"KEEP 'EM ON GIRLS, IF YOU VALUE BEAUTY"

AMERICAN girls and women should avoid falling into the habit of leaving off their corsets, if they want to retain beauty of form. That, at least, is the opinion of Justine Johnstone, international beauty and actress, who who is making New York a visit, accompanied by her husband, Walter Wanger, from London, where he is now prominent in the theatrical world. Miss Johnstone, blonde, trim and altogether lovely, is an American by birth, as is Mr. Wanger. Prior to her departure for London, several years ago, Miss Johnstone was starred in musical productions on Broadway.

Miss Johnstone was asked the secret of her consistently exquisite form, that American girls might profit from her advice and example.

"My firm belief in the value of a comfortable corset aids me materially in training my figure along trim lines," she said.

"The woman who persistently leaves off her corset can never cultivate trimness at the waist. Frankly, she is apt to become flabby, a condition which is not conducive to beauty of form."

Miss Johnstone holds a secure position in the front rank of London stage favorites. When she returns to England it will be to rehearse in a new musical revue.
