LOCALS PLAY JACKSONVILLE HIGH TODAY

Practice Game Scheduled for Ashland High by Hughes

Coch Walter Hughes of the Ashland High school will shoot his charges into their first grid tangle of the year today, when they face the Jacksonville eleven in a practice game at Jacksonville.

The local outfit is slated to tackle the Klamath Falls eleven Saturday, but Hughes wanted to see his men in action before the opening game of the league season. For that reason, the game with Jacksonville was arranged for today.

The Jacksonville eleven, although not in the same class with the larger high schools, has a fast outfit, and one which is liable to give the Ashland team some trouble during their tangle.

Klamath Falls, with three games already under their belts, will be plenty tough for the Ashland eleven, Hughes feels, and he wants his team functioning to the best advantage possible for that game. The game this afternoon starts at four o'clock.

It is probable that the trial of the three men will be placed on the calendar for the term of court starting October 22.

FEDERAL COURT TERM OPEN AT MEDFORD

Clerk of the Court Frank Brown; Chief Deputy U. B. Marshall II. B. Reed; Deputy U. B. Marshall C. C. Wells; C. C. Spears, special agent, department of justice; Miss Margaret A. Fleming, private secretary to the court.

District Attorney George E. Nnener is expected to arrive later in the week.

Besides the criminal cases there are two civil actions scheduled for trial.

Assistant District Attorney Stearns has relatives living in the Rogue River valley, and his father was born 70 years ago, on a donation claim, that now comprises a portion of this city. The older Stearns was active in the early day Indian troubles in Southern Oregon.
