aid road money will be spent in Klamath county until it pays the $25,000 it now owes the government—and I don't mean maybe," declared Charles H. Purcell in charge of the United States bureau of public roads in this state.

The money he had planned on spending in Klamath county in 1926 is now available for any other part of the state," continued Purcell. "But Klamath county didn't keep its promise to us to clean up rights-of-way it agreed to clear and it only partly cleared the sections it agreed to clear ready for grading. "On one of these roads the government had to spend $20, 000 to do what the Klamath county court promised to do. Another place we had to spend $5,000 to do work that had been promised. Now, before we allot another penny to that county, which is the only county in the state that has not kept its promises to the government, the Klamath county court will have to pay us what it owes—and we have got to see the real money. No more promises goes."

RAILROADS OF COUNTY HAVE SPLENDID YEAR

message to Congress. These were:
 1. That the commission be relieved from the existing legislative requirement of adopting and publishing a complete plan for consolidation of all the railroads in the United States.

2. That the Commission be given supervision and authority over such voluntary consolidations, as the roads might project, say not receiving its permission to be declared unlawful.

"No hint of compulsory consolidation was contained in the report. The aim of its recommendations is to enable the roads to propose consolidations with the commission having the veto power."

Concerning the Hoch-Smith resolution investigation of the rate structure, the Commission said it was concentrating for the present on the western region because of repeated demands for readjustment of rates therein. At the same time, it is working out the details for a comprehensive study of the whole country to be launched soon.

Applications for the construction of 7,331 miles of new railroad were received from carriers during the year ended October 31, of which 2,632 miles were authorized and a number of applications are still pending. The mileage of new construction applied for this year is an encouraging sign, as the roads had been lagging in this respect in the difficult post-war years.

Applications for permission to issue securities were granted by the Commission during the year to the total of $907,777,654, of which $45,317,499 was for stocks, $673,349,866 for bonds, and the remainder for debentures, notes, equipment obligations and receivers' certificates.

The aggregate number of cars loaded with revenue freight during the year ended October 31 was estimated at 50,534,000, which surpassed all records. A daily average of 245,000 idle cars available during the year indicated total freedom from car shortages.

Only in Florida is their a serious situation with respect to congestion, and this, which the commission ascribed to the "unprecedented activity" in that state, probably cannot be remedied until an extensive program of double tracking along the East Coast from Jacksonville to Miami and the enlargement of terminal facilities is completed, the commission said.

The commission reported that it has practically completed the preliminary reports underlying its valuation of all railroads of the country. It further emphasized its faith in automatic train control devices as a prevention of accidents.

"The importance of continued effort to eliminate as far as possible preventable accidents, with their loss of life, injury to persons, and destruction of property, by installation of automatic train-stop or train-control devices can hardly be overstated," the Commission said.

Interesting sidelights on the railroad habits of the American public were cast by the report which showed that while Americans are riding the railroads less they are, on the average, making longer trips.

The number of passengers carried in the first seven months of 1925 was 6.4 percent less than in the corresponding period of 1924 and 9.9 percent under the same period of 1923.

The average journey per passenger, however, has lengthened as follows: 1915, 32.95 miles; 1917, 36.13 miles; 1920, 37.30 miles; 1923, 37.97 miles, and 1924, 38.25 miles.

"The great increase in travel by automobile, especially for short distances," the commission said, "probably accounts for this to a large extent."
