NO ASSURANCE IS GIVEN FOR ROGUE BRIDGE

Railroad Company Declines to Replace Structure Washed Out

DEFICIT IS NOW FACED

Railroad Commissioners Do Not Wish to Issue Order Until Other Methods Have Failed

GRANTS PASS, Jan. 28. — Some mutual understanding among the various affected interests now appears to be the only solution for the immediate rebuilding of the California and Oregon Coast railroad bridge over the Rogue River. This was developed at the hearing at the city hall here yesterday when members of the public service commission were here to listen to arguments of the shippers and representatives of the railroad, following the filing of complaints by the shippers over the road. Little was developed at the hearing, other than the disinclination of the railroad company to rebuild the bridge at the present time due to continued deficits, the fact that the Beaver Portland Cement Company will be forced to suspend operations if the bridge is not rebuilt and the inability of the city of Grants Pass to take any action looking to the restoration of service.

Public Service Commissioners T. K. Campbell and Edward Ostrander presided at the hearing. Commissioner Campbell stated immediately following the session that the commission does not want to issue an order unless there is no chance for some agreement among the shippers, the city and the railroad. They were acting as intermediaries between the contending elements and are striving to effect this agreement by which the bridge can be built and the railroad continued in operation. The commission could issue an order immediately but is deferring such action until all other means have been taken to have the bridge put in.

POOR WATER IS TO GET HIS OWN NOW

SALEM, Jan. 28.—The fighting spirit of the Senate and the House have been aroused over the Governor's removal of the Port of Portland Commission, and an answer will likely be introduced into the Senate this week, legislation into office for another four year term, members of the port commission slated for retirement by the governor.

The question remains yet whether the Fish and Game Commission reorganization bills can be passed, as the governor may have enough votes mustered to prevent the over-riding of his veto. The bills may give the appointive power in the Fish and Game Commissions to the Board of Control. This session is expected to be one of the wildest during the closing days, due to the continued delay in legislation.

ATTORNEY WILL GIVE LINCOLN DAY ADDRESS

Ashland People Included in Program Scheduled for Medford

MEDFORD, Jan. 28. — The Lincoln banquet on February 12, which will be held at the Hotel Medford, will be handled by the Republican Ex-Service League of Jackson County. Plans for one of the most interesting affairs in honor of Abraham Lincoln, are practically completed. Much work has been done on the program and the committee were fortunate in securing Arthur Moulton, prominent trial lawyer of Portland, to give the principal address. Mr. Moulton has already distinguished himself for his educational, interesting and forceful talks on Abraham Lincoln. He is a brother of Jackson county's assistant prosecuting attorney, Moulton. The committee have also secured Mrs. Peruzzi of Ashland who will give a talk on Abraham Lincoln's mother and her influence on "Abe". This subject has never been covered at a Lincoln banquet and is quite befitting the occasion.

Another speaker on the program who needs no introduction and without whom no Lincoln banquet in Medford could be held successfully is R. P. Campbell, (Dick Posey) of Ashland who promises something new and interesting, as he always does.

PHYSICIANS NEEDED

Million Anti-Toxin Units to be Sent to City by Means of Ship, Rail and Airplane

SEATTLE, Jan. 28. — Held tight in the grip of an exceedingly serious diphtheria epidemic and without first means of combating the dread disease, Nome, Alaska was threatened with complete extinction today, while the United States Public Health Service officers here were exerting effort to stave off a general disaster and the complete wiping out of the city.

Acting upon instructions from Surgeon General Cummins, head of the United States Public Health Service, Dr. G. Magruder, in charge of all public health service work in this district early today completed arrangements to rush a million anti-toxin units to Seward aboard the Steamer Alameda which sails for Seattle Saturday. The anti-toxin will be taken from Seward by rail and airplane to Nome, where the situation is said to have become extremely urgent within the past two days.

Nome, isolated from the remainder of the world by the heavy snows of this winter, is completely cut off from all outside medical aid. Rail service into the city was discontinued several weeks ago because of the heavy snows, and as a result it has been impossible to obtain either anti-toxin units or more doctors or nurses. It is believed that airplanes will be able to make the trip into Nome without danger.

SALEM WRITER GIVES PRAISE TO LOCAL FIVE OF COLD WAVE

Three victories scored by the Ashland High basketball team on their road trip which ended Monday night with a win over Salem on the Cherry City court marked the local tossers down as an outfit which will give the high school teams of the state a real battle for the interscholastic championship this year. The Ashland quintet have yet to drop a game this season, and they have met some of the fastest teams in the state.

Writing of the Ashland-Salem game Monday night, the sports editor of the Oregon Statesman of Salem says: "Ashland high school came out of southern Oregon undefeated this season and kept their slate clean last night by handing a defeat to Salem high school by a score of 30 to 25. The red and black players made a desperate rally in the last few minutes of play and succeeded in cutting down the 12-point lead held by the southerners but were unable to convert the game into victory.

Salem high scored first when Drager, guard, got two good baskets in succession. It looked like a Salem win, but Ashland was not to be outdone, and Marske the diminutive forward, duplicated the performance. Then the marvelous Ashland team work began to tell and the points to total up. At the half the score stood 28 to 10.

The local players came back strong in the second period and succeeded in cutting the visitors' lead to 4 points, but then the defense failed and the southerners ran up a 12-point lead. From then on it was Ashland's game, although Salem made a tremendous effort in the last few minutes of play, cutting the lead to five points."

ASHLAND LAYS HAND BEFORE LEGISLATURE

SALEM, Jan. 28. — The delegation from Ashland late today advised the ways and means committee that Ashland will donate the site for the erection of a state normal school there and turn over its schools for practice teaching if the state locates a normal school in the southern part of Oregon. A bill now before the legislature calls for the appropriation of $175,000 to construct a normal school in the southern part of the state.

