of the mishap was only $11.20. Forest rangers are watchful in protecting Crater Lake National park's attractions—flowers, forest cover, the many cascades and wild animal life.

Sanitation and providing pure water for automobile camps are prime considerations. September is regarded as the most beautiful month in the park, although the attendance usually drops off the early part of this month.

One of the features of service at Crater Lake lodge is that many young men and women students of the University of Oregon and of the Oregon Agricultural college are given employment during their summer vacations. No such splendid and worthy groups of young people could be found anywhere, says patrons of the resort, and they do much to elevate the popularity of Crater lake. In the evenings in the hotel's great lobby before the massive fireplace, fed by huge logs, these young people contribute much in song and music to the pleasure of the guests.
