Millonaire Convict

ATLANTA, Ga., Aug. 29.—George E. Remus, Cincinnati millionaire, in the federal prison here serving a two-year term for conspiracy to violate the federal prohibition laws, today denied testimony given before the Brookhart-Daugherty investigating committee in Washington.

Mr. Remus declared in an affidavit that he falsified when he told investigators that he gave Jesse Smith, intimate friend of the ex-Attorney General, thousands of dollars for liquor permits.

Given for Freedom

Remus claimed, in his sworn statement, that the false testimony was given in return for a promise of Harry Sterns, attorney for the committee, that the influence of the investigators would be used to have him freed from prison. According to Remus his immediate pardon was promised as the reward of giving testimony that would implicate Daugherty, although he had told Sterns that he knew of no illegal transactions involving the Attorney-General.

His affidavit begins by setting forth that it is made voluntarily and without threat or punishment or promise of reward.

"On the 10th day of May," says the statement, "I was called on in the Atlanta prison by Harry Sterns, an attorney for the United States senate investigating committee, known as the Wheeler-Brookhart committee. He told me that he spoke with the full authority of the committee members.

"Get Daugherty"

"The committee," he said, "is out to get Daugherty and it is common knowledge that you paid him about $300,000 during your Cincinnati operations. The committee wants a statement that will implicate Daugherty directly."

"I told him I knew of no illegal transactions involving Daugherty. He then said that if I would help the Wheeler-Brookhart committee to frame some transactions on Daugherty, the committee would get me out of the penitentiary."
