STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER
By CHAS. F. STEWART
WASH. Service Writer

WASHINGTON—One of our leading admirals took me but to the naval research laboratories, on the other side of the Potomac, not long ago, to see some scientific experimental work in progress there.

Just what it was has nothing to do with the story. I didn't understand it anyway.

The point is that the admiral is very much interested in it and wanted to stir up a little publicity in its behalf, with a view to extracting enough money from Congress to develop it still further.

WE TOOK A SHARP CURVE ON TWO WHEELS
The dusky driver turned calmly in his seat.
"My brake's no good," he observed placidly.
Well, we missed that truck by the breadth of a hair, to a chagrin (though only one voice furnished it) of "Port! Harg o' port! Port y' hellum!" and landed alive at the naval laboratory.

So we took a street car. We rode and we rode and finally we came to the end of the line.
"Now we got to get a gasol-wagon," said the admiral. "Hey!" he called, to an African youth, standing alongside a venerable filver nearby the street car terminal. "Can you take us to the naval laboratory You know where it is doncha?"
"Yassuh, yassuh," said the Senegambian.
This filver was of the model of the early 90's. It was fastened together with wire. A number of the parts were missing entirely. The wheels wobbled—threatened to come off, in fact. It had asthma. It had the blind staggers. It had paresis. It had everything.

Where do you keep your stumbling-block?
Every home has one. Sometimes it's the chair by the telephone; sometimes a kitchen stool, or an unsuspected plaything the youngsters have left in the hall.
Whatever it is, it's lurking somewhere about the house—in the dark.
Switch on the lights!
Light rooms—light halls—light stairways never harbor these dangers to careful grownups and running children.
Keep enough lights going throughout the house to make every part of it quick of access—and safe!
Electricity is the cheapest service you can buy.
