I. VINING TELLS ABOUT JOURNEY THROUGH EAST

President of State Chamber of Commerce Speaker at Forum Luncheon

EXPLAINS CONDITIONS

Ashland Man Principal Speaker at Many Complimentary Affairs During Trip

The only way to advertise the West to the East, is by connecting the problems of the East with those of the West, and showing the residents of the East the manner in which the West has solved problems closely akin to those encountered in the East.

With this short statement, Professor Irving E. Vining explained thoroughly his remarkable success in telling the East about Oregon, during his five weeks tour following his attendance at the convention of State Presidents of Chambers of Commerce at Pittsburgh. Professor Vining gave an account of his trip, at the regular Forum luncheon of the Ashland Chamber of Commerce at the Hotel Ashland today.

Vining's first speech, following his arrival in Pennsylvania, was delivered at a banquet tendered him in PRTSBURG. He chose as his topic, "Historic Shires of Pennsylvania," and during the course of his speech he explained to his audience the manner in which Oregon was drawing her visitors. He declared that Oregon's campaign was an appeal to the average man's love for out of door life. He stated that Oregon advertises "the heart's desire." He indicated that although Pennsylvania did not have the outstanding appeal of the great outdoors, the state was replete with wonderful historic shires. Gettysburg, Valley Forge, Independence Hall and Fort Duquesne, to which the tourist could be attracted. This speech of Vining's was radioed throughout the country, and drew much favorable editorial comment from the leading newspapers of the state.

Following his speech in Pittsburgh, Vining delivered the principal speech at the convention of Presidents and Secretaries of the State Chambers of Commerce, in Pittsburgh. Immediately following this speech, Vining was deluged with requests to speak in various cities throughout the country, but because of the schedule which had been arranged for the trip, it was impossible for him to accept more than a small part of them. Professor Vining states he was lavishly entertained while in Pittsburgh. He was shown through the Mellon Bank, the model bank of the country, and through the giant steel mills at Braddock and Homestead.

While in Pittsburgh, Vining originated a slogan for the city which has been adopted as the most suitable ever coined. He explained that Pittsburgh, with her coal fields and iron deposits near at hand, was "Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania's pulse of power." He compared Portland with Pittsburgh, inasmuch as Portland has a gigantic reserve of hydro-electric power, as yet undeveloped, and wonderful forest reserves lying almost within her back yard, and Professor Vining stated that the slogan for Portland would soon be, "Portland, the Pacific's pulse of power."

From Pittsburgh, Professor Vining journeyed to Harrisburg, where he was the guest of the Pennsylvania State Chamber of Commerce, and was taken for a trip through the battlefield of Gettysburg.

Leaving Harrisburg, Professor Vining visited Philadelphia, where he was the guest of the Manufacturer's Club of that city. Upon his arrival he was tendered a luncheon by fifty of the prominent manufacturers of that city, at which he gave the principal address. That evening he spoke in Northwest Philadelphia to a group of about 800 leading manufacturers of that district, Philadelphia's heart of the weaving industry.

The next day Professor Vining was given a special luncheon at the Union League Club in Philadelphia, and later was taken to Valley Forge. That evening he spoke at a banquet of 1000 of the leading automobile and banking industry officials in Northwest Philadelphia.

The following morning he was a breakfast guest of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce at the Union League Club. At noon he was the guest of honor at the annual luncheon of the trades committee of the Philadelphia Chamber of Commerce.

Professor Vining was granted an interview with Mayor Kendrick of Philadelphia, who sent his greetings to Oregon.

Immediately after this luncheon, Professor Vining entrained for Lancaster, in the heart of Pennsylvania's manufacturing and agricultural section, where he addressed the Lancaster Chamber of Commerce. Immediately following this address, he left for New York city, where he renewed old acquaintances.

Upon the invitation of President Bullard of the Connecticut State Chamber of Commerce, he addressed the Bridgeport Chamber, at a special luncheon given in his honor. During this address, Professor Vining was asked to give a Westerner's viewpoint of why New England was losing out in her manufacturing and ports.

Looking over the audience, Professor Vining stated that his belief of the cause for the loss of prestige of the New England States was that New England called to her council tables, only the gray beards, who sat in their committee rooms, promulgating a philosophy of "thou shalt not". He directed attention to the North-west, where the vigorous young manhood, with progressive ideas, is asked to sit in council with the gray beards, and where a philosophy of "thou shalt" is advocated, and stating that unless New England gave her young men a chance, Oregon's invitation would be irresistible, that the branch manufacturing plants, established on our coast, under the supervision of young blood, would soon become the dominant power in the country's manufacturing, and that the plants of the East would soon become but memories. This speech was featured throughout the papers in the New England states, and aroused much favorable editorial comment.

Returning to New York City, Professor Vining was entertained by the New York State Chamber of Commerce at a luncheon, and a complimentary dinner, at which was featured the slogan "For you a rose in Oregon grows."

The following day, Sunday, Professor Vining accepted an invitation to occupy the pulpit of the Presbyterian church, where he spoke upon "Planes of Living."

At Tawanda, Professor Vining was given, not only the key to the city, but was so showered with invitations to functions, that it was impossible to accept more than a small portion of them.

From Tawanda, Professor Vining journeyed to Buffalo for a short stop, and then stopped in Ashtabula, Ohio, where he enjoyed a brief visit with his niece, Mrs. Charles Ward, formerly Miss Norma Minkler of this city. Time would not permit his accepting an invitation to speak at a meeting of the Chamber of Commerce in this city.

