FARMERS WILL BE GUESTS OF FORUM LUNCH

Closer Contact With Agriculturalists Hoped for by Chamber

APPLE WEEK PLANS

Chamber of Commerce planning a program of constructive work the coming fall and winter months...

As part of the program the chamber of commerce is inviting a large group of farmers from these districts to meet with them from time to time to study the best plans for getting direct results in the direction mentioned.

The first meeting will be held Tuesday, November 3, at the regular noon luncheon. At this meeting speakers from the different districts will be invited to give their opinions as to such plans as will give the best results, and also their own individual experiences the past year.

While this is National Apple Week and the apple will be especially featured on the menu the general trend of agricultural matters in the Ashland district will be the theme.

Every merchant is asked to invite some friend from these above mentioned sections and to plan for sufficient time to greet these friends at the hotel and make this first gathering a real start toward an outside building which will rival the activity of the year inside the city.

STEELHEADS OVER 15 INCHES MAY BE TAKEN DURING WINTER

Steelheads under 15 inches may not be taken from the Rogue river during the months of December, January, February, March and April, according to a ruling recently handed down by attorney General Van Winkle.

In preparing his answer to the query put to him by F. M. Brown, chief deputy game warden, Van Winkle took into consideration the definition of the word trout, and the fact that the portion of the Rogue river affected, namely, the portion in Josephine and Jackson counties, is not affected by the tide water of the Pacific Ocean.

San Francisco Paper Claims P. G. & E. to Buy Property

OFFICIALS DENY

Published announcement was made at San Francisco Wednesday that it is reported in buy financial circles that the Pacific Gas and Electric Company, and not the Byllesby interests, is to buy the California-Oregon Power Company.

The Pacific Gas and Electric Company has an interlocking system, the lines of the two companies hooking up near Delta, Shasta county. A special line was built down the Sacramento river canyon to accommodate this hookup.

Henry Walkers, division manager for the California-Oregon Power Company, is inclined to discredit the report. He denied the sale of the company to the Byllesby interests recently and it was his opinion that the present rumored sale is another version of the Byllesby report.

Her Diamond Caused a Murder

Mrs. Suzanne Crawford of San Antonio, Texas, showed her former husband, Charles Crawford, a diamond engagement ring her fiance, Prentice M. Henley, had given her. A quarrel resulted and Crawford was seriously wounded. Henley offered his blood, believing a transfusion operation might save Crawford's life, but he died.

Ancient City Discovered on Bottom of Sea

MOSCOW, Oct. 30.—The discovery of an ancient submerged city near Shikof, a sandy bank in the Caspian sea, was made today by Alexis Atayeff, a captain in the soviet mercantile fleet. Atayeff's ship, bound from Persia to Baku, accidentally changed her course and, while soundings were being made, noticed buildings on the sea floor.

Archaeologists are of the opinion that the discovery reveals the lost city of Kharadasheger, which is believed to have been submerged centuries ago by an earthquake which altered the coast line. Dwellers here have the tradition that several other cities were destroyed by the earthquake.

MONTREAL, Oct. 30.—(U. P.)—The Conservative party of Canada, led by Arthur Meighan, has overthrown the Liberal government of MacKenzie King, Canadian premier, returns early today from yesterday's general election showed.

The Conservatives have won about 120 seats. A total of 123 is necessary to give them a clear majority in the parliament, but it was generally conceded that with the help of a few Independent and Progressive votes, Meighan can form a ministry.

Tie Down All Things Movable for Tonight is Hallowe'en

If your gate isn't securely fastened to its hinges, go out this minute and tie it down. Also as a precautionary measure, either tie down everything movable on the place or put it inside, where the fingers of small youths may not remove it.

Tonight, the small youth of the city will be out in force, for it is not their one night of mischief? Hallowe'en comes but once a year, and the small boy attempts to crowd into that one night a whole year's mischief.

And don't be frightened if the youngsters tick-tack your window, or if you see a monstrous, lighted head peeping in at you.

NAVY DAY IS FEATURED AT KIWANIS MEET

Lieutenant Sorrell Speaks on Navy at Club Luncheon

"The period of real progress in the United States navy dates from the time Theodore Roosevelt became its secretary. When he became President, he did even more for the navy, and to all navy men, he is as great a hero as Jones or Dewey," said Lieutenant T. L. Sorrell, speaking at the luncheon of the Kiwanis club today.

Sorrell put in a plea for the enlisted man, he said that the term "ordinary sailor" was odious to the navy man, and that even the navy department had taken cognizance of the fact and changed the rating to seaman, second class.

MARKERS PUT ON GRAVES OF WAR DEAD

Six Monuments Placed Over Graves of Local Youths

SUPPLIED BY GOV'T.

New Requisition Being Made up by Local Legion Post. Inquiries Are Wanted

Beautiful grave markers are now resting over the graves of six Ashland world war heroes, veterans of the great conflict, who died either in the service or after returning to private life. They were put in place yesterday afternoon by members of a committee from Ashland Post No. 14, American Legion.

The monuments, which were supplied by the United States government, free of cost, are of pure white marble, nineteen inches wide, four inches thick and thirty nine inches in height.

Each monument was set in concrete to a depth of 17 inches, and the committee of Legion members worked almost the entire day yesterday in placing the markers over the graves of their departed comrades.

Delayed for almost three years, the markers arrived in Ashland early this week. A requisition was made for them three years ago, when Donald Spencer was commander of the local Legion post. For over a year, the requisition was buried, receiving no action from the government. Suddenly, the matter was received when Gerald Wanner, adjutant of the local post received a notification from the government, asking whether the markers were still wanted.

MERCHANTS OF CITY PLAN ACHIEVEMENT DAY, NOV. 14

The Tidings printing shop has been extremely busy during the last week installing new equipment. This task will be completed within a few days, and then printing operations will be switched from the old to the new equipment.

Following this, the old equipment will be dismantled and removed from the printing office, and the location of considerable of the equipment will be altered in order to make operation of the shop more convenient.

The changes and improvement will mark another step in the progress of Ashland institutions, placing The Tidings, which is one of the oldest institutions of the city, in the class of the best equipped small city newspaper plants in Oregon.

Many other improvements and progressive steps have been made.
