PARAZOO HELD ON MURDER CHARGE OF KILLING RELATIVE

ROSEBURG, Oct. 20. — That James G. Snider, Peel packer and guide, "was purposely and maliciously shot with a gun by Fred Parazoo," was the verdict returned by the coroner's jury following an inquest held Saturday morning.

When confronted with evidence showing that his stepfather had been killed while still reclining in a rocking chair, Parazoo admitted to officers that his victim was still leaning back in his chair and had not reached for his gun, as declared in the original statement. When arraigned on a charge of murder following the verdict of the coroner's jury, Parazoo waived examination and was held without bail for the grand jury.

The killing of Snider occurred shortly after Parazoo talked with his mother, Mrs. Snider, at the home of her uncle, Charles Parazoo, who resides about one-half mile from the home where the tragedy occurred, it was brought out at the inquest Saturday.

On Thursday morning, the day of the shooting, Parazoo told his mother that he was going to his homestead to work on his cabin. However, he went to Charles Parazoo's place, and stayed around there for dinner and then sat down and played the violin. At 2 o'clock his mother came, and upbraided him for not being at work. Mr. Parazoo testified that he heard her tell her son that Snider had ordered her out of the house, and that he had mortgaged all of their property to Clifford Lilly at Glide, and that she had just been there to find out about it.

Snider and his wife have been having domestic difficulties for some time, and the woman said she had been ordered from home on several occasions. The investigation made by the officers revealed that the bullet fired by Parazoo, after penetrating Snider's chest, went through the back of the rocking chair and into a trunk on the floor. The angle taken by the bullet proved that the man never got to his feet. When this fact was shown to Parazoo he admitted to the officers that he fired the fatal shot as Snider leaned back in the chair.

POLICEMAN DENIES HE WAS SHOT AND KILLED

WHEELING, W. Va., Oct. 20. — The characteristic remark of the immortal Mark Twain that the report of his death was "greatly exaggerated" was echoed here today by Patrolman Harry Rice.

A Pittsburgh newspaper published an account of Rice's death, but the "victim" refused to believe it when he read the article.

Rice recently was shot and wounded by Dave Corbett, of Washington, D. C., who was sentenced to seven years imprisonment in the State Penitentiary for the crime. In publishing the story, the Pittsburgh newspaper stated Rice had been "killed."

Rice was swamped today with congratulations of his remarkable recovery by friends who had read of his "demise."

JUDGE COLVIG WAS PIONEER RESIDENT OF OREGON STATE

Varied Career Enjoyed by Dead Resident of Ashland. Was Member Pioneer Family

Judge Volney Colvig, who was stricken with paralysis and died at his home in Ashland on Friday was born at Athens, Ohio, on October 27, 1840, and lacked only a few days of being 84 years old.

He came to Oregon with his parents, reaching Portland on the 15th of October, 1851. His father moved into a small house adjoining the Oregonian office which had been started that fall by T. J. Dryer. Judge Colvig, at that time a husky boy, and though only 11 years of age, he was the first motive power of that great newspaper, "The Portland Oregonian." On Saturdays he would turn the crank of an old Franklin press and assisted a printer named Frank Hill in getting out about 400 copies of the weekly Oregonian, and later in the evening he and Frank Hill would distribute these papers to the subscribers along First and Second streets in that city.

Portland then had a population of about 1000. A full account of his connection with this newspaper was published in its columns in January 1911. In 1862 Judge Colvig enlisted as a soldier at Camp Baker, Oregon, one-half mile west of Phoenix, to serve three years in Company C, First Regiment, Oregon Cavalry Volunteers. During nearly the entire period of his enlistment he was the commissary sergeant. After his discharge from the army in the fall of '65 he located at Canyonville, Douglas county, Oregon and became a telegraph operator on the Western Union line at that place, and in partnership with his father, Dr. W. L. Colvig, he carried on a retail drug business in the same town.

He married Miss Florence Veatch, and is survived by seven children whose names are as follows: Elmer Colvig, Josephine county; Mrs. Ida Craddock, of Portland; Dora Gillette of Ashland; Harry Colvig of Los Angeles, Calif.; Frank Colvig of Ashland; Anna Sanford of Ashland and John R. Colvig of this city.

Mr. Colvig was county judge of Josephine county from the years 1886 to 1894, two terms. Judge Colvig was a man who had but few, if any enemies. His only chance to acquire an education in the early days of Oregon was a year's attendance at Monmouth college, about the year 1857.

William M. Colvig of Medford, Oregon, and George W. Colvig of Grants Pass are brothers of the deceased.

Judge Colvig was always interested in the welfare of Ashland and was enthusiastic in telling tourists of the wonders to be found here. Whenever he had a chance he boosted for Ashland and the city was always uppermost in his thoughts when he was away.

The funeral was held this afternoon at two o'clock from the family residence at 900 Oak street. Interment will be in the mausoleum.

SHENANDOAH IS NOW FLYING DOWN COAST

BUCKING HEADWINDS

Daughter of the Skies on Return Trip to Mooring Mast at Lakehurst, New Jersey

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 20. — Successfully completing her trip to the west in a record-breaking flight, the naval dirigible Shenandoah is homeward bound today. The huge air-liner, which left Camp Lewis yesterday, the far-western goal of her maiden transcontinental flight, was today speeding down the Pacific coast to San Diego, where she will turn her nose eastward for her home mast at Lakehurst, N. J.

Chased by a storm from out of the north, the dirigible's propellers whirled all through the night in a race with the elements. The dirigible bucked headwinds down the coast and did not reach here until shortly after noon.

Thousands of people packed the streets and points of a vantage on the hills and buildings, acclaiming in wild delirium and noise as the big dirigible circled over the city.

