LAW FULFILLED: Love worketh no ill to his neighbor; therefore love is the fulfilling of the law, Romans 13:10.

WHEN LIFE WAS SIMPLE: Unless it has something to do with airplanes or motor cars or with the more vigorous and spectacular games like tennis or baseball, it is not likely that the announcement of a coming national tournament will get much attention from us.

And yet, this ancient pastime is not without its merits. More keenly than ever should it today challenge our attention, for it goes back to a time when life was simpler.

The game of horseshoes satisfied to the full the simple desires of a simple life. It did not take years of most exacting toil to perfect one's self in it; one improved with practice, of course; one may become exceedingly skillful at it, but the nerve-racking apprenticeship required for perfection in a game like tennis, for instance, is not needed to enjoy pitching horseshoes.

It recommends itself to the novice and to the master; to old and young. It stimulates an easy going interest in its leisurely pace permits of conversation running into amiable channels of every sort.

As such the game of horseshoes is a restatement of a view of life and manner of living now rapidly going from among us. We are glad that a national tournament is coming off this month. It will be in some way an assurance that the good old times may be brought back occasionally.

SCOLDING THE SCOLDERS: People don't differ much in the matter of scolding. Few deserve punishment under the penal code for common scolds but petulant scolding is one of the most universal of human traits.

Cartoons and comic strips are given to gross exaggeration especially as regards the martial state, but where is there a happily wedded pair which is not scolded into married bliss! Of course they are intended as helpful suggestions and household hints, but those remarks about bills, cigar ashes, late dinners and delayed dinners, and other conjugal annoyances are but examples of everyday and unnoticed family scoldings.

The statistician affords us rare opportunities for giving vent to our natural propensity for complaining. How the men scold the women for their extravagances when the revenue bureau announces what was spent for cosmetics and silken hose in the preceding year and what a babel is set up by the wives and mothers when the tobacco statistics are broadcasted.

If the professor who is counting our sins words, will step on someone's corn, his job will be done.

About the only thing cars lack now is an accessory to ease pedestrians for getting in the way.

The two great enemies of illiteracy are compulsory education and sub-titles.

No matter if it is a new car you will have to change the gears.

When a girl says she can't play, don't make her prove it.

Love isn't stone-blind, if the stone is a diamond!
