WOBLIES FAIL TO PROMOTE A COPCO STRIKE

I. W. W. Outfit Sent Out of Camp When Demands Cannot be Met

MORE MEN COMING IN

All Demands of Strikers Could Not be Met, and Radicals Are Sent Down Trail

The wave of I. W. W. agitation, which has been felt in several construction camps on the Pacific Coast, such as the Natron Cut-off camp, in Washington and other places, was felt at the California-Oregon Power company's construction camp at Copco last week when more than 100 tunnel workers on the huge project there called a strike and, following the rejection of the demands, were given transportation to outside points by the company with the advice that they need not return.

A few I. W. W. members, according to Superintendent of Construction Kermack, sneaked into the camps, although the officials had made every effort to keep out the wobblies, and, immediately starting agitation, quickly aroused a large number of the laborers to a point of dissatisfaction, which resulted in a strike, despite the fact that the effort to affect a general strike in the camps resulted in less than half of the workmen voting in favor of the walkout.

All of the laborers who left their work were tunnel-men. Because of the strike only small forces were being worked in the tunnels when Ashland visitors inspected the tunnels Sunday, but the officials stated more workmen were arriving and that within a few days they hoped to have full crews at work again.

Some of the demands made by the strikers were branded impossible by the Copco officials. The demands in full were: "The release of all class war prisoners in California and other states."

"The reinstatement of George Walker and discharge of flunky in bunkhouse."

"Six foot space between bunks; also plenty of hot water at all hours of day and night; bunkhouses to be swept out daily. Also better food in the cook house and more of it, and better service there."

"Better service in the commissary."

"All day labor to be moved from tunnel-men's bunkhouse; and all shifts to keep the same bunkhouses."

"The boycott of all California products."

SAIL WIDE ATLANTIC IN THIRTY FOOT BOAT

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 18.—Somewhere on the broad Atlantic today, in a tiny ketch, are two professional men, bound from this port to St. Lucia, British West Indies. The navigators are Charles Perrochet, an artist, now of Neuchatel, Switzerland but formerly of New York, and Louis Kraus, a writer, whose home is in New York. The two men embarked in their thirty-foot craft on an 1,800-mile voyage with scarcely more provisions than they expected to use on the trip. Only sails propel the small vessel, and, because of the inclement weather generally prevailing at this time of year, the voyage has attracted the attention of many experienced mariners.

HIGH GRID TEAM TO MEET GRANTS PASS PLAYERS TOMORROW

Will Attempt to Avenge Early Defeat Handed Them by Northern Warriors

Determined to wipe out the stigma of the defeat handed them in their first game with the Grants Pass eleven, Coach Walt Hughes will send his Ashland High grid warriors against the northern eleven on the high school field tomorrow afternoon.

The locals have suffered but two defeats so far this season. The Grants Pass outfit handed them a 14-7 licking early in the season, after the Ashland outfit had gone into the game favored to win, while Armistice Day, the local squad finished on the short end of a 14-12 score with the Medford eleven. The Ashland gang is out to wipe out both these defeats, and will tackle the first part of their job tomorrow.

Hughes has his eleven working smoothly now, and it was only a few breaks which went against them which prevented them from turning in a win over the Medford outfit. The boys are confident they will finish in front in tomorrow's tussle.

The forward passing game, coupled with the end running ability of one of his backs, and the great line plunging of another has formed the basis of Hughes' success this season. It is probable that the locals will depend on their aerial attack as much as ever in tomorrow's contest.

According to figures compiled by a local high school student, the Ashland eleven has scored 115 points against 42 scored by their opponents in the six games they have played this season.

The record shows that they have a powerful offensive drive, and although their defense was not up to standard early in the season, it has developed so that it is equal to any in this section right now.

School will be dismissed at 2:30 tomorrow afternoon, in order that all the students may attend the game.

TOMORROW WILL BE PUBLIC SCHOOL DAY

According to an announcement made today by Susanne Homes Carter, county superintendent of schools, tomorrow will be observed throughout the country as School and Teacher Day. The public is urged to visit the schools during the day, in order to observe the regular class room activities.

The general public is unacquainted with the methods employed in the schools to develop character, capacity, citizenship and therefore this day has been set aside by the leading educators in the country in order that the public may become more closely allied with the schools and the work being carried on in them.

It is hoped to have a large number of Ashland residents in attendance at the local schools throughout the day, according to Mrs. Carter, in order that the work being done here may be placed before them, and so that they can realize the work of building the future citizenship of the country.

