SEPTEMBER 5

PURE RELIGION and undefiled before God and the Father is this. To visit the fatherless and widows in their affliction, and to keep himself unspotted from the world.—James 1:27.

PLAYGROUNDS AND VICE

Investigation in cities has revealed that of arrests on charges of delinquency more than three-fourths of them are of children who live at a distance from a public playgrounds.

This is in line with the generally accepted conclusions that healthful play and recreation provide an outlet for youthful energies without leading to vice and crime.

A recognition of this conclusion is found in the congested city of New York, where, during the past year, 103 streets have been closed to traffic in order to provide informal playgrounds for the children.

RENTS NOT DECREASING

It was not very heartening information to the average rentpayer in the United States which was recently conveyed to the public as a result of a survey made by the National Industrial Conference Board covering the housing situation in 178 American cities.

BROTHERHOOD

If I can feel sympathy—feel it within and without—then the dew falls and the desert begins to blossom. By sympathy I do not mean merely a fellowship in sorrow.

HOW THE GOVERNMENT WORKS

The way of the government is illustrated graphically in the announcement from Portland that the Veterans' Bureau has ordered the transfer of two medical officials of the Portland office from that city to other posts of duty.

THE ANCIENT BOTTLER

American bottlers of carbonated beverages are to have convention at Louisville, November 10 to 14. They want people to know of the improved methods of bottling.

Back in 1772, Joseph Priestley, an English chemist, produced "soda water," but it was a sort of profitless fizzle. In 1807, Townsend Speakman, a Philadelphia druggist, added fruit juices to the Priestley formula.

Although Speakman is no more, his works go flowing on—last year the American people drank 8,000,000,000 6-ounce bottles of carbonated beverages. If placed upright side by side, those bottles would make approximately forty-two rows extending from New York to San Francisco or five rows circling the globe.

In the old days the bottler mixed the ingredients by hand, washed the bottles in a tub and made his own carbonic gas—usually from marble dust—cut his own corks and wired them to the bottles. Nowadays, machinery does all the work.

By the rude tub that held the flood, Their gas by helpers' wheezes whirled, Here once the embottled mixers stood, And corked the drinks drunk round the world.

No heartier welcome could be extended to a new business venture than The Daily Tidings hastens to give to Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Lane, who have already taken possession of the store formerly owned and operated by the late Mayor C. L. Loomis.

The fliers who are completing the circle of the globe have not made the trip in as quick time as it will eventually be made in, but their pioneering trip should and will arouse the most enthusiastic praise of which Americans are capable.

The state government seems to have fallen prey to a very successful automobile salesman, for the records show a large increase of machines driven by state officers. Possibly, a few would make better officers if they had to walk instead of having so many automobiles handy.

The soldiers and sailors who have pitched their tents in Lithia park for the Southern Oregon reunion are Ashland's welcome and honored guests.

The Prince of Wales is proving that he could easily be Americanized.

Klamath Falls is all astir since it has been charged that the Democrats plotted to have the Democratic candidate for state treasurer perform the formal opening of the Klamath Products Show.

Probably no judicial decision is awaited as anxiously and as generally as the decision which will be made September 10th, by Judge Caverly of Chicago, fixing the fate of the two boy murders of the Franks' boy.

DISTINGUISHED MEN TO ADDRESS COUNTY BAR ASSN. SEPT. 6

A special meeting of the bar associations of Jackson and Josephine Counties has been called for 6:30 P. M. September 6th, 1924, at the Hotel Medford.

Wilson to Speak
As speakers for the occasion, there will be present Judge Fred W. Wilson, president of the Oregon State Bar Association, Albert E. Ridgeway, secretary of the Oregon State Bar Association, Wm. G. Hale, Dean of the Department of Law of the University of Oregon, and ex-Supreme Court Justice Kavanaugh—all four visitors being classed as among the foremost members of the bar in the western states.

Members Only
Contrary to the usual custom, members of the bar only, will be present as the meeting is of a purely business nature and only matters vitally touching the practice of law itself, will be discussed.

It is stated that the out of town visitors have a real message to bring to the members of the county bar and that never before in the history of the local bar associations has ever such a galaxy of distinguished speakers appeared at any one meeting.

Realize Responsibility
The county bar associations, particularly in Southern Oregon, are waking up to the fact that a large responsibility rests upon them to see that freak legislation, defective laws and laws which crush out business progress, are prevented.

ITALIAN STABS MAN
DALLAS, Ore., Sept. 4.—Willard E. Gilbert, a local sawmill operator, was stabbed several times about the head, neck and face Sunday by John Mortino, an Italian. Mortino, formerly employed by Gilbert, called at the latter's home and during an altercation over wages drew a large knife and attacked Gilbert.

Mortino then fled and sheriff's deputies have been unable to locate him. Gilbert's injuries are not serious.

MORE FOREST AREAS CLOSED TO HUNTERS BY RECENT ORDERS

The Wenatchee National Forest in Washington has just been closed to the use of firearms under the terms of an order issued by the U. S. District Forester, Portland, Oregon. This action was taken under trespass regulations of the U. S. Department of Agriculture, which provide for the closing of the forests to various forms of hazardous use during periods of fire emergency.

In Siskiyou
In addition to the Wenatchee, the use of firearms has recently been prohibited on the Salt Creek watershed on the Cascade National Forest and the Oregon Caves region of the Siskiyou National Forest, both in Oregon.

This is said to be the first time that National Forests of the North Pacific District have been closed to hunting under the fire trespass regulations.

Violation of these closing orders is punishable by Federal law, which provides a fine of $500, or imprisonment for one year, or both, at the discretion of the Federal Courts.

AMERICANS SWEEP EUROPE OF ART, AVERS COLLECTOR

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—The search for American art collectors has swept Europe clean of art objects, according to Charles H. Henschel, of New York, president of a well-known gallery, on his recent return from a search for masterpieces in Europe.

He was able however, to show invoices for articles valued at $1,000,000, including a painting, "The Fagot Gathers" by Gainsborough. It was purchased from the estate of the late Lord Carnarvon discoverer of the tomb of Tutankh-Amen.

THIEVES TAKE ALL BELTS OFF CRUSHER

BEAVERTON, Sept. 4.—The county rock crusher, one mile east of town, was stripped last night of all its belts, valued at about $400, by thieves. Johnson & Spies have been operating this crusher all summer and when the
