SEPTEMBER 3

BLESS THE LORD, O my soul, and forget not all his benefits; who redeemeth thy life from destruction: who crowneth thee with lovingkindness and tender mercies.—Psalm 103:1, 4.

DEFENSE DAY

It is very easy to ask a question, but not always is it easy to answer it. In this instance, however, the answer is not difficult. On his day—September 12—you are simply asked to say: "I am an American, I believe in all that America stands for and am willing, if need be, to demonstrate my patriotism—a dynamic patriotism that stands ready to make whatever personal sacrifices necessary to defend Americanism." Patriotism is love of country. Abstract patriotism—cheering the flag, making fiery Fourth of July speeches—is of questionable value. It is only constructive patriotism—patriotism that can be converted into action—that is worth while. If you are unwilling to do this you are not a good American; you are not patriotic.

SAFEGUARDING THE SCHOOL CHILD

The opening of school brings with it the problem of protecting the school child from infections which take a jump when school reassembles, states a bulletin issued by the state board of health. Education has been made compulsory and although the system is not perfect, it is a conceded fact that education is a necessity. By making education compulsory we have thereby assumed the responsibility of keeping the school as free from disease as possible. It is therefore of great importance that all children be given a careful examination to determine whether or not they are disease carriers.

Successful control of contagious diseases in schools requires effective cooperation of parents, teachers and children.

To do justice to one's own child and to be decently fair to the other parent's children, it is not enough that the child go to school properly and cleanly clad; the parents should make a definite and thorough examination before permitting him to leave the home. He should always be kept at home, at least for the day, when there is nausea, vomiting, chills, convulsion, dizziness, faintness, unusual pallor, rash of any kind, rise of temperature or suggestion of it through unusual warmth of skin, a discharge from the nose, redness or secretion from the eyes, a sore or inflamed throat, swollen glands in the neck or elsewhere, a new cough, failure to eat breakfast, a seriously disturbed night's rest, or any unexplained or indefinite change from the usual appearance or conduct. If the disturbing sign does not promptly disappear, of course the family physician should be called and only on his assurance that no disease exists or is likely to occur in the very near future, may the child be permitted to go to school or come into contact with other children.

Many parents are offended when children are sent home for failing to comply with these reasonable requirements. However, they are even more likely to find fault if their child is exposed to disease through the medium of the school. The protection of children in school can never be greater than the parents' help to make it.

HE SAW IT THROUGH

The Oregon Journal of Sunday stated editorially: With never a whimper or complaint, Charles L. Loomis of Ashland lived 23 years in a wheel chair.

From that chair he directed and built up his own business, and did it so well that he was called by the people to be mayor and direct the city's business. In the official field he was as successful and as popular as in the private field.

Twenty-three years ago he fell from the roof of a new home that he was helping to build for his family, struck on a scaffold, and was paralyzed from his hips down. From a far less privation many people lose their grip, forget their purpose in life, fall into discouragement or despondency, and become complainants or scolds.

"Charley" Loomis was of sterner stuff. He accepted the inevitable, procured the wheel chair, chose a line of business that could be directed from a wheel chair, laughed at his misfortune, and the community laughed with him.

His life is an example and an inspiration to those who falter. It's not the physical body, but the will, that wins. In the light of his career it is a woeful confession of weakness, because of a physical handicap or a stroke of bad luck or a reversal in business, to throw up the sponge and give up the fight.

"Charley" Loomis saw it through. In the fullness of a successful mayoralty he has traveled on. His monument is the example he left, his testimonial the widespread mourning in his city.

CUTS EMPLOYE RISK

The Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance company claims to have taken the risk out of employment and that, by application of a set of rules when they are hiring a salesman to be able to eliminate practically all failures. These are some of the rules which they use in this unique test: What is the age of the man seeking employment? If he is between 33 and 38, his chances for success are best. Is he married? If so, he gets the call over the bachelor.

