Mr. and Mrs. Fleming were brought into the park. He was also interested in the establishment of the hospital. While not so actively engaged as formerly, Mr. Dodge is at his place of business every day and is thoroughly conversant with all that concerns the welfare of his home city.

The strongest interest in the life of Mrs. Dodge is her home, yet she finds time to take a definite part in many civic enterprises and to give devoted service to her church.

One of the organizations which holds place in her life is that of the Daughters of the American Revolution, of which she was the second Regent.

To Mr. and Mrs. Dodge a host of friends offer felicitations upon the anniversary just observed, and wish them many more such happy years.

A Notable Gathering—A notable gathering was that of the Dodge family, which were more than the usual number for other than the regular Christmas time, it was the anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Dodge and for this event all the children and grand children were present.

The festivities extended throughout the day and well into the evening. The crowning feature was the wonderful Christmas dinner and the beautiful tree with its gleaming ornaments laden with gifts and electrically lighted.

The table was a dream in its beautiful arrangement with its dainty appointments, and the artistry shown in decorative plan. Great red carnations glowed in cut glass vases, at either end of the table; in the center, on a golden standard was the anniversary cake crowned with its graceful knot of holly and surrounded by fifty gleaming red candles, inset to the wreath of similar which encircled the toothsome creation. Red candles lighted the table around which the entire family was seated.

The afternoon was spent in the delightful visit only possible at family reunions, with music and dancing to enliven the hours. All from the oldest to the youngest, participated in the merry making until well into the evening when supper was served.

The day brought not only lovely gifts and congratulatory messages from immediate relatives and friends, but many came from those who, while miles separated, yet were present in thought at this happy time.

Mr. and Mrs. Dodge were married at Monticello, Iowa, in 1875 and came to Ashland in 1885, where Mr. Dodge has been in business for the past forty years, at the head of one of the oldest firms of the city.

In earlier years, Mr. Dodge was very active in politics and has held many positions of honor, serving his city as mayor, for years as councilman and has been interested in various public projects, being a member of the Springs Commission, at the time the medicinal waters were brought into the park.

He was also interested in the establishment of the hospital. While not so actively engaged as formerly, Mr. Dodge is at his place of business every day and is thoroughly conversant with all that concerns the welfare of his home city.
