MISSING LETTERS

To Light Heavyweights, One and All:

In answer to insinuations that my boxing gloves are gradually becoming crushed by a row of cobwebs, I hereby serve notice that I will take on the six leading challengers for the title in a gigantic boxing rodeo, to be held at Shelby, Montana. I will dispose of these pretenders as fast as their seconds can throw towels into the ring. MIKE M'TIGUE.

To All Baseball Fans:

I realize that many fans who threw their straw hats on the field in a burst of enthusiasm probably regretted it when they got home and faced the wife's inquiries. These caps have been collected by the groundkeepers, and will be restored to the owners upon identification. JUDGE KENESAW M. LANDIS.

To Harry Will:

Apropos of our coming bout, I would like to make it purely a sporting proposition. How about letting the winner take all, and make the loser go penniless? LUIS ANGEL FIRPO.

To All Cash Customers:

If the Giants play in the World's Series we cannot afford to have them disturbed by hostile fans. All those who do not wish to root for the home team will not be admitted to the Polo Grounds. JOHN J. M'GRAW.