FIGHTING TAKES ON GREATER INTENSITY ON PEKING FRONTIER

PEKIN, Oct. 20. — Fighting between the invading Manchurian forces of General Chank Tso-Lin and the resisting armies of the Pekin government is being carried on with such increasing violence and added intensity at Shanhaikwan that the outcome may decide the winner in the conflict for control of the central Chinese government, according to observers who returned Saturday from the Chihlian-Manchurian front.

Both sides are throwing their best fighting units into the battle for the important strategic lines approaching Shanhaikwan, which is located near the Chihlian-Manchurian border in Chihli province and held by central government troops. According to observers, the plan of the invading Manchurian forces is to break through the lines at Shanhaikwan before troops in the Jehol region, a separated front, become a menace to the Manchurian flanking forces. It also was reported that General Chang Tso-Lin had been forced to weaken his lines at Jehol and Chihfung to stiffen his attack around Shanhaikwan. In the latter sector the fighting has been heaviest around the village of shimenka, which has changed hands repeatedly under the artillery fire of both sides. Guns are mounted in the hills overlooking the town.

From all appearances, the observers reported, neither side had gained a decided advantage in the fighting thus far. It was said that General Wu Kai-Fu, military head of the Pekin government, had not yet launched a serious offensive, being satisfied to protect his lines against surprise movements on the part of the invading troops while additional Kekin forces were being sent to the front.

ALIENISTS DECLARE KID M'COY FEIGNS APPARENT INSANITY

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 20. — When Kid McCoy took the midweight championship from Tommy Ryan in 1897 he did it by the cunning of his brain.

McCoy is using that same method to clear himself of murder which were placed against him after Mrs. Teresa Mors had been shot to death. Two alienists gave out this opinion Friday when they put McCoy through a series of tests after his show of insanity. "A case of malingering," the physicians said. The alienists who examined McCoy were called to the county jail after the fighter, whose many love affairs led finally to robbery and murder, had spent days in actions which resembled those of an insane person.

GUS MOSER CLAIMS HE HAS PRESIDENCY OF SENATE SEWED

Enough Pledges Obtained to Give Him Office as Leader of Legislative Body

PORTLAND, Oct. 20. — In the general political shuffle the maneuvering for president of the state senate has been lost sight of, but while others have been discussing presidential and municipal politics Gus C. Moser, republican, has been plugging along looking for enough pledges to land him as presiding officer of the state senate at Salem next January, a position he has held before. It is said, and with some apparent authority, that Moser has "gone over the top," inasmuch as he is believed to have more than the 16 pledges necessary to bring about an election in the senate.

Henry L. Corbett, who was considered the most remarkable obstacle to Moser's ambition to press again over the deliberations of the upper house of the Oregon legislature, made no effort to tie up votes, and the result is that Moser has, on the surface, captured the plum.

EHL, LAIDLAY FREED IN LAND FRAUD CASE

MEDFORD, Oct. 20. — S. G. Ehl, San Diego, and George W. Laidly, Medford, indicted for alleged irregularities in placing entry men on public lands, were acquitted here Saturday afternoon. The case occupied the federal court 11 days. Judge Robert S. Bean presided. Allen A. Byron, Portland, assistant district attorney, appeared for the government, and George M. Roberts and Porter J. Neff, Medford, represented the defendants. The sections upon which entry men were placed were largely former grant lands of the Oregon and California railroad, located in Jackson county. Ehl and Laidly are timber and land specialists and collected a fee of $1 per acre entered, the testimony showed, of which $35 was paid in advance. Some clients were disappointed with the lands, while many are satisfied homesteaders at present.

SALEM, Oct. 20. — Responsibility for getting the names of James Johns, Sr., of Pendleton, and Oscar Furuwet of Portland, as candidates for public service commissioner from Eastern Oregon and attorney general, respectively, on the Democratic ticket, Friday night, was placed upon the shoulders of the party of their affiliation. Secretary of State Kozar, acting upon the advice of Attorney General Van Winkle, Monday night certified to the county clerks of the various counties the fact that the nominations of Johns and Furuwet were filed with his office on September 30 and that the acceptance of Furuwet was filed on October 16 while that of Johns was filed Friday. The certification attended to, the secretary of state, in the opinion of Kozar and Van Winkle, has performed his full duty under the law. MA FERGUSON WINS RIGHT TO BALLOT IN SUPREME COURT

Will be Candidate for Office of Governor in Coming Election, According to Ruling

AUSTIN, Texas, Oct. 20.—The last vestige of the ancient bar against women in office was swept away by the Texas supreme court Saturday in holding Mrs. Miriam A. Ferguson of Temple and all other women in the state eligible to elective positions.

Attempts to bring out of the dim past and establish as present-day law the fragments of an old order were cast out by the highest court of the state, which pronounced women as independent entities on an equality with men.

While holding that Mrs. Ferguson is qualified to vote, the court also held unconstitutional that part of the statute which seeks to confer on a private citizen the right to bring suit testing the qualifications of a candidate for governor. This right belongs to the legislature, the court said.

The opinion, written by Associate Justice Thomas B. Greenwood, said:

"A careful analysis of the controlling sections of the constitution, in the light of the proceedings of the constitutional convention and of the terms of previous constitutions, makes it entirely clear that the electors of this state have left themselves free to choose a governor, without regard to the sex or coverture of the person of their choice," the court said.

"Mrs. Ferguson," continued the opinion, "comes within the terms of none of the constitutional provisions stating who shall not hold the office of governor. She is at least 30 years of age. She is a citizen of the United States. She has resided in this state more than five years before the general election. Possessing every affirmative qualification which the constitution declares requisite to eligibility, and being under no disqualification working ineligibility under the provisions of the constitution, it must be held that she meets with every test prescribed for the governor by the supreme law of the state."
