A GLASS OF SALTS

CLEAR PIMPLY SKIN

Says Indigestion Results from an Excess of Hydrochloric Acid

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or rather ferments, the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that indigestion is caused by Hyperacidity meaning there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach much like garbage sours in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest; we belch up gas; we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea. He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids and instead get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink it while it is effervescing, and furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief often follows the first dose, it is important to help neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices. Jad Salts is inexpensive, and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salt is used for many stomach disorders with excellent results.

DELEGATE FINDS "UNTIDY WEALTH" IN LARGEST CITY

LONDON, Jan. 10.—My impressions of New York will always be of 'untidy prosperity,' of a people working feverishly, living hectically, straining nerves to the utmost tension, erecting great skyscrapers of forty or fifty stories or more in height, of which they are justly proud—but neglecting to sweep and keep clean the side streets.

These are the opinions written back to Reynolds' Newspaper in London by Cornelius T. Cramp, chairman of the British Labor Party, while on a visit to the United States and Mexico fraternal delegates from the British Trade Union Congress to the convention of the American Federation of Labor.

"Compared with European standards," continues Cramp, "wages are very high. Bricklayers work on day rates, which are at present fixed at $12 a day, but the cost of living is very much higher than it is in Britain.

"Forty dollars a month is quite a common rental for four or five rooms in a tenement house, and the housing question is apparently more acute in America than it is in England.

"New York is a maelstrom of movement. We were caught in it through our American friends, and were then whirled off on a five-hour journey to Washington.

"The Capitol is in the center of the city; streets and all life radiate from it. It is a beautiful city; the only blot on its fair face is the long line of motor cars, mostly Fords, parked in almost all the streets. Looking down on them from a height, they appeared to me like battalions of black beetles.

"A contrast with English customs was for interview with the President of the United States, Calvin Coolidge. 'Silent Cal' he is laconically called by his fellow countrymen. We did not have to go through the rigmarole and red tape associated with a visit to high members of the British Government. President Coolidge we found to be a tall, pale, quiet man, who showed traces of his recent serious illness, and whose only emblem of authority was the American flag planted near his desk.

"He was very cordial and gave us a courteous greeting, asking about our mission. Particular interest was shown by him in our unemployment problem, and he asked what we thought should be done to solve it. What appeared to us was the lack of fussiness and pomp about all the proceedings at the Executive offices in Washington; it was, indeed, a change from the red tape of England.

"We had a day in Chicago. I am glad we have no counterpart of Chicago in England. We were rushed around the city on an elevated electric railway, a screaming monster of steel; then to the famous stockyards, miles upon miles of them. How their scenes and smells would revolt the heart of a vegetarian!

"From the stockyards we were taken on a voyage of exploration of the streets. They were narrow, uneven streets, even more badly congested with traffic than in London.

"We saw mile after mile of slums. They call Chicago the 'Windy City,' and the chill blasts sweep along those mean streets as they do in Auld Reekie, biting to the bones the poor inhabitants, who are mostly foreigners.

"The hand of the cranky Puritan lies heavy on the land. Besides the lack of liquor, we found we could not smoke in cinemas and we were told that attempts are being made to prevent or restrict the sale of liquor."

YALE STRUCTURES WILL BE "REBUILT"

NEW HAVEN, Conn., Jan. 10.—Spending a sum now estimated at $5,000,000, Yale University is about to start "re-building" its plant here. The entire program is to run far in excess of that sum. Two new dormitories will be started this winter. A new gymnasium, probably the largest gym in the country, is to follow soon, along with a new plant for the Yale law school that will include an exclusive law student dormitory.

When this work is done, or coincident with it, the university expects to raze buildings on the old campus to make them conform to the huge Harkness Memorial dormitory group. The $7,000,000 gift of the Harkness family will form the hub of the university when the rebuilding is completed.

Following the new gym an expensive, ornamental library structure to house what is now one of the largest book collections on earth is to go up where today there is a collection of dwelling houses, converted into temporary dormitories, class rooms or business quarters. The best-known architects of the country are working out plans for the new developments. Gifts adequate to care for the building program are said to be in hand.

New fraternity houses, a college theatre, and structures to house undergraduate publications are to be built from time to time in the midst of the larger building program. When the work is done Yale's plant will be "ideal," in the opinion of those behind the undertaking. Incidentally it will help Yale's student and teaching forces increase in a way the Yale of a generation ago hardly conceived.

State has 5000 manufacturing industries, with $400,000,000 investment, with an annual output of $350,000,000. Half of the factories are in Portland.

Portland's buildings for 1924 went $4,000,000 above any previous yearly record.

PHILADELPHIA, Jan. 8.—The Liberty Bell in Independence Hall has been moved temporarily. A solid base is to be erected beneath its customary position and the flooring of the hall is to be torn up and relaid with colonial bricks.

The old flooring has been in place for twenty years, and officials felt there was a danger of the bell crashing through.

On the Nation's Business

A SLEET storm snaps wires in New England; a blizzard fells a line of poles in the Western ranges; a flood overwhelms a valley community; a prairie cyclone sweeps away everything in its path;—wherever the emergency, men and materials are rushed to the spot in order that telephone service, vitally important at such a time, may be restored.

And the mending of every break restores to telephone users, everywhere in America, a particular path for the passage of his voice. Whether sudden calamity comes from an Atlantic gale or a Texas "twister," its damage must be repaired at once, because it cripples some part of a communications system that is nation-wide.

Because America has universal service, the telephone truck speeding to a scene of disaster is truly "on the nation's business," and the implements of its workers are weapons wielded in the nation's cause.