From Ashtabula, Professor Vining entrained to Oregon, in order that he might arrive in Ashland in time to cast his vote. He arrived in this city late Sunday evening.

REBELS ROUTED IN FIERCE FIGHTING IN SOUTH AMERICA

BUENOS AIRES, Nov. 4. — Two hundred revolutionists in the state of Rio Grande do Sul, Brazil, were killed, wounded or made prisoners when the revolutionary forces suffered a reverse at the hands of the government troops at Alegrete, according to a dispatch to La Nacion from Paso de Los Libres, on the Argentine-Brazilian frontier.

The rebel forces were proceeding from Uruguayana and were nearing Alegrete when the state forces, numbering about 1800 attacked them. The rebels fled and cavely pursued them back toward Uruguayana.

PHEASANT SEASON NO LONGER OPEN

The open season for shooting China pheasants, Bob White quail, blue grouse and native pheasants is at an end for this year, except in Hood River county, where it has not yet begun. In that county these birds may be shot from November 1 to 15.

JOHNSON LEADS PIERCE IN RACE FOR THE MAYOR

her race with Hazel Emery. Miss Biede has been running well ahead in most of the precincts, although she is behind in two, by only a slight margin. Unless a slide occurs in favor of Miss Emery, it is probable that Miss Biede will be returned to office.

COOLIDGE RECEIVES HUGE MAJORITY IN PRESIDENTIAL POLL

ported, have turned in their results.

Missouri and Oklahoma, two of the states placed in the doubtful column before the balloting, swung into line for Davis.

Nebraska, home state of Charles W. Bryan, Democratic candidate for the Vice Presidency, early swung over to the Republican column, a continuation to keep in line for Coolidge throughout the returns which kept trickling in.

On the West Coast, Coolidge carried Washington, Oregon and California, with Davis running a poor second, and La Follette pulling up in the rear with a vote which surprised political experts, who predicted the Wisconsin Senator would wage a hot battle in that section. It is believed Coolidge's majority in Oregon will be nearly 20,000 with his majority in California and Washington mounting even higher than that mark. Summarizing the election, from all indications, Coolidge carried New England, the Atlantic Seaboard states, the Middle West, with the exception of Wisconsin, the Northwest, the Southwest, with the exception of Arizona, and the Pacific Slopes states. Davis carried the Solid South, and Missouri, Arizona and Oklahoma, while La Follette, in all probability, will receive electoral votes from only his state, Wisconsin.

A conservative estimate of the electoral College votes to be received by the candidates would be, Coolidge, 342, Davis, 186, and La Follette 3.

hot fighting was waged. The Northwest, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota, Minnesota, Montana, Idaho and Wyoming showed that the turnout in that section indicated an unprecedented percentage of the possible voting power of the section visiting the polling places.

On the Pacific Coast, Washington, Oregon and California reported exceptionally heavy balloting, especially in Oregon, where State, county and civic measures stirred up even more interest than manifested in the national election. In California, expected to be the scene of one of La Follette's stands, the vote was uniformly heavy over the entire state, with Northern California slightly in the lead in the percentage of voters who turned out. # "MA" FERGUSON CARRIES TEXAS BY BIG MARGIN in an endeavor, as she said, to re-establish the family name in the good graces of the voters of Texas.

She received the endorsement of the Democratic party at the primaries, and in most instances, the endorsement of the Democratic party in Texas, assures a candidate of election to the office. But during this campaign, things were different. "Ma" was opposed by the Ku Klux Klan element, which she had roundly denounced in every one of her campaign speeches, by a group of disgruntled Democrats, and by another group of politicians who stated that it was their belief that no woman was fit to hold office in Texas.

The latter group carried Mrs. Ferguson's nomination into the Supreme Court of Texas on the grounds that it was unconstitutional for a woman to hold the office of governor in Texas, but the court ruled in favor of Mrs. Ferguson. The men of this group, many of the powerful politicians, then declared they would swing their support to Mrs. Ferguson's opponent on the Republican ticket.

In spite of the Klan opposition, which in Texas is a powerful factor, in spite of the opposition of the disgruntled Democrats, and in spite of the opposition of the group of politicians, Mrs. Ferguson yesterday started early to roll up a majority which by midnight, assured her election to the office from which her husband was dishonorably removed. The voters, rallying to the slogan "Me for Ma" carried every district of the state, and by two solidly Republican in the Presidential election, swung entirely into the Democratic line when the votes for the governorship were tabulated. The personal popularity of Governor Smith, one of the most popular governors New York has ever had, was too great for the Republican machine, headed by young Roosevelt to overcome.

GOV AL SMITH RE ELECTED BY HUGE MAJORITY

It has been estimated by political leaders here that a Republican candidate for any State office, must go into Gotham with a lead of at least 150,000 before he can be assured of election. In the race today, Roosevelt, the Republican candidate had but one tenth of that lead, and as soon as his majority in the outlying sections was determined, the election of Governor Smith was conceded.

The Tammany machine showed yesterday that it was still as strong as ever, sweeping its entire state ticket into office, in spite of the fact that the State voted solidly Republican on all national measures. The strong Tiger machine, built up within the city of New York by the Democratic leaders, quickly wiped out the puny lead piled up by the Republicans, and swept their candidates into office by a majority as large as was ever received by a Democratic candidate for the governorship.

It was believed that Al Smith would be enabled to carry the election, even without the aid of the Tammany Hall cohorts, but when the ballots were tabulated, it was found the popular "wet" candidate would require the aid of the New York City organization. It is a wonderful tribute to young Roosevelt that he led his opponent in the outlying district, and Republican leaders were considerably cheered by the results of the balloting.
