room. Here a varied program of plays, songs, groups of recitations and instrumental music was presented. Pupils are to be complimented and teachers congratulated on the way the different numbers were presented, and the same thing holds good in the other rooms.

The third and second grades gave their program in Miss Olson's room. Here, too, were beautiful exercises, each performing his or her part in exceptional manner. Some of the numbers were quite like fairy land. The program was varied, song, playlet and recitation lending variety.

The first grades held their programs in Miss Wattenberger's room with delightful numbers delightfully presented. The room was beautifully decorated, a fit setting for the pretty exercises.

In all the rooms the Christmas trees in its glory of adornment was seen, and lovely decorations, the work of the children's fingers added much of beauty.

A noteworthy item was the singing of the beautiful Christmas Carols and Hymns, "heard everywhere."
