"WE SAT IN THE CANDLESHINE"

(By Barbara Young in the New York Sun)

We sat in the candle-shine
Of the dim, half-lighted place.
There was a look in your eyes—
There was a dream in your face
That broke something down in my heart,
And opened my gates of tears.
I wanted to rest in your arms—
I've been tired, so many years,
Tired, and homesick, and lost
In a world that was never mine.
There was talk and laughter and jest—
And your face in the candle-shine.

I wanted them all to go.
I wanted to hear you say
More of the kind dear things
You said to me yesterday.
There was a rose or two,
And books, along the wall,
But I could think only of you—
Not anything else, at all!
And wanting to rest in your arms—
To dream, and be still—while
From the comfort that came
With your smile.

Napoleon said, "An army travels on its stomach." And it is just as true that the citizen in ordinary life is dependent upon his stomach. The normal, healthy individuals, able to eat heartily and assimilate their food, have strength, endurance, ambition, alert minds and attractive, pleasant personalities. Those who are constantly suffering from indigestion, constipation, gas on the stomach, and other distressing ailments invite defeat from every point, and usually are failures in business and socially.

If you are one of these sufferers relief is offered and guaranteed by the makers of Smith Bros. M. A. C. Stomach Tonic, which is sold on the positive guarantee or the refund of the price ($1.25) if the first bottle fails to give you satisfactory relief. Get a bottle today.

WHO KILLED COCK ROBIN? PICKNICKER TRUTHFUL

"I killed cock robin" — Only this time it was a quail.

Assuming all the blame, Mrs. H. L. Barrett was arrested late Saturday afternoon by Game Warden Marion J. Barnes at the old Gordon ranch near Worden for shooting quail out of season. Before Justice of the Peace R. A. Emmitt this morning she pleaded guilty and was fined $35 and costs, says the Klamath Falls Herald.

Barnes, driving near the ranch Saturday evening, noticed a picnic party. As he neared a man hastily arose and with a dinner plate in hand walked away at a rapid pace. Barnes followed. A root from a juniper tripped the disappearing diner and he lost the plate. Barnes rescued it and found quail, cooked to an appetizing brown.

Returning to the picnicers, he informed them that unless the person who shot the game bird confessed he would place all under arrest.

There was a pause, and then Mrs. Bartlett spoke: "I killed the quail. I shot two yesterday."

RAIN COMES TO CHECK BIG FIRE ON JENNY CREEK

KLAMATH FALLS, Sept. 16.—Nature and man working in harmony have checked the high brush fire west of Jenny creek which Saturday menaced millions of feet of merchantable pine timber Klamath county, according to reports received here today from the fire line.

A rise in humidity, a light rain and a large force of men sent by the California Oregon Power Company to aid the fight, were the contributing factors in the successful battle against the red demon of the woodland.

C. D. Hughes Took It Five Years Ago And Would Not Be Without It.

"The more I know about Tanlac the stronger I feel I like praising it," is the high tribute recently paid the famous treatment by C. D. Hughes, 219 Hunt St., Portland, Oregon.

"I first took Tanlac about 5 years ago when I was in such a bad fix from stomach trouble that I was losing half my time from work. Finally a neighbor urged Tanlac on me and in a short time my hopeless condition was changed into splendid health.

"My stomach misery all went away. I began eating everything I gained 35 lbs., and have been singing the praise of Tanlac ever since. I still use Tanlac in the spring and fall as a tonic and my wife is taking it now. We are never without Tanlac in the house. There is nothing too good to say for it."
