STEWART'S WASHINGTON LETTER

WASHINGTON—An American has been given command of the Liberian army. An Afro-American at that.

What's more, he's a good soldier. The War Department in Washington testifies to it and the War Department knows, for he's served under the Stars and Stripes since 1915.

The new head of the Liberian military establishment is Hansen Outley, late sergeant in the 9th United States Cavalry, World War veteran and all that.

Outley was in Washington recently, getting himself discharged from the 9th, securing a passport and winding up his other American affairs, with a view to a long stay abroad.

This is the first time an American Negro has been handed an army command and War Department folk were a lot interested, as they were at the Department of State, too.

Outley has a first class military record and his superiors were glad to fix matters to enable him to accept his Liberian offer, though sorry to see him go.

Originally General (formerly Sergeant) Outley is from Houston, Texas. He worked as a chauffeur and electrician before enlisting in the 349th Field Artillery at Jefferson Barracks, Mo., in September, 1915, when he was 23 years old.

During America's participation in the World War he had a hand in all the fighting on the St. Die sector and the fact that
