SEPTEMBER 18, 1928
WHAT DOES GOD REQUIRE?—And now, Israel, what does the Lord thy God require of thee, but to fear the Lord thy God, to walk in all his ways, and to love him, and to serve the Lord thy God with all thy heart and with all thy soul. Deuteronomy 10:12.
PRAYER:—We rejoice, our God, to know that thy commands are not grievous to those that love thee.

Members, City Council,
Ashland, Ore.,
Gentlemen:

I would like to see you fellows act favorably upon the move which has been started to make it compulsory for every person engaged in handling milk to take a physical examination. That would be one of the best safeguards the city has ever had, and would be worth a hundred ordinances regulating traffic, and making us do this and that, which you fellows could pass.

There seems to be a sentiment among you that the fee for the examination would be so high as to force many out of the dairymen. Is the loss of one person's life worth all the dairies in the country? Those who cannot afford an examination, cannot afford to expend the money needed to make the handling of their milk sanitary.

It is known that more typhoid fever is spread through milk than through water, although water gets the most blame.

Is it worth while to put one human life in jeopardy, just to save a few dollars?
Make those handling milk take an examination. Then we will know we are safe.

Sincerely,
Auntie Ashland.

Mr. S. I. Brown,
Chairman, Fair Board,
Medford, Ore.,
Dear Sid:

Tough luck that it had to rain during fair week, isn't it Sid? Well, anyway, the crowds have been pretty good, and the fair itself has been wonderful. If old Jupe Pluvius hadn't stepped in and thrown a monkey wrench into the works, everything would have been lovely.

The programs of entertainment you have staged this year have been the sort seen at fairs, supposedly many times larger than the Jackson county fair. Those who have braved the weather and attended, have found them well worth while, and are enthusiastic over your work.

Hope the rain forgets itself for tonight, and we have that big sham battle. It would be a shame not to let all the soldiers fight, when they are aching for a battle.

Better luck next time Sid. You have more than done your part, but nature couldn't see it that way.

Yours truly,
Auntie Ashland.

C. Street Property Owners,
Ashland, Ore.,
Dear folks:

Glad to see you people start a movement to get some of the streets in the city paved, by asking that the city council order C street macadamized. There surely is need of a lot more like that in Ashland.

I hope more property owners will see the light, when your street is completed, and will take the same action. At any rate, we all owe you a vote of thanks, for transforming a swamp into a passable street.

Yours truly,
Auntie Ashland.

Mr. D. M. Lowe,
Valley View,
Friend D. M.:

Let me congratulate you upon the wonderful exhibit you have prepared for the Talent Irrigation District booth at the fair. You have the finest display at the show, and let me tell you, there are some fine ones there to beat.

That display of farm produce, home products and other resources claimed by the country embraced by the Talent Irrigation district, will attract the attention of thousands, who have never paid the district a great deal of attention before, being far from the country in which it operates.

I hear you intend to take the exhibit to the state fair and to the Portland International Livestock show. I hope you succeed in this move, and am confident you will attract just as much attention there as you have here.

Sincerely,
Auntie Ashland.

Mr. George W. McNabb,
Chief of Police,
Ashland, Ore.,
Dear George:

Glad to see you are not going to resign after all. Some of the boys were happy when it was rumored that you were through as chief of police, that you were going to send in your resignation, but they are whistling another tune, now that that resignation has not been forthcoming.

Stick around George, we are all for you.
Sincerely,
Auntie Ashland.

Mr. C. P. Talent,
State Traffic Officer,
Friend Charlie:

I know there are many who will censure you for shooting that car thief up at Albany the other day. They will do it simply because they do not know that the shot was accidental, and when they learn the true facts, will be for you, just as strong as they were before.

As far as I am concerned, even if you shot the man intentionally, I believe you would have been justified. All he had done was escape prison, violate two federal laws, the Dyer act and the Mann act, and then resist an officer. Of course, if he had shot and killed you, then the question would have been, "why didn't the officer shoot him?"

Go to it Charlie, we are all for you, at least those of us who don't drive faster than 45.
Sincerely yours,
Auntie Ashland.

SCOUTING BY NIGHT PUTS O'DOUL BACK IN THE BIG LEAGUE

LOS ANGELES—Baseball scouting at night!

That's the innovation introduced in the West by Ed Holly, scout of the New York Yankees.

And it put Holly's O. K. on Frank ("Lefty") O'Doul former big leaguer, now with the Salt Lake City club, of the Pacific Coast League.

O'Doul, outfielder, has been hitting the ball at better than the .400 mark; but what interested Holly was O'Doul's night life.

He followed the Salt Lake club for four weeks and finally decided the slugging outfielder's day ended promptly at 6 o'clock which found him safe at home nightly.

O'Doul was married a year ago, and he hasn't been the same since. Twelve months' taming by Mrs. O'Doul convinced Holly that "Lefty" was ripe for another visit to the big circuit.

The Salt Lake club is said to have demanded more than $50,000 for O'Doul and the New York Giants, Cincinnati and Detroit are reported bidding for his services with the Yankees.

According to Holly, fewer Pacific Coast stars than ever will go to the major leagues this year.