A house concurrent resolution was introduced by Representative Carkin of Medford, declaring the legislature opposed to the state embarking on any further government ownership of operation of utilities.

FAMILY GONE, BURGLARS LOOT ENTIRE HOUSE

Watch, Clothing and Bank Taken by Burglars in Raid Upon Residence

THINK OLD OFFENDERS

Home of S. A. Arnold Near City Given Thorough Working Over by Burglars

Robbers, believed members of the same gang which has committed several burglaries in this city during the past few weeks, yesterday entered the home of S. A. Arnold, just outside the city across Bear creek and removed articles valued at about $60.

According to Mrs. Arnold, who reported the robbery to Chief of Police George McNabb, the family was away from home all day yesterday, and the burglary was not discovered until late yesterday. When the family returned to the house they discovered the entire building had been ransacked. From the appearance of things, it looked as though the burglar had taken his time in going over the premises, and removed only those things which he could easily dispose of or use himself.

After a check had been made upon the articles in the house, it was finally discovered this morning that a watch, several articles of clothing and a toy bank, contained several dollars had been taken.

Chief of Police McNabb and a fingerprint expert worked for some time today upon the case, but they have not as yet announced the discovery of any clue. It appeared as though no fingerprints could be obtained, however.

It appears as though the "jobs" which have been "pulled" here recently are the work of someone who knows the city and is pretty well acquainted with the movements of the people. In the Peniston, and Hill homer robberies, the burglars waited until the families were gone and then took their time in going through the houses. They apparently worked in the same manner yesterday, taking all the time they needed in riving the house a thorough ransacking.

STONE TAKES STAND IN BEHALF OF SELF

WASHINGTON, Jan. 28.—Attorney General Stone, named to the Supreme Court by President Coolidge, today took the witness stand in his own defense before the Senate judiciary committee to defend his professional record against any senatorial criticism. Opposition now lined up against him is due to his formal legal activities with the J. P. Morgan Co., and his reported intention, as Attorney General, to re-indict Senator Wheeler of Montana. Stone said the indictment he would seek would involve a conspiracy to defraud the government of its oil lands, and that it was a new case, having no connection with the Montana indictment against Wheeler.

Elks Quintet Will Meet Dunsuir in Tussle Tonight

Jim Bowers, demon manager of the Elks' basketball squad will take his charges to Dunsuir this afternoon, where tonight the boys tangle with the Dunsuir five in what should be one of the toughest tussles the locals have scheduled for the season.

Bowers has scheduled a number of games for his tossers for a northern road trip which will be started this week end, and the game tonight will give them a good workout before they tangle with the northern quintets.

The Elks have been working out steadily for the past month, and are all now in great shape. After a rather sloppy start, in which they failed to show a lot of team work, the boys got down to real work, and as a result have developed a quintet which will make a lot of teams hustle to cop a verdict.

Portland Delegation Puts Ban on Bill, Denny Aid Measure Passed

STATE HOUSE, Salem, Ore., Jan. 28. — The house killed its first bill Monday, No. 66, by Shrook, providing uniform textbooks for schools throughout the state. It went down to defeat upon attack of the Multnomah county delegation. The bill was taken from the table, where it rested over Sunday, and put upon its third reading.

For the measure Mr. Shrook said citizens who moved either in or out of the Portland district were put to needless expense in buying a new set of school books for their children.

Representative Tucker supported Shrook's bill, but Bailey and Loneragan declared against it and the Multnomah delegation were a unit in the vote, which was 36 against and 21 for the measure. Three were absent.

Men Held on Charge of Furnishing Liquor to 2 Young Women

ARE HELD IN JAIL

District Attorney Awaits Results of Case Before Filing Complaint Against Men

LAKEVIEW, Jan. 28.—Harry Ballard of Klamath Falls and Leo Wilkie of this city are under arrest here on the charge of giving moonshine whiskey to two girls under 18 years of age. One girl is nearly blind and according to physicians is in a serious condition. The other girl is suffering ill effects from the liquor.

The two young men are being held on liquor charges. According to the district attorney's office a more serious charge will be preferred if the young girl dies from the effects.

The names of the two girls are being withheld by the district attorney at Lakeview until a further investigation.

One of the girls was totally blind Monday for several hours and today had not entirely regained her sight. It is thought that the moonshine liquor had poisoned her entire system and that her recovery, was in question.

Harry Ballard came to Lakeview several days ago, according to authorities. He was formerly employed by the California-Oregon Power company at Klamath Falls, it was said.

Wilkie has been employed in Lakeview driving a truck.

A general investigation into the liquor embroiglo will be made by authorities, which might lead to implication of other young men, it was said.

Six New Bill Are Put Before House For Consideration

STATE HOUSE, Salem, Jan. 28.—Report of the judiciary committee of the house on three bills, Nos. 13, 78 and 120, that they pass No. 13 as amended, was adopted Monday. The committee of education reported adversely on house bill No. 79, and it was tabled. A like report was made on house bill No. 107, but it was re-referred to the committee. The former bill referred to election of county school superintendents in counties of a population of 200,000 or more and was designated to place functions of the county superintendent of Multnomah in the hands of the city superintendent of Portland schools within the Portland district. The other bill referred to the manner of conducting eighth grade examinations in the public schools.

The livestock committee reported favorably on three measures of local interest, Nos. 58, 69 and 81, and the report was adopted. The revision of laws committee submitted a substitute bill for No. 28 protecting purchasers of merchandise.
