AUGUST 29: THERE IS NO FEAR IN LOVE; but perfect love casteth out fear bath torment. He that feareth is not made perfect in love.—1 John 4:18.

NOT TO BE FORGOTTEN: That Roy D'Autremont, wanted for the holdup and killing in tunnel 13 last October 12, had passed through Ashland and was under arrest in Oakland, was apparently a forlorn hope, but the wide interest which was awakened by the possibility taught a lesson.

It showed that the Northwest has not forgotten the ghastly details of the tragedy, and that time has not dulled the determination to bring the criminals to justice. If the D'Autremont boys are ever captured in this district, it is doubtful if a strong guard can protect them from an angry mob, determined to see that they pay with their lives, even before a court has decided their guilt.

That the men will ever be captured seems doubtful. Nearly a year has passed since the fatal attempted robbery, but the memory of its wantonness is still fresh and operatives of the United States postal service have before this trailed men for years before bringing them to the bar of justice.

HARD TO EXPLAIN: When a meal once a day becomes the commonplace; when the light of day begins to shine through the children's shoes and when clothes become patches and gaps, most men commence looking around for more cash of the realm.

This explanation might be offered for the spectacle of a preacher of the Word of God bringing a monkey into the pulpit to illustrate a theory. According to news dispatches, the monkey made so much noise that the preacher could not talk. Perhaps it was merciful. Nothing daunted, the man announced from the pulpit that next Sunday he would use a human skull, with the eye sockets illuminated, to illustrate his theory.

Such circus performances are hard to explain, unless the minister's congregation is small, and he wishes to increase its size in order to swell the contribution boxes. If such is the case, he is wasting his talent. He should go into vaudeville.

SURMOUNTED DIFFICULTIES: That was an interesting story in The American Magazine about C. A. Harris, local Western Union manager, who, when he was a messenger in this city, saved the life of a prisoner at Jacksonville, whose death sentence was commuted late at night by the governor. This message was delivered by Messenger Harris after surmounting difficulties, just as hundreds of other messenger boys throughout the nation each day surmount difficulties in order that words of encouragement, discouragement, happiness and sadness may be delivered to the proper parties.

The experience of messenger boys is only another example however of the old rule that satisfactory work is always rewarded.

SOME OLD ADVICE: Married life in Ancient Egypt 5000 years ago must have been much the same as it is in Europe today. Sir Ernest Wallis Budge, the famous Egyptologist of the British Museum, has collected the writings of the ancient scribes, which he is publishing under the title, "The Teaching of Amen-em-Apt." The earliest known advice on marriage is that of a scribe named Ptahhetep, who wrote about 4000 years B. C. "If thou wouldst be wise or prosperous, get married," says Ptahhetep. "Love thou thy wife in the house wholly and rightly. Fill her belly and clothe her back, oil for anointing is the medicine for her limbs. Make her heart to rejoice as long as thou livest." Another scribe, named Ani, had a few straight things to say to husbands: "Attempt not to direct a woman in her house when thou knowest that she is a perfect housewife." He also warned men against widows and the "strange women" in the town, and seems to have been the first prohibitionist: "Undertake nothing as the result of having drunk beer," he remarks. "For if thou dost, words, which can have a second meaning, may come forth from thy mouth without thy knowledge." Much of the 5000-year-old advice on how to be happy and grow rich might have been written today.

A large mail order house in Portland has showed real initiative. One of the main highways leading into that city did not make the tourists drive by the retail store of this house, so the enterprising company has spent $100,000 building a new street, connecting with the tourist traffic.

WILL REORGANIZE VETERANS' BUREAU

A reorganization, far-reaching in its effect, to change the present fourteen District Offices of the U. S. Veterans Bureau into eight District Control offices and to place most of the powers and duties now given to the District managers in the hands of the heads of approximately fifty regional offices, was announced today by General Frank T. Hines, Director of the United States Veterans Bureau.

The reorganization comes as the expected result of provisions contained in the recently enacted World War Veterans Act, 1924 which made possible the further decentralization of the Bureau to the extent of permitting the establishing of regional claims and rating boards.

