NO CHANGE IN GRAZING COST SAYS JARDINE (Continued from Page One)

The fees for grazing on the National Forests now average 12 cents per month for a cow and 3 cents per month for sheep, and bring into the Federal treasury more than $2,000,000 annually. The present commercial value of the forage is considerably more than this figure. On the other hand, if the fees were based upon the cost of administration only, as many stockmen have suggested, the rates would be cut to one third of what they are now.
