LOS ANGELES, Sept. 18.—All the world loves a comeback! So the world may center its eyes on Hollywood's motion picture colony, where the old-fashioned Wild West movie is doing a sensational return to popularity.

Cowboys, horses, Indians, cowgirls, mountains, plains, six-shooters and range cattle are now in evidence in productions much in the filming.

The great success attained by picturization of Emerson Hough's novel "The Covered Wagon," paved the way for the return of the Western film.

Among the important Western pictures to be seen in the Fall and Winter will be William Vaughn Moody's play, "The Great Divide." A great stage success, this play is now being done for the silver screen.

Conway Tearle, usually seen in the society drama films, has the role of Stephen Ghent in "The Great Divide."

CALIFORNIA FORESTS REOPENED; FIRES OUT

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—Thousands of acres in the Plumas and Lassen National Forests were ordered reopened after having been closed for such use several weeks ago in order to reduce the fire hazard. This was announced by the United States forest service headquarters here.

Heavy rains in the forests extinguished fires.

WALLACE STATES FARMS INJURED BY DEM. POLICY

WASHINGTON, Sept. 16.—The farms of the United States were pushed so far into the valley of depression by the democratic policy of farm deflation, enacted in 1920 that it took almost four full years of constructive Republican administration to bring them back.

Such was the pity comment of Henry C. Wallace, secretary of Agriculture on reading the effect of the Democratic campaign organization in its campaign textbook to absolve itself of the blame for the almost ruin of American agricultural enterprise Mr. Wallace said.

"The democratic committee's statement of the troubles of the farmer is not now. Far more than three years the republican administration has been trying to rescue the farmer from the depression into which he was plunged by eight years of democratic rule. Such depressions as agriculture has been passing through do not develop overnight or within a few months. They are the result of conditions which too often, as in this case, are the result of unwise statesmanship. This oppression is peculiarly the result of such conditions. The troubles of the farmer are directly due mainly to democratic mistakes. No sooner was the result of the 1920 election fairly evident than the democrats began a systematic deflation of the farmer on the excuse that the cost of living must be reduced. In the spring of 1920, the farmers position was fairly satisfactory in relation to other groups. In the late summer of 1920, members of the democratic administration served notice that the price of farm products must come down. War surplus was thrown on the market. Farmers were called on to pay their notes, thus forcing crops on the market. The word went out that agriculture must be deflated, and as prices began to drop through this pressure, buyers withdrew from the market except as to hand to mouth needs, which added impetus to the decline. Democratic senators and representatives in congress and in important administrative positions have themselves been most unsparring critics of this ruinous democratic policy. The result of it all was that perpendicular drop in the prices of farm products while the cost of everything else reminded high. The democrats had given the farmers such a push into the valley of depression that it was six months after the republicans came into power before the price drop could be checked. It was checked by vigorous legislative and administrative action, and gradually farm prices and the farmers buying power has increased until today the farmer is in a better position than at any time since he became the victim of unprovoked assault by unwise democratic leadership."

The Methodist Episcopal church will be forced within the next 45 days to curtail her foreign missionary program 25 per cent unless the churches throughout America pay up their pledges within that time.

This startling statement was made during the opening session in Medford of the seventy-second annual Oregon Methodist conference by Dr. J. B. Hingley of New York, secretary of the board of pensions of the denominations.

Dr. Hingley is in Oregon as representative of the world service board of the church.

"We have notified all our stations," Dr. Hingley said, "that unless additional finances are received by October 31, that we will be forced to curtail our program. The program for next year must be based on the receipts for this year."

The foreign missionary board of the denomination is already heavily in debt. During his address Dr. Hingley presented the conference with a draft for $1000 as the gift of the pension board toward the support of Retired Methodist ministers in Oregon.

Dr. H. C. Jennings, a member of the Methodist book concern, announced that the conference would receive another check for $2490 for the same fund, this being Oregon's share in last year's profits of the book concern.

MEDFORD COUNCIL RACE TO BE 'PEPPY'

An entirely new city administration must be elected at the general election November 4th, next, as the two year terms of Mayor Gaddis, City Recorder Alford, City Treasurer Webber and the eight councilmen expire January 1st, next, states the Medford Tribune.

The city administration will have a ticket in the field in the effort to perpetuate itself, although Mayor Gaddis recently gave out the information that he did not care to run again, as he thought his eight years in the city's service as councilman and mayor gutted him to step aside. It is understood that City Recorder Alford and City Treasurer Webber will be candidates for reelection, although there are rumors that there will be one other candidate for city treasurer, and that six of the present councilmen will also run again. In this connection it has just become public knowledge that Councilman John H. Butler resigned within the past two weeks because of the lack of time for councilmanic duties.

A Powerful Good Lesson

Rastus had been found guilty of murder.

"You are sentenced," said the judge, "to be hanged by the neck until you are dead. Have you anything to say for yourself?"

"No, Judge," replied Rastus, "except 'dis am gwain to be one powerful good lesson to me."

An old story—but frequently repeated in our courts. Many a motorist hears the jury render a big damage verdict against him. It's one powerful good lesson as to the value of a first class insurance policy protecting the motorist against loss from such claims.
