Saturday, January 9. — Daughters of the Nile Luncheon—Lithia Springs Hotel.

Mrs. Hunt Entertains. — Mrs. Ed Hunt was hostess at a special meeting of the Young Women's Missionary Society of the Methodist church, which was given particularly for the girls who are now home for their vacations.

The lesson was on "Prayer and Missions," and was conducted by Mrs. Frasier. A most interesting hour was spent in the study which was followed by the social hour at the close of which, the hostess served dainty refreshments.

There was an excellent attendance of the regular members and also of those whose work precludes their being present often.

Mrs. Reid and Miss Ethel. — Mrs. Reid and Miss Ethel Reid were hostesses at a dinner party last Sunday with covers laid for five at a dainty three course repast.

The complimented guests were Miss Edna Goheen and her brother Paul Goheen and Miss Gertrude Visitors for Christmas. — Mr. and Mrs. Gardner entertained Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Soukup of Medford on Christmas Day. The delicious dinner was a part of the celebration of Christmas, and the pleasant visit of relatives made it a very happy day.

Dinner Christmas Eve. — Mr. and Mrs. J. N. Thomas were host and hostess at a delightful three course turkey dinner Christmas Eve, with Mrs. C. O. Holman, the complimented guest. The evening was spent very happily in a cozy visit.

New Year's Dinner and Dance. — The New Year's dinner and dance given by the Lithia Springs hotel management was a most successful function with one hundred sixty guests present to enjoy the delightful hospitality.

The attractive five course turkey dinner was served from five-thirty until eight-thirty, with dancing in the ball room immediately after. Tables, dining room and ball room were resplendent in the Yuletide colors, holly and mistletoe being used effectively in the elaborate decorations. Dickey's orchestra furnished the music on this occasion, and dancing continued until twelve thirty, thus ushering in the New Year most joyously.

Entertain in Fern Valley. — Miss Gertrude Haan, Miss Edna Goheen and Paul Goheen were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Hamlin at their home in Fern Valley, New Year's Day. Mr. and Mrs. B. B. Stancliff were also guests at the delicious dinner which was a feature of the pleasant celebration of the New Year.

Reunion at the Miksch Home. — During the Christmas holidays Mr. and Mrs. Logan Julian and son, Walter Miksch a senior at Linfield and Miss Florence Stewart of Portland, also a student at Linfield were guests at the Miksch home in Bellview. The beautiful Christmas celebration, which is a part of the family observance each year, the lovely decorations, the delightful Christmas feast and the happy visit made this a memorable Christmas time.

Mr. and Mrs. Julian left within a few days, and Mr. and Mrs. Miksch drove their son and their guest to McMinnville for the opening of school.

The Liberty Bell featured in his programs by Lieut. Com. John Philip Sousa during his first tour at the head of his own organization, the season of 1892 and 1893, will be revived by the famous bandmaster for his third-of-a-century tour. Sousa began his career as a band director in 1880 when he assumed command of the United States Marine Band, in Washington. While he was director of the Marine Band, he laid the foundation of his fame as the "March King with such compositions as "High School Cadets," "Semper Parvulus" and others. In 1892 he resigned his commission to head his own organization.

Miss Nina Emory Entertains. — Miss Nina Emory was hostess New Year's Eve to a group of friends honoring Miss Minnie Poley and Miss Florence Allen who are home for the holidays.

Since it was New Year's Eve the gathering really became a very entertaining watch party. There were games, most interesting, for while the hours away, and the happy visit of old friends.

Those present to enjoy the pleasant hours were Mrs. Josephine Poley, Miss Minnie Poley, Miss Eva Poley, Mrs. Geneva Allen, Miss Florence Allen, Mrs. Arthur Wick, Miss Estella Hays, Miss Blanche Hicks, Miss Mary Niver, Miss Edna Goheen, Miss Gertrude Haan, Mrs. George Watson, Miss Hazel Emory and the hostess Miss Nina Emory.

TAGORE WOULD BE CHOSEN BY MUSIC TEACHER

Editor's Note: This is the fifth of a series of interviews with members of the University of Oregon faculty who are thoroughly conversant with literature. Each professor was asked what 12 books he would select if he were shipwrecked and had enough time to secure the volumes from a complete ship's library.

"Well, anyway, I would take 'The Gardener' by Tagore and the 'Rubylat.' These two books I never tire of. Then I would take a book called 'The Maxims of Methusalem'—the author's name I can't recall—but if there are any frailties of human nature that are not brought out in this refreshing, humorous and realistic book, I don't know what they are. You can read it over and over again.

"I think I would take a music criticism by Husker. They give me something to think about. It would make very enjoyable reading for a musician or one interested in music. Then I would take 'Les Miserables' by Hugo. I've read the novel about seventeen times, but I never get tired of it. I would snatch a book of folk songs, as they are easy to sing without an accompaniment. I would also take a volume of short stories, called 'Velvet Black and Others.' They are good and can stand being re-read.

"I would want a modern novel such as 'The Green Hat' which would let my mind run riot on some of the things I know I shouldn't be thinking about," Mrs. Beck laughed. "And last but not least, I would take the Bible. It is always a book to be read under any conditions, and one that can never be completely and thoroughly read.

"Now if I could possibly squeeze in another book, I would like to take some volume of world history, possibly a book like Wells' 'Outline of History.' There are not only things of interest in such a book for mere reading, but there is stimulus for a great deal of real thought, and the exercise of the imagination. I suppose that this list will seem to indicate that I am not sufficiently serious-minded, but you didn't give me any time at all."

Thank You

We wish to remark on the respect shown us by the people of this city. During the time of sorrow of their friends and neighbors, the citizens always allow the funeral cortege to pass without cutting through. We know that it means a delay to those who wait for a few moments. It is gratifying to have this respect shown us. We wish to thank you, one and all.

IF HUSBY HAD TO DO THE WASHING— THE CHANCES are that if hubby was invited to do the family washing or to stick around while it was being done he would say, "Let George do it." Our advice is to let one of our electric washing machines take the soil out of the garments and the toll out of your wife's life. Let us demonstrate their worthiness and guaranteedness.