PIERCE OUSTS OSWALD WEST, GEORGE BLACK

Says Commissioner Competent to Handle Affairs of Office

WEST MAKES A REPLY

Body Which Investigated Hartman Syndicate Is Removed by Governor

SALEM, Nov. 18.—Declaring that he regards the "present Corporation Commissioner Crews fully competent to attend to all matters pertaining to his office," Governor Pierce today discharged Oswald West and George Black of Portland, as members of a committee which he named some time ago to investigate stock sales campaigns in Oregon.

The committee to date has reported on the Kings' Food Products company, the Multnomah Box company, the Hartman Syndicate and the Stradivara Phonograph company.

PORTLAND, Nov. 18.—"The governor was happy with our work so long as we uncovered shortcomings in the management of affairs by the previous administrations, but he could not stand the gaff when our investigations reached his own administration," Oswald West, chairman of the investigating committee said today in answer to Pierce's letter discharging the committee.

The West-Black committee investigated the operations and stock sales campaigns of the Hartman Syndicate, developing the shale oil deposits in this territory. They reported that the syndicate was over-subscribed, and that President Hartman had been given too much stock in the company in exchange for his holdings.

The management of the syndicate immediately filed suit for $300,000 against the commission, and that suit is now pending. Committee, selected from stockholders throughout the state, after an investigation of the company's financial standing, its properties and its officers, reported that they had perfect confidence in the standing of the company, and that the charges made by the commission were unfounded.

President Hartman of the syndicate recently made a trip to New York, where a firm of brokers practically underwrote the sale of $750,000 worth of stock, giving the company ample funds with which to complete operations.

SPECIAL PREMIUM LIST IS COMPLETED FOR WINTER FAIR

Almost $500 Is Contributed to Special Award Class for Coming Exhibition

A check for $25, to be used as a special premium award for the Winter Fair Poultry Show, was received here today from the Grants Pass Chamber of Commerce and merchants, according to an announcement made by J. H. Fuller, secretary of the local booster organization, which body is promoting the fair.

With the arrival of this check, it was assured that the largest special premium list ever offered in Southern Oregon will be completed for at the coming Winter Fair, to be held December 9-12 inclusive. Almost $500 has been contributed by the merchants and civic bodies of the cities in southern Oregon, while the regular awards total far past that mark.

Medford, Klamath Falls, Grants Pass, Talent, Phoenix and many other cities of this section have sent in contributions to the special premium list, while the merchants and organizations of Ashland have subscribed generously to the fund to be used for this purpose, according to Fuller.

A large number of entries to the fair have already been received at headquarters here, and indications are that the largest number of birds ever to be exhibited in a show of this kind will be shown at the coming fair. Poultry fanciers from all over the Coast have either sent in entries, or signified their intentions of entering birds at the show, assuring one of the largest displays of birds to be held on the Coast this year.

A large number of men are engaged today in putting the Chau-tauqua building in shape for the coming show. The men donated their time in doing this work, most of them spending the entire day laboring in the building, in order that it might be in the best shape for the exhibition.

Thursday, Friday This Week Are Dates Set for Intensive Campaign

CAPTAINS APPOINTED

Gallatin Sisters Are Guests of Chamber at Luncheon. Money Subscribed for Chicago Trip

Thursday and Friday of this week have been set aside by the Chamber of Commerce as the days upon which the people of Ashland will be urged to join the booster organization, according to plans made at the Forum luncheon held at the Hotel Ashland today.

The members of the board of directors have been appointed captains of the teams which are to make an intensive drive in an effort to add to the roster of the club, all those who are not now members.

At the luncheon today, the captains spoke on the methods they will employ to obtain new members for the organization. The work in building up the civic activities of Ashland accomplished during the past few years by the Chamber of Commerce, was explained by O. F. Carson, who presided at the meeting, while the directors, emphasized his speech in their talks.

Rosina and Frances Gallatin, Ashland High School girls, who recently won the bread making championship of Oregon, in competition with hundreds of other contestants at the Livestock Exhibition held in Portland, were guests of the chamber today. They gave a short outline of their work, explaining how they had been aided in winning their championship by the Boys and Girls Club work being conducted here.

A movement is now on foot to send these girls to Chicago, where they may compete for the National title, and after a talk of R. O. Fowler, County Agent, the chamber voted to aid in this movement, subscribing $75 toward paying the expenses of the trip.

Professor Forsythe, a member of the committee aiding in the promotion of the Celebrity Course here this year, gave a short outline of the work, and urged the members to purchase tickets for the course.

STAR GAZERS FIND ANOTHER ASTEROID

CHICAGO, Nov. 18.—A new asteroid, or tiny planet, revolving about the sun between the orbits of Mars and Jupiter, has been photographed by astronomers at Yerkes Observatory, Williams Bay, Wis. The pictures were taken at the request of astronomers at Hamburg, Germany.