Among those whose chances are considered most bright for the upward trip are Willie Hummel, Portland outfielder; Jackie Warner, Vernon, third baseman; Hal Rhyme, San Francisco shortstop; Tony Lasserre, Salt Lake infielder; Paul Waner, San Francisco outfielder, and Beck, Los Angeles second baseman.

Holly was reported immensely impressed with Rhyme, the San Francisco infielder, although he finally picked Lasserre, of the Utah club, as more likely for a Yankee prospect because of Lasserre's colorful playing.

Rhyme, according to Holly, is a more finished player than Lasserre, but he lacks the Italian's "zip" and dash.

O'Doul is one of the two or three outstanding stars in the Coast League. In addition to his hitting, he has attracted attention by sensational fielding. His games this season show that he has the ability to cover plenty of ground, and his arm has been "long" and accurate.

Accident Victim Holds Door While Unconscious

HONOLULU—John Czark, member of the Sixteenth Coast Artillery, Honolulu, had a tight hold of the door handle when the automobile in which he was a passenger smashed into another machine at one of Honolulu's "calamity corners." Czark was hurled through space and knocked unconscious. When he arrived at the Emergency Hospital surgeons were astounded to find him still holding the door handle in a death-like grip.

Irish Senator is Traveling Salesman

BELFAST—The Ulster Senate has an unusual member in Robert Dorman, a Socialist, for while he sits in the midst of millionaires, he draws unemployment benefit.

Senator Dorman is a traveling salesman by occupation, but being out of employment, he draws about $4 a week in unemployment benefit from the Government for his own maintenance and $1 a week for his wife.

Quick Wit Saves Life of Human Torch

WAKEFIELD, Mass.—Presence of mind saved the life of Harold Surrette, of this town, who, with his clothing ablaze, ran into a field and extinguished the flames by rolling in the grass.

Surrette's lantern ignited gasoline, which was being poured into his truck at a filling station.

AFTERWARD

(By Elizabeth Scollary in the New York Sun.)

The things she used to say have ways
Of coming back to me,
I hear them when I think them gone
From memory.

These quiet rooms resound
With them,
This silence seems to sing—
As they return like homing birds
Upon the wing.

I listen to another's voice,
Her words strike in like chimes
My thought goes fleeing back to her
And other times.

Though they were sweet—these things she said—
And bright and blithe—and gay
They have turned bitter since the time
She went away.

Dinner Party

Mrs. Grace Andrews entertained her Sunday school class of the Presbyterian church Thursday evening at her home in honor of Miss Marion Leach who leaves Sunday for the University of Oregon, and Miss Catherine Pittenger who leaves for Albany college.

A three course dinner was served at a prettily appointed table, decorated with beautiful flowers.

The evening was enjoyed with music and conversation.

The guests were: Marion Leach, Catherine Pittenger, Esther Counter, Irma Bass, Ruth Bibby, Delphine Sackett, Elizabeth Stearns, Evelyn Taylor, Pearl Wardle, Velda Gleason, and the hostess Mrs. Grace Andrews.

LAZY AUTOISTS CALLED MENACE TO FUEL SUPPLY

LOS ANGELES—Lazy automobile drivers are causing a gasoline loss of nearly 400,000,000 gallons annually, and are a national menace both to the fuel supply and the public health, Professor Alexander Silverman, head of the department of chemistry in the University of Pittsburgh, declared here in an address before the Division of Industrial and Engineering Chemistry of the American Chemical Society.

This laziness is costing the nation about $275,000 a day and $80,000,000 every year, he said. The daily loss of gasoline from this source he estimated at 1,480,000 gallons. Professor Silverman based his conclusions on one hour of idling each day, but asserted that the time actually idled away was much greater.

He urged that the American Chemical Society and the American Medical Association combine with the other scientific societies of the country to bring about legislation, both Federal and State, to end waste through idleness.

Methods have been proposed so to regulate the gasoline-air mixture as to reduce the carbon monoxide content of exhaust gases and increase fuel efficiency, said Professor Silver-

FRESH DISASTER HITS JAPAN CITY

TOKIO, Sept. 17—(U. P.)—Tokio was visited by a fresh disaster here this afternoon, when fire raged through its parliament buildings. Both the House of Peers and the house of representatives were totally destroyed. Firemen succeeded in saving some of the parliamentary records.

The troops were called out soon after the fire started. After wrecking the two parliament houses, the fire spread late in the afternoon to adjoining buildings. The loss of more than a million dollars and some valuable parliament papers were lost.

HAWAII FLIGHT IS OFF FOR THIS YEAR

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 18.—(U. P.)—The contemplated flight of the naval seaplane PB-1 to Hawaii, probably will not take place this year, flight officials said here today. The Honolulu United States battle fleet base farwell to mid-Pacific waters today and steamed westward for the mainland. Headed by the U. S. S. California, the ships formed of Diamond Head at 10 a. m. and started for San Pedro.

One of These Is a Fake.

Paris artistic circles are in a furor over the Mona Lisa painting. The one at the right, stolen from the Louvre, is said to be spurious. The one at the left, in the possession of the English Consul, Marcel Cuenod, is said by a German expert to be the real Mona Lisa. A board of examiners will decide which is the genuine.
