WHERE WILL YOU BE

"The prize fool of America is the man who goes to the golf links instead of to the polls on election day, and, when asked if he will vote, replies: 'What's the use?'" —Saturday Evening Post.

There is no golf links in Ashland to attract the voter from the poll tomorrow, but there are sufficient other attractions if the voter is even slightly inclined to be sluggish and wants to sidestep his duty on election day.

He can say he is too busy; he can say it would not matter anyway; he can let some trivial matter take him out of town, or he can do any one of a hundred other things or use one of a hundred other excuses to explain his failure or inability to vote, and thus attempt to ease his conscience.

And, since the women have been given equal rights with the men at the polls, this applies equally to them. In fact, the women are naturally more inclined to permit something to prevent them from voting, as they do not have to be down town on election day, as the business or professional or laboring man does. The housewife really has more of an excuse than the men have, but she should not let anything prevent her from voting, either.

More agencies this year than ever before are attempting to get out a representative vote, and they are to be congratulated for doing this splendid work. For instance, the Kiwanis club of this city, has pasted stickers everywhere, and the members of the club are using the stickers on their mail and store packages, urging everybody to vote.

This is good work and the citizenship should respond and make the vote this year more representative than ever before, for speakers for each of the three presidential and the three vice-presidential candidates are hurling charges and counter-charges, many of them threatening dire ruin and disaster if the opposing candidates should be elected.

The people should answer these charges and settle them at the poll, registering their choice from the candidates of the three parties, and register this so emphatically that the results tomorrow will not be uncertain, but as definite as a monster vote will make it, regardless of whether it is in favor of the Republicans, the Democrats or the Progressives.

MIDDLEMEN COMMIT HARIKARI

Profits are an interesting and necessary object of our activities. A wage that meets only the barest necessities and leaves nothing over for sickness or a rainy day is unsatisfactory from every point of view, and a business enterprise that does not as a usual thing have something over at the end of a year is surely headed for the rocks. A good time to investigate the possibility of a business yielding profits instead of life-sapping deficits is before you enter it.

How far there were advance investigations of probably profits before the project for a farmers' cooperative company to operate terminal grain elevators does not appeal. Now that the project is launched, however, the Federal Trade Commission announces it will investigate the margins and profits of terminal grain middlemen, adding an intimation that the results will be interesting to the farmers. It seems a bit rough on the middlemen, though, for them to have to divulge the facts of their affairs for the benefit of folk, however worthy in themselves, who are chiefly interested in putting the middlemen out of business.

ILLITERATE MISHAPS

Belief in signs is not likely to protect motorists who can't read. But even the man in the street, who usually must run if he reads, need not be literate to take heed from the autographs on the highways and byways—where accidents are daily written in blood and battered iron. Illiteracy as a cause of automobile accidents is to be appraised in connection with the conference on street and highway safety, led by Secretary Hoover.

It does seem that a man should lay hold of some useful words of warning and direction before laying hold of a steering wheel. And, surely, not even the glowing eagerness of the "go-getters" would be permanently dimmed with a timely slow or stop. There's no novelty in indicating the need for teaching English to the foreign born—as some of the reports to the conference do—but there may be novelty in the teaching. Delaware and Connecticut, the reports disclose, have made promising beginnings at the determination of illiteracy as a cause of mishaps involving motor cars.

Motorists are licensed. They should be lettered.

ALWAYS IN THE LIMELIGHT

Prince Felix Youssopoff, slayer of Rasputin, is in the spotlight again in a new character. He is trying to reclaim two Rembrandt paintings valued at $350,000 which he sold to Joseph E. Widener of Philadelphia. Widener's art collection is estimated to be worth $50,000,000 and will be presented to the public at his death. That will be one more added to the great American collections formed at the expense of impoverished European nobility, which will be permanently fixed on this side of the Atlantic as public property that may not be alienated.

The Lincoln-Coolidge-Dawes caravan claims to be the first of its kind in the history of the country. Nothing of the kind. A few years ago a caravan of camels paraded the country, in spirit if not in body, and now look at the results.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR CONSTRUCTION OF NEW HOSPITAL.

UNIVERSITY OF OREGON, Eugene, Nov. 3.—Plans have been completed and ground will be broken for the new $200,000 Doernbecher Memorial Hospital for children to be constructed on the campus of the University of Oregon school of medicine on Marquam Hill, Portland. The $200,000 gift was made to the University school of medicine in honor of the late Frank B. Doernbecher by a daughter, Mrs. E. W. Morse, and Edward Doernbecher, a son.