There are about a thousand and known asteroids, however, according to Prof. E. B. Frost, of the Williams Bay Observatory, and little importance is to be attached to this new one, which, he says, probably is part of a larger planet which blew up into fragments in bygone days. The largest is only 450 miles in diameter, and they serve astronomers only in tests of the law of gravity, he said.

SCHOOL BOOKS WILL COST MORE IN STATE SAY COMMISSION MEN

Text Books, Contracted for 6 Years Ago, Have Increased in Price, Meetings Changed

SALEM, Nov. 18.—An increase of 25 per cent in the cost of text books in the grade and high schools of Oregon that are adopted by the state textbook commission which met here yesterday, is said by J. A. Churchill, state school superintendent probably to be unavoidable.

The state textbook commission since its inception, has met only every six years and the first meeting in six years was held yesterday.

By a change in the law made by the legislature of 1923, however, the commission will hereafter meet every two years. Under the old system of meeting every six years all books in the public schools were changed or re-adopted every six years but under the new plan changes will be made in one-third of them every two years, or the books in use may be re-adopted.

It is said that because of the increase in the cost of paper, labor, etc., since books were last contracted for in Oregon six years ago, publishers have been selling the books at a loss in Oregon. For this reason it is certain that no contracts will be extended and an increase in the cost of the books to the school patrons of the state will result.

New books adopted will go into use next September. An innovation in the curriculum for the sixth grade is a course in Oregon history. Texts recommended to the commission by Mr. Churchill for changes are:

Grammar grade schools—Civil government, geography (three book series), history, seventh and eighth grades; Oregon history, sixth grade; reading, Basil text first to eighth grades inclusive.

High schools—Civics, French, world and American history, social problems, elementary economics, higher arithmetic, science (biology, general science and manual for general science, manual for physics), Spanish.

The members of the commission are Margaret J. Casper, Salem; A. C. Hampton, LaGrande; Alfred C. Schmidt, Corvallis; George A. Briscoe, Ashland; Milton A. Miller, Portland.

WATER STEALERS TO BE ARRESTED TODAY

INDEPENDENCE, Cal., Nov. 18.—Warrants for the arrest of the men, who Sunday seized the flood gates of the Los Angeles aqueduct may be issued today, officials in the Inyo county court house here declared today. The raiders have refused to obey an injunction which was given out, ordering them to leave, and are standing by, diverting water back into the Owens River, from which it will be taken to irrigate their farms farther down the valley.

MAN IS HELD CHARGED WITH ROBBERY HERE

James Kelley Taken Following Burglary of Standard Oil Office

ADMITS CRIME GUILT

John McDonald, Taken With Kelley, Denies Complicity in Robbery

With enough explosives to blow up a square block, James Kelley, 24, of Sidney, Australia, was taken into custody early today by Chief of Police George McNabb and V. D. Miller of the Standard Oil Company, near Talent, following the robbery of the Standard Oil office in this city.

Kelley, after questioning by McNabb and Miller, confessed to the crime, stating he had gained entrance to the office by breaking the glass in a rear window and turning the latch which held the window in place.

When taken by Miller and McNabb, Kelley was in company with John McDonald, 19, of St. Paul, Minnesota. McDonald admitted possession of articles stolen from the office, but denied guilt in the crime, stating he had met McDonald on the railroad tracks just outside of Ashland, and that Kelley had given him the articles.

The robbery of the office was discovered this morning, when employees arrived at the building. Chief of Police McNabb was immediately notified, and a search was started. J. A. McGehee, an employee of the company, who made a trip to Talent early this morning, noticed the two youths walking along the tracks, one of them carrying a leather coat, the only article taken in the robbery.

McGehee notified McNabb, and Miller and McNabb went to Talent, where they arrested the youths. When arrested, both boys denied any knowledge of the robbery, but on the way back to Ashland, McDonald told the officers he had had the coat, and took them to the spot where he had hidden it. He, however, denied any complicity in the robbery, stating Kelley had given him the coat when they met.

A search of Kelley revealed a complete burglary outfit. A two ounce bottle of nitroglycerine, several percussion caps, with fuses attached and a stick of dynamite were taken from him by McNabb. After a few minutes questioning he confessed to the crime, and exonerated McDonald, confirming the latter's story of a chance meeting.

Already concerns have tickets on sale have reported that the tickets are selling better than ever, an indication that Ashland people are willing to attend high class entertainments.

An intensive, house to house canvass, in an attempt to reach every resident of Ashland was started yesterday by the committee in charge of the promotion of the course. The committee also reported that all tickets, with the exception of the first two rows in the balcony and the first three rows on the lower floor, could be reserved at Rose's Confectionery store. There will be no charge for reserving the seats, according to the announcement.

The first number of the course will be given here November 21, and it is an attempt to reach everyone before this first number, that this intensive drive is being started.