Change Soon: The order establishing these boards has already been approved by the Director and they are expected to be in operation within sixty days. The real effect of the proposed reorganization will be to bring in contact with the claimant these Bureau representatives who are to examine and determine what hospitalization, compensation, training, or other relief, he is entitled to. This will end all "paper ratings."

In many cases the present Sub-district Offices will become regional offices. It is expected that there will be at least one regional office in virtually each state. The actions taken by the new regional claims and rating boards will in each case be final, although, of course, subject to review by the Central Office Board of Appeals in matters tending to show whether or not the law was followed. No attempt will be made by the Central Office Board of Appeals to alter awards made by the new regional boards in so far as they deal with the determination of the degree of disability.

The success of the new system has already been proven through the experimental regional claims and rating board set up some time ago in Washington, D. C., and Denver, Colorado. General Hines also stated that, should the work of the Central Office Board of Appeals grow to such an extent as to delay action on pending claims, sections of this board would be set up in the District Control Offices. Such sections would have the same powers as the board acting in Washington in the Central Office and would hold their sessions in the district control offices during such time as the number of claims seem to require.

The heads of the new regional offices will be given all of the authority necessary to transact the business of the Bureau in the areas assigned. They will deal directly with Central office.

The District Control Officers will be given powers of supervision and control over a certain number of regional offices and over the hospitals within their area. The heads of the District Control Offices will be given sufficient authority to act in all cases for the Director. It is not expected that there will be any immediate reduction in personnel. "The first duty of the Veterans Bureau is to furnish adequate service and proper relief for the disabled and once the maximum of service is reached it will then be time to take short-cuts and reduce expenditures," said General Hines.

In the establishment of the regional offices, General Hines declared that the best personnel of the district offices would be chosen to take charge.

Klan to Hold Huge Ceremonial Here

On the night of September Second, Ashland Klan No. 10, Realm of Oregon, will be host to a gathering here of Klansmen from all over the state.

The features of the evening will be a big Klan parade and the burning of a huge fiery cross that will illuminate the entire town.

The meeting will be punctuated by the presence, from Portland of the Grand Dragon of the realm and his official family.

The parade will form on Main street and march thru town proceeding thence, to a large open space where, following an address by the Grand Dragon, those interested in the inner workings of the order will have an opportunity to witness the Naturalization Ceremony of the Klan. The Exalted Cyclops will consider applications for Citizenship in the Invisible Empire at that time.

It is the aim of the Ashland Klan to become better acquainted with the people of our town and we invite your presence at a public ceremonial of an order which, founded on the principles of PURE AMERICANISM and COURAGE has stirred the entire nation.

PATROL SMASH-UP BRINGS LAW CASE

ABERDEEN, Wash., Aug. 28.—A damage claim of $639.75 has been filed against the city of Aberdeen by Mrs. Anna Sandberg, who alleges that the police patrol collided with a car which she was driving on the Heron street bridge over the Wishkah river last week, and that the accident was due to reckless driving on the part of the police.

ROUND-UP PATRONS IN LINE FOR GOOD SEATS

PENDLETON, Aug. 29.—Actual ticket sales for Round-Up seats do not start until September 2, but a line in front of the ticket booth started Tuesday morning at 4:30 o'clock to be sure of getting the best seats available.

John Bowman heads the line, acting for J. J. Hamely, who in the 15 years of the Round-Up has had more first choices of seats than any other individual. Next in line is Jimmy Carden, who is acting for J. H. Sturgis, while Lynn Barr will get third choice, acting for Hamley. Ray Burgin is holding fourth place and Jack Boynton fifth with the idea of selling their places to ticket-hungry Pendletonians.

The line will be maintained and the men already have cots on the job in which to spend the night. They will stay until the box office opens.

BIG BOMBING PLANE BUILT FOR SPANISH

LONDON, Aug. 29.—Spain is aiming at possessing the world's monster bombing aeroplane. Tests just carried out with a new air-marine bomber, built for the Spanish Government by the Supermarine Aviation Company, at Southampton, have been markedly successful. It is believed that the powers of this new machine are greater than those of any other in existence.

The new monster is an amphibian and can either "land on" or "take off" from the roughest water. Pilot, gunner and observer are accommodated in the forward position of the boat, and the bombs are carried in the hull.