How many children has he? As many as five are regarded as an incentive; any more are rated a handicap. How many years of selling experience has he had? The man with six is preferable to one with three or twelve. Is he a "joiner"? Membership in organizations is a point in his favor and to hold office, in addition, raises his score.

Is he a home owner? If he is, he has the advantage over the renter applying for the same position.

Has he investments in stock and bonds? The man who saves, no matter how little, is regarded as a far more desirable prospect than he who spends all he earns.

Many of the kid banditries of the present day are traced back to the fact that the kids would not work for $7 or $8 a day. Also, a close investigation would show that the kids were not worth the amount offered them.

Included in the Chicago system of housekeeping is the care of a baby—a brisquet affair. We wonder how many of the lessons in bathing the baby—and other lessons—could be applied exactly as given in the Chicago school when the baby is a real, live kicking youngster.

Philadelphia claims the distinction of having more century-old firms than any city in the world. Many critics of cities often say that this is the reason the city is not progressing, but this is a fine distinction and one of which Philadelphia should be proud.

TO DECIDE FATE OF FRAME SHACKS

ASTORIA, Sept. 2.—The fate of Astoria's shacks, the little frame buildings erected shortly after the fire disaster of 1922, will be decided by the city council Tuesday night.

Under ordinance these buildings, which have housed many business firms, are scheduled to be demolished September 1, but it has been indicated by authorities that where they are occupied by firms who have leases in permanent buildings now under construction the shacks will be permitted to stand until the tenants can move.

EZRA MEEKER HAS FIRST PLANE RIDE

VANCOUVER, Wash., Sept. 2.—Ezra Meeker, aged pioneer who crossed the plains to the Oregon country in 1852 by ox-team, arrived at the barracks aviation field here today by taxicab from Portland and left at once for Pacific City in an airplane piloted by Dick Rushlight.

Vernon Bookwalter escorted him in another plane. Mr. Meeker, though more than 90 years old, showed no hesitation in taking to the air and has now experienced every kind of transportation, from the ox-team with a speed of three miles an hour to the airplane traveling 100 miles an hour, he said. He took part in the Labor day celebration at Pacific City.

of the Anderson Galleries, told the story of how the dealer bought the blackened mass for $25, hoping to resell it, and a small profit, as old marble—but declined to reveal the name of the junkman and the exact price he received for his treasure when its true identity was disclosed. Kinney did admit, however, that it brought "several thousand dollars" and intimated that it "might have brought $10,000."

The bust has been declared genuine by several experts, after its discovery, blackened and dirt-encrusted, in the junk dealer's yard, where it had reposed for the last ten years. It was presented to the United States by France about 1830 and was believed to have been destroyed by the fire in the Library of Congress in 1851. The sculptor himself, reading of the fire, died in the belief the famous work had been destroyed.

KITECART WAS LOSING HIS STRENGTH QUICKLY

"After hearing so much about Tanlac I thought it must be good medicine, but I had no idea it was so fine until I took it myself," is the striking statement of C. B. Kitecart, 1411 W. 58th St., Seattle, Wash.

"Six months ago my appetite quit, my digestion broke down and I had a constant aching feeling in my stomach that got on my nerves something awful. Some days I never wanted to eat a thing and my strength was getting away from me fast.

"But here I am after taking only three bottles of Tanlac eating and digesting everything and feeling fine. However, as strong and well as I feel I am going to keep on taking Tanlac until I have used at least six bottles to make sure its work is well done. What it takes to make a person feel right Tanlac certainly has it."

Tanlac is for sale by all good druggists. Accept no substitute. Over 40 million bottles sold. Tanlac Vegetable Pills, for constipation, made and recommended by the manufacturers of TAN-LAC.

HEAR FROM WANDERERS Word was received today by Ashland friends from Merrick Thornton and Wilbur Chapman, 1924 graduates of Ashland high school, who left last month in a battered flivver for Alberta. The letter was dated August 29, and was sent from Okanogan, Washington. The boys said that Seattle took their eye, although they felt the need of money. After accumulating enough money to buy gasoline, they will be on their way again.
