world of baseball fans brought greater joy than any announcement from Washington today could have possibly brought.

Industry.—It was pointed out by Mr. Jewett that many homesteaders have received considerable revenue in past years from pelts of coyotes which they have killed. With government hunters decimating the coyote ranks, the earnings of private hunters have fallen off.

Animals have been stolen from government traps, traps have been sprung by unidentified persons and traps have been stolen from the lines of the federal hunters.

In the Jordan valley the situation is particularly tense, it was declared, many persons, who have subsisted almost entirely on the revenue derived from pelts, believing that the coming of the hired hunter spells poverty for them.

In one instance pointed out a man had captured 20 coyotes in the summer, when pelts are of little value, and was keeping them until winter, when he expected to kill the animals and get a good return for his pelts.

But in the meantime the coyotes developed mange, rendering the fur valueless. Rather than kill the animals himself or permit the government hunters to kill them, the man turned the coyotes loose.

No hunters have so far been shot at and they are continuing operations in the counties where they are unwelcome.

Mr. Jewett declared that the numbers of coyotes, are saving agriculturists hundreds of dollars and that he believes the only opposition to them comes from persons who have been profiting by the sale of pelts.

EXPLAINS THE ERRORS FOUND AT VOTE POLE

more than he received on election day. It was also shown by comparison of The Digest's 1920 poll with the 1920 popular vote, that the Digest poll was approximately 10 per cent under the popular vote recorded in these six States for Mr. Cox.

Assuming that the present far more representative poll may show an equal percentage of error, which may or may not be the case, it may be interesting to apply these percentages to some of the States where close votes are shown in the present election.

In California, for instance, the present tabulation gives Mr. Coolidge 68,049 votes; Mr. Davis, 9,100; and La Follette 58,378. By reducing Mr. Coolidge's vote 10 per cent, and adding 10 per cent to Mr. La Follette's, the figures would stand in Mr. La Follette's favor by nearly 3,000 votes, or 61,244 for Coolidge to 64,216 for La Follette.

However, if the changes are made only on the basis of the actual error shown in California by the previous poll, Mr. Coolidge will receive only 5,322 per cent less, and La Follette would receive only 3.92 per cent more.

So modified, The Digest's present vote would stand 64,424 for Mr. Coolidge to Mr. La Follette's 60,713. It would appear, therefore, that, even allowing for the full measure of error shown by the previous poll as cited by Mr. Sinclair, Mr. La Follette's strength is not quite to Mr. Coolidge's.

The Digest is merely furnishing the straws in this as in the case of the other States, and every partizan is welcome to do his own figuring.

On the other hand, it must be emphasized that the present poll is far more inclusive than was the one on which Mr. Sinclair bases his argument, and that the percentage of error may be considerably less — or even reversed. The application of the same argument from the 1920 poll to another close State, West Virginia, would give Mr. Davis a majority there, changing the present figures from 13,353 for Coolidge and Davis to 12,027 for the President and 12,502 for the Democratic nominee. California and West Virginia are the only two States, it appears, in which a change would be effected by figuring in the percentage of error shown in the 1920 poll.