The new hospital will be one of the most modern and complete hospitals of its size and kind in America. The site of the structure will be east of Mackenzie hall, the present main building of the school of medicine group, and will front on Marquam Hill Road. It will be approximately a sixty-bed hospital.

The general construction of the building will be a reinforced concrete frame veneered with brick and trimmed with terra cotta to harmonize with the other structures in the group. The building is ell-shaped with the long leg of the ell containing the patient's room running north and south, and the short and extending to the east. To conform with the hillside location, the wing to the east, which is of three stories, fronts on a lower level than the north and south wing. The third floor of the east wing coincides with the level of the first floor of the north and south wings.

The entrance is on the first floor of the east wing on the road leading to the Multnomah County hospital, which is on the medical school site. On the first floor is the space devoted to the dispensary and the steam disinfecter. The second floor houses the administrative offices, the kitchen, and the observation wards. The third floor of the east wing, which is also the first floor of the north and south wing, contains the surgical department; the X-ray department, a ward for minor surgical cases, such as tonsil and adenoids; living quarters for the internes, the superintendent of the hospital, and the superintendent of nurses; the dining room for the staff and nurses, and a few private rooms.

The second floor of the north and south wings contains a clinical lecture room and space for patients divided into wards of four beds each assigned to boys, and three private rooms. This floor has a solarium at the south end. The third floor of this wing contains the babies' ward and the wards for girls, with a solarium.

at the south end. The elevator gives access to the roof, where further open-air space is provided.

COMB SAGE TEA IN HAIR TO DARKEN IT

It's Grandmother's Recipe to Keep her Locks Dark, Glossy, Beautiful

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage. Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the read-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

Oregon's Workmen, Farmers and Manufacturers NEED YOUR HELP! AN EFFORT is being made to wreck Oregon's existing Workmen's Compensation Law through the initiation of the so-called Compulsory and Constitutional Amendment to the Workmen's Compensation Law. This amendment was initiated by a small group of professional agitators of Portland and appears on Tuesday's ballot under Nos. 310 and 311. This astounding measure boldly demands that Oregon's working people and her industries shall surrender their basic American Rights of fair hearing and appeal to a jury. In its place it creates a super-government of three men, with powers to force Oregon's farmers to contribute to the state accident fund, and submit to the dictation of this super-commission which would have FINAL authority, and from whose rulings our farmers, working people and industries would have NO APPEAL. Furthermore it would practically WRECK the present good law, and nullify the many years of earnest constructive endeavor. Help defeat the Compulsory Amendment to the Workmen's Compensation Law Here are a few things that would happen if this reactionary amendment passes 1 Oregon's 47,000 farmers could be forced to come under the compensation law and would be compelled to pay into the State Accident Fund and submit to its arbitrary dictation. 2 A three-man political commission would be created with legislative, judicial and executive powers, that would be above the law—answerable to no other authority—the only judge and jury of its own actions. This finality of power would take from the working men, farmers and industries their basic rights of appeal and of fair hearing before a jury. 3 It could make its compensation awards to injured men as little as it pleased, arbitrarily raise farmers' and workmen's rates or refuse to extend medical treatment. No appeal to an American jury from such action could be taken by either. 4 It would automatically create a state medical aid hospital trust because the amendment forces the injured man to receive treatment from doctors and at hospitals of the commission's choosing, or go without such treatment. 5 It would wreck the present good compensation law, which guarantees every working man specific compensation and proper care, when injured, replacing this certain protection with the arbitrary rules of three men, who could as easily be unfair as they could be just. 6 It would again mark the return of ambulance-chasing and slyster lawyers, who prior to the operation of the present compensation law, waxed fat on the misfortunes of the laboring man. 7 It would take from the state legislature all power to correct any evils in the law. It would give politicians such dangerous powers that conditions could easily be made intolerable for our working people, our farmers and our industries. 8 There is no need for the amendment. The present law is a good law. Everybody knows that the rates for compensation are now specifically fixed by law, and unfair treatment can be dealt with by an appeal to a jury. OREGON INDUSTRIAL ACCIDENT COMMITTEE Portland, Oregon There is only one way to save Oregon and her workers, farmer and industries from this menace VOTE DOWN the Compensation Amendment! Vote 311-X No!
