GOD REMEMBERS—"I am the God of Bethel, where thou anointest the pillar; now arise, get thee out from this land, and return unto the land of thy kindred." Gen. 31, 13.

PRAYER—Thou God of all grace, we rejoice to know that Thy promises are all yes and amen in Christ Jesus.

OREGON'S KEYNOTE

The Oregon state chamber of commerce could not have selected a more appropriate keynote in their annual meeting than the co-ordination of the state's agricultural and industrial development.

Neither will ever reach the maximum development unless the other is also growing and creates users of each others products.

When new settlers are procured for the uncultivated acres in Oregon, new industries will be attracted to our state; as new industries are located in Oregon cities, more settlers will locate on Oregon land to grow the products which will be necessary to feed the additional workmen in the factories.

THE AUTO MAP GAME

Woe be unto the tourist stranger who dallies with the auto maps of this country. The map game for tourists has been a good one for the profit of the map makers, but not for the progress of the tourist. Maps are usable for almost that for which they are intended. Always they are at least two years behind the times. There has been some ineffectual attempt to correct this evil in some states.

For a glaring example of what a map is not one does not need to go out of the vicinity of Klamath Falls. The California State Automobile Association still passes out a map with no indication on it of the Klamath Falls-Ashland highway. In fact this association has several such maps to sell and give away.

Failure to put the information on maps plays in, of course, with the bigger game of the association. If you are a member of the association or put your dollar on the counter when you wish to travel through a strange country it is surprising the amount of detailed information you can get, and most of the time it pays to spend the dollar. If it were possible to broadcast the same information, or map it, there would be no information to sell. Any map purchased, however, would be worth the money.

But when such an association as the California State continues to leave as important a link of highway as the Klamath Falls-Ashland stretch off the maps, and the maps distributed show an apparently good highway cutting across the mountains at a point twenty miles south of Eugene there is something wrong. Money is being obtained under false pretenses.—Klamath Falls News.

DON'T BE A MISER

The Treasury Department estimates that there are 8,000 misers in America, who keep their hoardings merely to gloat over them. The estimate is that $400,000,000 in cash is hidden away in mattresses, holes in the wall, in socks, in various clever or foolish places, instead of being deposited in safe banks. Money hidden away and not used is essentially dead. Much of it is destroyed in fires, by rats, by the death and forgetfulness of the holders. It's an utterly foolish thing to do — to slave away to earn money, putting one's lifeblood into it, and then lay it away to mould or to be stolen or lost. The only money worth having is the money at work.

Chicago authorities have adopted the "cafeteria" method of handing out fines to automobile violators. Some communities have gone them one better by eliminating even the option of selection at a cafeteria.

We might regret the lack of a chautauqua in Ashland, except for the fact that we might have to pay to hear Bill Mitchell tell us about why he resigned from the army.

Judge McCamant may be qualified to act as a judge, but we would not select him for the diplomatic service.

If you want real community boosters call on the Bellview citizens.

LOCAL PIONEER, L. W. BURRIS, BURIED SUNDAY

family by his side, he breathed his last.

Burriss, 25 years ago, was a familiar character on the muddy and rutty thoroughfare of Klamath Falls, known as Main street. The travelers knew him well because he formerly operated the Lakeside Inn which was located in the old town of Linkville.

Just prior to his stroke of paralysis, he conducted a ranch near Merrill, but was forced to forego active life when stricken. He is survived by his wife, a daughter, Mrs. R. L. Dalton, and two sons, Louis Burriss of Merrill and another son in California.

Mr. Burriss before coming to Klamath Falls, had lived for many years in Ashland.

ent plants absorbed the company has systematically and diligently concentrated its efforts upon encouraging wider uses of electricity by those now residing in the field it serves. It has also consistently carried on an energetic campaign in bringing to the attention of possible investors and settlers the multitude of resources of this country.

No phase of the possibilities of the territory is overlooked in this work. Agriculture, horticulture, timber resources, mining, stock raising and the commercial assets of the various communities are heralded to the public through every means available.

OREGON TOWNS PLAN CURB ON LIMITING LAWS

Loss of Home Rule Rights Through Freak Acts to be Contested

PORTLAND, Ore., Feb. 1. — Cities of Oregon want more home rule and they propose to revamp the state constitution so there will be no opportunity for the legislature to take away her rights of the cities to regulate their own affairs, it was indicated here today at the meeting of the League of Oregon Cities at which 25 towns were represented.

Oregon cities are also determined to take steps that will prevent the pollution of the streams of the state and direct their city engineers to cooperate in every study that will assist in finding the best method of doing it.

City and government health authorities told the cities that there was no time to lose in preparing to take care of the pollution of the streams, that the Willamette river rapidly is reaching its capacity as an open sewer and that sewage disposal plants must be provided. They also notified the cities that they would hold each city responsible for its share of the condition and suggested that all sewers constructed hereafter be so designed that they can be connected up to such plants without any waste of public funds.

NO COUNTY AGENT HAS BEEN CHOSEN

Still another week has passed and Jackson county continues to be without a county agent, as no successor has yet been appointed by the O. A. C. extension service to C. C. Cato, who resigned early in December and left the last of that month for his new home at Glendale, Calif. This situation becomes more interesting because of the marriage of Miss Cleone La Mar, as related elsewhere in this paper, who, after having served as stenographer at the county agent's office for the past two and one-half years, announces she wants to resign as soon as the new official takes hold, and will remain only long enough to help him get his bearings in the office; further, that if the appointment is not made very soon she may quit anyhow. And Cleone has always been "a man of her word."

In the meantime, Robert G. Fowler, county club leader, is serving as acting county agent, because he can't dodge it.

made a most efficient and pleasing office, and received much praise for her work during her incumbency of the highest office in the gift of her lodge.

Installation of officers will occur at Omega Psi

The program was of the nature that recalled the days of childhood. A happy, sunny, loving appearance of little Miss Patricia Hastings as a lovely little baby, covered in blue and pink, which was also the color scheme carried out in the decorations used in the spacious room. The little lady did the part assigned her very gracefully. There were also several such responses with clever rhyme.

Daughters of the Nile Luncheon

A luncheon at the Lathia Springs hotel, at 12:30 p. m., was the opening feature of the ceremonial of the Daughters of the Nile, which met in Ashland Saturday.

Covers were laid for sixty-five guests, with the Supreme Queen, Mrs. Winifred Lee of Portland, and the seven candidates as guests of honor.

After luncheon, adjournment was made to Masonic Hall, which was beautiful in its oriental decorations. Mrs. Lulu Franco was chairman of the committee which had the work in charge.

After an inspiring talk by the Supreme Queen she was presented with a handsome picture of Crater Lake.

One of the eleven candidates initiated into the Ancient Egyptian ceremonial of the Daughters of the Nile was from Salem; the others from Ashland, Medford and Grants Pass.
