MAYOR JOHNSON and MEMBERS of the COUNCIL

Gentlemen:
After a period of opposition and disagreement, you have at last settled down to real work, and we expect great things from you. Even in your disagreement, in which you were perfectly correct, you accomplished much, as much as we expected of you when you were elected, something I cannot say for most councils. You have proved yourselves men capable of carrying on the city government, and it is my belief you will push through the business of the city with a speed which will set a record for things accomplished.

Mayor Johnson, you took the hard way, but the good way out of the dilemma which faced you, when you submitted the names of George McNabb and Frank Merrill to the council for ratification. You probably would have been tangled for the remainder of your term if you had taken any other way, but it took nerve to do the thing you did. I like you better for it.

In passing the resolution calling for the special bond election for the purchase of the Chautauqua building and the McCormick tract you councilmen did a big thing. The councilmen who were somewhat opposed to the park addition were frankly open in their opposition and ready for conviction, if such thing were possible. It was discovered there was a way in which these men could be convinced that the placing of the proposition before the people in no way make it appear the council was responsible for the measure. The responsibility does now, and always did, rest upon the park board. You were fair minded enough to see this, and for this, I like you better.

Ashland needs men to help her in her growth, and I believe we have a council which will accomplish much. You have shown real ability, and now that you are again in harmony, I am certain you will "carry on."

Yours for a better Ashland,
AUNTIE ASHLAND.

MR. E. T. ALLEN,

Hotel Ashland,
Dear Ed:
Understand you are going into the antique business Ed. From the reports I hear of the old furniture you have pulled out of the hotel and replaced with modern furnishings, you have a wonderful start on one of the finest stocks in Oregon. Too bad you can't make a public exhibit for the benefit of all of Auntie Ashland's nieces and nephews, but then that would probably not be interesting or new to many of them.

But seriously Ed, you are to be congratulated and praised for your efforts to give Ashland the best obtainable in the hotel line. Successful in other fields before you entered the hotel game, you have realized the big problem, the keynote of success in your present line. Give the people the best and your reward will be forthcoming.

Ashland is going ahead. You know it is and I know it is. Anyone with the least bit of foresight or vision can see the fore runners of prosperity. Situated at the entrance to the most beautiful state in the Union, we have a vantage point which gives us a big edge over other communities of the state. If the tourist comes over from California, he is bound to go through Ashland, and naturally, we can obtain much trade in this way. But you have gone ahead, adding features which will induce tourists to stop over here. Keep it up, Ed, Ashland always has room for men of your calibre.

Sincerely,
AUNTIE ASHLAND.

MR. SNEAK THIEF,

Sir:
Did you ever hear that song which was so popular a few months back, "Sittin' on the Inside, Lookin' at the Outside"? That is just what you will be doing if you don't "lay off" your activities in looting the homes in Ashland. You have gotten away with several of these "jobs" during the past two months, but even if you were successful in evading George McNabb, et al, for a year, you couldn't collect enough to repay you for the time you will be "Sittin' on the Inside, Lookin' at the Outside." When you are caught, and you surely will be caught if you continue with your taking ways, you will be handed a nice "stretch" in the "big house."
I haven't a bit of use for any thief, but I have just a trace of respect when a man will risk his life, even if it is in stealing. But your operations are in no way liable to gain respect from anyone. You are a human coyote, worse than a coyote, for a coyote will fight when cornered, but I am almost positive you are as yellow inside as you are sneaking. You are simply a petty larceny thief, without the nerve to get out and "pull" anything really big. You are up against a tough proposition, as you probably realized after you read the account of the activities of our officers a week or so ago. But still you continue your thievery. Too lazy to work, too yellow to "pull" a big job, you continue to live by robbing children's banks. As a human being, you make a fine jelly-fish. Here's hoping you are caught soon,

AUNTIE ASHLAND.

CELEBRITY COURSE COMMITTEE

Ladies and Gentlemen:
I believe every lover of the better things in life, the musical and the literary, feel greatly indebted to you for your work in promoting the Ashland Celebrity Course series this season. The four numbers presented here were wonderful, and my only regret is that we could not have had more of them.

On the other hand, the support you received was enough to discourage men and women with the patience of a Job. Houses of 150 to 200 attending numbers like the "Cinderella Man" and the "Haddon Hall String Quartet" are enough to almost make one lose confidence.

With numbers arranged for, far beyond the quality presented here in the past, you were justified in believing the support necessary would be forthcoming but since it was not, some of you who acted as guarantors are left "holding the bag."

Perhaps later, when the quality of performance put on here this season is lacking, then will some regret their lack of interest when the opportunity has passed. But then it will be too late. At any rate, you are to be thanked for your work in making possible the enjoyment those of us who attended the numbers obtained.

Sincerely yours,
AUNTIE ASHLAND.

SEVERAL ASHLAND MERCHANTS

Gentlemen:
Auntie Ashland does not wish to pick on any one of you. Neither does she harbor any desire to boost the sales of an awning firm, but did you ever step out into the middle of your street and take a good peek at the awnings in front of your respective places of business? The result would astound you.

Probably the awnings now hanging in front of your places are monuments to thoughtlessness, but the fact that they are there still remains. The tourist passing through does not know that carelessness keeps these awnings in their places. Think what an impression the passing motorist gets when he views raggedy old canvas awnings and dilapidated wooden awnings of the vintage of 1891, ready to fall to pieces in the first strong wind.

The number of merchants who are guilty in this respect are very few, but these few can give the city a name so bad that it cannot be combated by all the good things the rest of the residents do.

You know we are trying to tell the world that Ashland is a thriving prosperous little city, bound to become even more prosperous and thriving. Just how in the Sam Hill do you expect us to extoll the beauties and wonders of the city to some outsider and then have him look up at an awning ready to fall on his head, and call us liars?

Yours for better awnings,
AUNTIE ASHLAND.

WALTER HUGHES,

Coach, Ashland High School,
Dear Walter:
Ashland has quite a number of men engaged in getting publicity for the city, but you and your basketball team have accomplished as much as any of them. Walter, and when your quintet knocks off the rest of the state and brings the state championship back to Ashland, Los Angeles will probably be after you to head her publicity department.

Your feat of defeating some of the strongest fives in the northern end of the state made some of your rivals sit up and take notice. Even though some of them put on a bold front, we notice that at least one bitter enemy has already started an alibi campaign. Let them alibi, Walter, for it will make them lose confidence, and then half your battle is won.

You surely deserve a lot of credit for the manner in which you developed your team this year. At the first of the season it did not appear as though you had any sensational material, but the way things have been going, you don't need so much with which to mould a great quintet. Your men have developed until now they would be a welcome addition to any team. More power to you, Walter.

Sincerely,
AUNTIE ASHLAND.
