WASHINGTON NEWS LETTER

streets, though they average pretty wide, aren't wide enough for the increasing population's automobiles. So, here and there, the boulevards are widening them.

The little squares and circles are in demand to park cars in. Old timers are fighting it, but a few old timers don't stand much chance in the long run against a gang of up-to-date, energetic boosters.

Old original Washington has a style of its own. It looks like Washington and no other place.

Architecturally it's natural and picturesque. For cold blooded utility it may not stack up with the newer sections, but it pleases the eye.

Those newer sections—the boosters' work—are built according to the booster tastes. They're standardized. They're exactly like the very newest part of any other town.

Inside, the houses are strong on modern conveniences—they're handy to live in and no mistake—but externally they're deadly monotonous. Internally, too.

Ugly, likewise—all cheap gingerbread and fresh paint and efficiency and about as much individuality as a flivver.

You don't have to come to Washington to learn how the newer part of it looks. Just take a walk in the apartment house and duplex district of your own home town. That's what it's like.

The boosters want to remodel the entire place on the same pattern. "Rookeries" they call the older buildings. They yearn to tear 'em down.

Medford—Puccinelli fruit dehydrator opens, with 50 employees.

Josephine county grape crop is estimated at 30 carloads.

Fashion favors contrasting shades

Well dressed men are also following fashion's latest device—they are wearing separate trousers of a different shade than coat and vest.

Our complete line of Dutchess Trousers enables you to follow this sensible style easily and with real economy.

Dutchess Trousers are stylish, because they are cut according to the latest design. They wear well, because they are backed by the famous Watrous of the Watrous Tailor Shop.

ASHLAND LOSES FIRST GAME TO KLAMATH

The lone Ashland score came in the final quarter, when, after a series of line plays had carried the ball well down the field a pass to Tilton netted 15 yards. A couple more line plays and the ball was over. Ashland converted.

Ham Cotter at center played a whale of a game, stopping everything which came his way, and although badly battered, he will be ready for Grants Pass next week. Tilton, at quarter also played a nice game. He did the punting for the Ashland outfit, and consistently outkicked the Klamath booters.

MANY ATTEND DAY SCHOOL OF RELIGION

the teacher to the school room and another passes. Sessions are held every afternoon from one until four o'clock; two days, Monday and Tuesday, at the Methodist church with classes from the Junior High and three days at the Congregational church, Wednesday, Thursday and Friday. There are fourteen classes, a total, so far of 162 pupils from the third, fourth and fifth grades in each building. It is expected the attendance will increase this week since a number were prevented entering last week on account of illness.

SAYS LANSDOWNE ADVISED FLIGHT

WASHINGTON, Oct. 12—(U. P.)—Commander Zachary Lansdowne personally informed the navy department that he believed the most favorable time for a western flight of the Shenandoah was the latter part of August or the first of September. Captain G. H. Lincoln testified before the Shenandoah court of inquiry here today. The flight was started September 1.
