DIGONES QUILTS JOB TIDINGS FINDS MAN
Digones, cease your seeking! The Tidings has found an honest man. But this time, it's an honest woman.

Several weeks ago, H. B. Plummer, local groceryman, accepted a check for $6, given him by the woman, in payment for some groceries. Upon depositing the check, Plummer found the woman had forgotten to sign it. And he had forgotten who gave him the check.

The Tidings advertising columns were called into action, and Plummer called upon the check writer to come forth and sign his check.

Whereupon, the lady stopped into the picture, and affixed her signature to the check.

Plummer has another such check, more than six months old, in his possession. He is contemplating advertising for the writer of that bit of business paper also.

Again we say, Digones, cease your seeking!

Have your deer skins tanned at McKimmy's Tannery. 10-6f

The liner reports the ship filled with passengers, but in no danger. The vessel went ashore at 4:15 p. m. today. A lifeboat put out to its assistance, but its services were not required. It was believed the ship would float clear with the tide this afternoon.

HAGUE TO DECIDE ON BOUNDARY QUESTION
GENEVA, Sept. 19—(U. P.)—The League of Nations council today referred to the Hague court the Mosul boundary dispute question. The dispute arose over the question of whether Turkey or England should have control of the region with its supposed rich oil supplies.

POSSIBILITY OF JACKSONVILLE BUYING ROAD
Mayor of Jacksonville, and Fred A. Williams, that city's attorney and former chairman of the public service commission, telling of the necessity of keeping the railroad intact for the future development of the valley.

"As mayor of Jacksonville, Oregon, I want to say that if the pioneers of my city saw fit to donate $15,000 25 years ago to establish this railroad, I think I would be desecrating their memories in not preserving it," said Mr. Cameron. "I am a native son of Applegate valley and have seen Jackson county develop from small settlements to a country with cities and factories with market for our products over the whole world."

These statements have caused the fact should be made to bring conventions here in June or September. The regular tourist trade brings all the business that the city can really accommodate in July and August, and much of it this summer has been diverted from Portland by reports of convention crowds.

"Vacation money in America reaches amazing totals. Oregon has natural advantages which entitle it to a large share of this business. It remains for us by vigorous advertising to go."
